Airplanes be Answer to English Ultimatum, is Minister's Cry

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MOSCOW, June 19.—An attack on England, hints of a Russo-German rapprochement and a call for "more metal in our national character," marked an address by Leon Trotzky, soviet War minister, today before the All-Russian Congress of Metal Workers.

The ultimatum is presented to Persia unchanged, referring to the recent British notes, "let us create a large fleet of airplanes. If a coup d'etat occurs in Bulgaria, let us build another detachment of airplanes and if there is a coup d'etat in Persia, build more planes. The iron in our will must be welded to the iron wings of airplanes that we can say, looking down from above at our squadrons flying over the coup d'etat in Persia' and Bulgaria, etc. If we transform the sentiments of the bourgeoisie into airplanes, then perhaps we shall succeed sometime to bring an end to our criminalities."

RAPS CURZON

Trotzky said England and France had, according to information at hand, assisted in the coup d'etat in Bulgaria and the British aided in the Nationalist overthrow in Persia. Declaring that armaments were increasingly greater than during the World War, Trotzky added:

"It is for this purpose, perhaps, that Lord Curzon felt strong enough to deliver his ten-day ultimatum. It was necessary that the Russian workmen and soldiers should be afraid. This account we shall present to the proletariat.

"Russia remains true to her peaceful policy. In the international sphere her role was also determined by her international policy. In reality hers was a peaceful role. When the Entente secretly opens the safes of secret diplomacy the records will show and not already do show the real role of England in the World War.

RUHR POLICY

"Our attitude is the same in regard to the Ruhr as England had not wished for us to do so, there would have been no Ruhr occupation. To drive the peoples into struggle they first cut aside themselves, in order to be able to appropriate Ruhr coal. This is the traditional policy of the British bourgeoisie."

Trotzky, by yielding, saved herself from falling into Lord Curzon's trap, he said, finally forcing Curzon into the souls of the British proletariat that wanted peace. "We have seen the English proletariat," he said. "They are good workers, heavy leather souls. From them are built the skulls which can be beat with a hammer without any fine."

Trotzky asserted, had again entered a stormy period in which, he stressed, many complications, similar to the British ultimatum and perhaps more serious.

FRENCH TREATY

SOLID SOUTH WOULD RULE, BUT NOT PAY

Eight G.O.P. States Put Up Seventy-five Per Cent of Federal Levy

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Statistics of income and the income tax prepared by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the year 1921 show that eight Northern States paid 75 per cent of the Federal income tax for that year.

Republican party leaders are pointing to the fact that these eight States are Republican States. The commonwealths which bear the heaviest burden of the income tax, together with the percentage of the total tax collected within their boundaries is as follows:

Illinois, 9.53 per cent; California, 5.06 per cent; Massachusetts, 6.47 per cent; Michigan, 3.36 per cent; New Jersey, 4.62 per cent; New York, 29.26 per cent; Ohio, 4.67 per cent; Pennsylvania, 11.76 per cent; total for eight States, 74.77 per cent.

SOLID SOUTH'S SHARE

Of fifteen States which contributed more than 1 per cent of the total amount of Federal income tax collected, only one—Texas can be classified as a "Solid South" Democratic State.

The twelve Democratic States which lie south of the Mason and Dixon line contributed only 8 per cent of the total amount of Federal income tax collected for the year 1921. These States are: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia. Of these Maryland contributed 2.03 per cent of the total Federal income taxes paid and Texas, 1.76 per cent.

With Texas and Maryland out, the other solid South States only paid 4.39 per cent of the total amount of Federal income tax collected in 1921. Commenting on this the Republican National Committee said in a statement today:

"Yet the solid South States form the backbone and the sinew of the Democratic party. When the Democratic party is in control of the Congress they are the States which control the committees of both houses of Congress and which exercise dominating influence over all tax legislation.

TAXES PER CAPITA

"The aggregate income tax collected in the following States averaged more than $10 per capita, based on the population of those States: California, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York and Rhode Island. It is interesting to note that the aggregate amount of income tax paid in Rhode Island brought the average percapita in that State up to $15.28, or second only to New York. Massachusetts, with a per capita average of $12.08 stood third in the list."

A little over 86 per cent of those making returns were of income per capita in that State up to $15.28. The largest number of returns were made by the classes reporting incomes between $1000 and $2000. The number of returns made by this class was 2,440,544 or 36.63 per cent of all returns.

BANK CASHIER ARRESTED

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WICHITA (Kan.) June 19.—Phillip A. Drum, cashier of the American State Bank of Wichita, one of the largest State banks in Kansas, was arrested and released on bond of $15,000 this afternoon on a charge of misappropriation of funds of the institution.

LOS ANGELES DRY LEADER TRANSFERRED

Changes Made for "Good of Service;" Politics Not Involved

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Transfers of eight high prohibition officers, affecting enforcement work in nineteen States, were announced today by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, who said all of the shifts were "for the good of the service" and in pursuance of the policy of developing a mobile force of enforcement officers.

Those affected by today's orders are divisional chiefs and include officials having headquarters at Philadelphia, Chicago, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Washington, D. C.; Highpoint, N. C., and Jacksonville, Fla. The transfers are effective July 1.

A. R. Harris, in charge at Chicago of the Illinois-Wisconsin-Michigan division, will come to the national capital as successor to Edgar N. Read, and will be succeeded at Chicago by W. W. Anderson, now stationed at Los Angeles in charge of the California-Nevada-Hawaii division.

The new Los Angeles chief will be E. E. Hunt, now chief of the Missouri-Kansas-Oklahoma-Arkansas division, with headquarters at Kansas City. Mr. Hunt is to be succeeded by William Whitney, formerly assistant State director at Seattle, Wash., and former law officer at prohibition headquarters here.

F. A. Hazeltine, now at Philadelphia, will be transferred to head the Florida-Porto Rico division, with headquarters at Jacksonville, where activities against rum runners from Cuba and the Bahamas are centered. He has been at Philadelphia since March 1.

The Girl He Left Behind Him

RUIN, DESOLATION SPREADING OVER GREAT TERRITORY

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CATANIA (Italy) June 19.—The great lava torrent from Mt. Etna, bearing in its flow great masses of earth and volcanic stone, already has reached the houses on the outskirts of the town of Linguaglossa.

Green fields, orange groves and vineyards have been swallowed up, and for miles around the atmosphere is suffocating with volcanic smoke and a rain of ashes which is covering the countryside like a pall.

Several of the small houses in Linguaglossa have been shaken down by the frequent earth shocks, and the town is directly in the line of the lava and is doubtless doomed to destruction.

The molten stream is traveling about forty yards an hour, and unless some miracle happens Linguaglossa will go under during the night. Confronting it is a lava bed 800 yards wide and nearly 20 feet deep.

Smaller torrents of lava, diverted from the central stream, threaten the villages of Randazzo and Bronte, from which so many tourists make the ascent of Etna. Franca villa, Castiglione, Giardiani and Fiumefreddo.

CLEAR DOOMED TOWNS

The work of clearing the threatened towns is being carried out with the greatest energy and admirable organization. Discipline is necessary to induce the terrified inhabitants to abandon their beloved homes, but their removal is carried out with sympathy and kindness. Airplanes are being used for the first time to watch the progress of the eruption and special signalling stations have been established at various strategical points, giving confidence to the people in the fact that they are being protected. Special units of the Red Cross, with all supplies, have been dispatched to care for the homeless wanderers and provide food and shelter for them.

A new stream of lava on the western side of Etna menaces the Giarra Junction on the Etna railway. According to leading volcanologists, six new craters have opened, only two of which, however, are of the first importance. In these can clearly be seen the lava in frightful turmoil being ejected in irregular spurts amid vast clouds of fumes and ashes, forming two streams of liquid death, one of which is rolling down on Linguaglossa, the other moving toward Sciaro Pass, but threatening no inhabited points, though causing immense damage to the vineyards and nut plantations which constituted the wealth of the countryside.

MOVEMENT IS SLOW

The speed of the latter stream is so slow, however, it is hoped it will not advance far, but rather form a kind of lake in one of the valleys.

Numberless heartrending episodes are being enacted in this theater around Etna. The affection of the peasants for their homelands renders their evacuation a difficult and delicate task. In one case a woman refused to abandon her vineyard, declaring that her whole life had been given over to its cultivation, that its existence was her existence and its death her death. They endeavored to carry her away but she rushed back to the trees and embraced and kissed them singly, calling them her children. When finally she was removed it was found she had lost her reason.

The exodus of the inhabitants began soon after the first eruption and a steady line has been slowly traveling in the direction of safety for the past two days. When they started from their homes the people were loaded with household treasures, but gradually along the road these have been abandoned.

Mob Fight Fatal

SAVANNAH (Ga.) June 20.—One man is dead here this morning and several others are in hospitals in more or less serious condition as a result of firing in a mob assembled in front of the jail where Walter Lee, negro, charged with criminal assault on a white woman, is being held. O. Claude Parker, Jr., the dead man, was shot in the stomach and died a few minutes later in a hospital.

Truck Upsets; Two Die

FRESNO, June 19.—Pinned beneath several tons of steel rods in five feet of water near Los Banos, Merced county, this afternoon, Arjle LeRoux, 18 years of age, of Geyserville, and an unidentified laborer were drowned when a truck on which they were riding overturned in an irrigation canal. Passersby discovered the accident an hour after it occurred, and it was necessary to remove several tons of steel before the bodies could be recovered.

Angeleno Not Identified

NEW YORK, June 19.—Six witnesses called by the government before a United States commissioner today failed to identify Donald C. Thompson, a motion-picture photographer of Los Angeles, as a man who had swindled book salesmen by giving them worthless checks for valuable editions. The swindles were perpetrated during the World War, the culprit posing as Lieutenant-Commander Wainwright, U.S.N. The hearing was adjourned until later in the week.

Risks Life, Saves Others

BEND (Or.) June 19.—While the lives of six men hung in the balance, Charles Branch, 19 years of age, risked his own life as a sacrifice to save theirs, snatching a box of burning fuse and high explosives from under the seat of the automobile truck in which his companions were riding. A moment later he was hurled into the air by the explosion, suffering terrible injuries, but his companions escaped, two with only minor hurts and the others unscathed. Tonight the boy is in a Bend hospital.

Reds and Police War in Streets of Buenos Aires

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BUENOS AIRES, June 19.—One man was killed and eighteen wounded, several probably fatally, as a result of a pitched battle this afternoon between Communists and police, who had orders to prevent a public manifestation in one of the city's parks in protest against the murder of Kurt Wilckens a few days ago. It had previously been announced the general strike would terminate tonight. It is expected now that it will likely be continued.

When the police prevented any gathering in the park a crowd of Communists went to the bakers' union headquarters and shooting started as the police attempted to oust them. Several policemen were among those wounded. The man killed was run over by an automobile trying to escape from the danger zone.

RUM SHIP PENALTY UPHELD

United States Appeals Court Affirms Condemnation and Forfeiture of British Liquor Boats

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, June 19.—Judge Hough of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed the condemnation and forfeiture of the British schooner Henry L. Marshall, the first rum runner seized by the coast guard outside the three-mile limit.

Affirming the order of Federal Judge Mazel, Judge Hough held that "there was an unloading without permit and a failure to produce a manifest when demanded within four leagues of the coast," and that there also was "a failure to report arrival in putting in to a small harbor on the Long Island coast or to make report of the distilled spirits on board."

The liner Majestic arrived today after a record run from Cherbourg, bone dry except for thirty six gallons of brandy, required by British law for emergency medicinal use.

Although she had started with her usual smoking-room supply of liquor and, in addition, private stocks which some passengers had ordered in England, the entire supply was gone before the three-mile limit was reached and there was none to be thrown overboard.

"It took the best efforts of the passengers to do it" said one ship's officer, "but we now have only the British legal requirements of one gallon of brandy for each 100 passengers and members of the crew, and the regular supply for the lifeboats."

Members of the crew said the prospect of a dry voyage home was "terrible"—but they said it with smiles that indicated that they had hopes of one sore or another.

Avery Hopwood, American playwright, who was one of the Majestic's passengers, claimed the record achievement on the trip across, declaring he had started with twenty-five quarts of champagne, gins, vermouth and wine, and had reached the three-mile limit just as his cabin went dry.

The record established for five days, 12 hours and 13 minutes from Cherbourg to Ambrose channel light was for the extreme southern track. A record day's run of 609 miles was also made.

CHIROPRACTOR BOARD OUT

Superior Court Decides State Body Appointed by Gov. Richardson Held Office Illegally

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—The California State Board of Chiropractors, composed of five members and appointed by Gov. Richardson recently, was ousted from office by a decision in the Superior Court here today.

The decision, handed down by Judge Walter Perry Johnson, ruled that none of the board members had complied with a provision of the Chiropractic Act adopted by the voters at the last election, which requires members to have at least three years' active practice in their profession. Suit was brought by George D. Gillespie of San Francisco, a chiropractor, and said to be a member of a faction opposed to Gov. Richardson's appointments.

While no announcement has been made as to future action of those affected by today's ruling, it was intimated that the case would be taken to the State Supreme Court.

Those affected and whose tenure of office is declared illegal are Drs. Ray S. Labarre, president of the board; W. A. Messick, secretary; James Compton, Albin Peterson and Joseph Edgerton.

The illegality of their appointment, the court said, consists in their having practiced their profession without first obtaining a license from the State Board of Medical Examiners; hence any practice was a misdemeanor.

Such practice cannot be construed as practice, the court said, although a person or persons appointed to the board may have had many years' experience in their profession. It is known that most, if not all members of the board have had three years of what the court termed illegal practice.

PRUES WINS NOMINATION FOR SENATE

Triumph of Minnesota's Governor is Considered Harding Victory

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. PAUL, (Minn.) June 19.—With Gov. Preus more than 18,000 in the lead over Judge Oscar Hallam of St. Paul, in the primary race for the Republican Senatorial nomination, it was announced at 1 p. m. today at Hallam headquarters that Judge Hallam and Charles W. Sterling, his campaign manager, will turn in and support Preus in the final election, July 16. The nomination of Gov. Preus is considered an administration victory.

With returns from Monday's State-wide primary from 1931 precincts out of 3,520 in the state, Gov. Preus's lead had passed the 18,000 mark indicating that his lead probably would be 30,000 when the count is completed.

With the G.O.P. race settled, interest centered in the Farmer-Labor party contest. Former State Senator Magnus Johnson was increasing his lead over Mayor L. A. Fritsche of New Ulm as later returns became available.

Johnson's lead had passed the 10,000 mark with 1900 precincts reported in the Farm-Labor race.

The Farmer-Labor State central committee was called in session this afternoon. It was indicated an aggressive campaign will be made for the party's nominee.

State Senator James A. Carley won a decisive victory over Francis C. Cary for the Democratic nomination on the face of returns. Totals for these returns in the Democratic race were: Carley 5896; Cary, 2007.

On the face of present returns, the total vote cast during Monday's primary will not exceed 400,000. This is less than half the State's voting strength.

HOOVER GOES FISHING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—Herbert C. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, arrived in Sacramento today and left immediately by automobile on a fishing trip to the McCloud River country.

He was met at the station by Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford Univedsity, who accompanied him on the fishing trip.

FOUR DEAD IN MIDDLE WEST HEAT

Chicago and Minneapolis Suffer From Wave That Shows No Let-up

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, June 19.—Two deaths were reported today as a result of the heat wave which struck Chicago yesterday and continued unabated today, although slight relief was found late this afternoon in a shower which lasted a few minutes. The temperature this afternoon reached 91 degrees.

Joseph Ferguson fell in Lake Michigan from a pier when he was overcome by the heat. Stanley Hollandbeck, painter, was overcome at work and fell four stories. He was dead when picked up.

The excessive heat will continue for Chicago and the surrounding territory for several days, the local weather bureau announced.

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.) June 19.—Two deaths attributed to the heat were reported to the police here today. The maximum temperature was 88.

Frank Markoffski 52 years of age, a farmer living just outside of town, was overcome by the heat and fell from the seat of the wagon he was driving. He died.

Frank Cole, 70, of Albert Lea, Minn., was stricken with heart disease, aggravated by the heat, and died in his automobile.

Chauffeurs on Strike Suspend Another Burial

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 19.—Continuing their fight against the Chicago Motor Liverymen's Association, which started several days ago when officials of the employers' association refused to grant a wage increase to their chauffeurs, officials of the Auto Livery Chauffeurs' Union halted another funeral today.

When the funeral of Mrs. Bertha Hafer was ready to start from her late home, G. Strane, the undertaker, was informed that the union chauffeurs would not work.

The funeral was delayed until another hearse was substituted by an independent liveryman. It was said today that a number of undertakers intend to dispense with hearses and have pallbearers carry caskets from the homes of the deceased to the various railroad stations which connect with the cemeteries.

FORD MAY DECIDE TO RUN FOR PRESIDENT

BOSTON, June 19.—Henry Ford may decide to become a candidate for the Presidency of the United States. The Detroit automobile manufacturer today in an interview here declared that he had never stated, as declared in newspapers last Sunday, that he would not be a candidate for President.

PASTOR'S FUNERAL TODAY

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEVADA CITY (Cal.) June 19. Arrangements are complete for the funeral here tomorrow of Rev. Josiah Sims, who died in Sacramento yesterday at the age of 88 years. He was pastor of the Congregational Church here for forty years and it was closed eight years ago when he resigned. In the 80's he served two terms in the State Legislature and was credited with being the father of the Whittier Reform School.

BROMLEY BILL IS REJECTED

Richardson Will Not Sign Measure Aimed at Last Minute Appointments of Retiring Governors.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—Gov. Richardson announced this afternoon that he will not sign Assembly Bill No. 980, known as the Bromley bill, as there is some question as to its legal effect. The Governor said the bill represented the taxpayers in their fight against the tax eaters and that last-minute appointees of the former administration had tried to block his economy plans.

In a statement the Governor said:

"Assembly bill 980 would abolish last-minute appointments of retiring governors and give incoming governors control of their official family. Just before I took office nearly three score appointments were made to State boards and commissions.

"On close examination it appears that the general terms of the bill may make its application to specific statutes doubtful and result in litigation and complications. In failing to sign the bill I realize I am inflicting cruel punishment upon a band of discredited politicians who are planning once more to parade their virtues before the public by misuse of the referendum and at great expense to the people.

Slayer Murder Suspect Assumes Role of Wife Fourteen Years Before Trapped

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, June 19.—Fred Thompson, who, for several hours following his arrest today as the "smiling" woman bandit who shot and killed C. Tesmer during a hold-up, had police officials stumped as to whether he was a man or woman, tonight was declared to be a man after medical examination. For male prisoners and not confined in women's quarters, as previously had been ordered.

"God gave me a double nature," Thompson is reported to have told police under questioning. "When I was 18 years old I was chased out of my home by my father. I am 32 now. Fourteen years ago I was married to Frank Carrick at Crown Point. During recent years I appeared as singer in a North Side cabaret."

When arrested, Thompson wore bobbed auburn hair, a black-beaded dress, black silk pumps and black silk hose. In searching the apartment, several wigs, a load revolver and numerous photographs of Thompson in both male and female attire were found.

Tesmer was shot as he stepped from his automobile on returning at night with his wife to their home. Two bandits, one apparently a woman, stopped them as they were about to enter the garage. Tesmer was shot during the hold-up and the two escaped in Tesmer's car, which later was abandoned.

First Part of Program Involves Destruction of Labor Body; Evidence Confirms It

[The following is the third of a series of articles exposing the menacing activities of Communists, Trotskiists and other Reds in America. The articles as a whole constitute a complete expose of the well thought out national and international plots against society.]

III

BY FRED E. MARVIN

[Copyright, 1923, by New York Commercial]

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 19.—About a year ago Chester N. Wright, of the American Federation of Labor, in a signed article which was furnished every labor publication in the United States, denounced Communism in plain language, referred to many of those who were giving it aid and comfort by name in unmistakable language, and said the purpose in the United States was:

"(1.) To destroy the American Federation of Labor.

"(2.) To destroy the government of the United States."

The charge is correct. It has been proved by direct and documentary evidence brought out at the trials of William Z. Foster and Charles E. Ruthenberg for violating the criminal syndicalism law of Michigan. The Red Trade Union International, a soviet Russian movement, long since sent orders to its American agents to secure control of the American Federation of Labor and move the members en masse into the Communist party.

The man selected to do this work was William Z. Foster. This Foster does not deny. When testifying in his own behalf at St. Joseph, Mich., he said he had been a Socialist most of his life; that he had been an I.W.W. and had worked for I.W.W. papers and served a term for I.W.W. activities; that he had studied industrial conditions in foreign countries and in France found syndicalism appealing to him. So he returned to the United States and formed the Syndicalist League of North America of which he became secretary, at the time writing a book on syndicalism.

QUOTES FOSTER'S BOOK

That one may gain a fair idea of Foster and his mental attitude, a few extracts from this book read to the jury in the Foster trial will be of interest:

"In his choice of weapons the syndicalist is no more careful to select those that are 'fair,' 'just' or 'civilized' than is a householder attacked in the night by a burglar. . . . He proposes to develop, regardless of the capitalist's conception of 'legality,' 'fairness,' 'right,' etc., a greater power than have his capitalist enemies, and then wrest from these enemies by force, the industries. . . . The syndicalist is a race suicider. . . . The syndicalist is unscrupulous in his choice of weapons. He allows no consideration of 'legality,' 'religion,' 'honor,' 'patriotism,' 'duty,' etc., to stand in the way of his adoption of effective tactics. . . . The syndicalist takes no cognizance of society. He leaves the rag-tag mass of parasites that make up the nonworking class of society to look after its own interests. The syndicalist is a strictly nonstatist. He considers the State a meddling capitalist institution. He is a radical opponent of law and order. . . . The syndicalist is a radical antipatriot. He is a true internationalist, knowing no country."

"Yes, I wrote that," said Foster when on the witness stand, "but I renounced the views shortly thereafter."

It would appear, however, the renunciation was more because he found he could not accomplish his end, that of destroying the American Federation of Labor, by openly expressing such sentiment, than because of any change of heart; and then, too, if he ever did renounce these views, his later acts fail to indicate it.

EVIDENCE AT TRIAL

Time and time again it has been charged the Trade Union Educational League headed by Foster was a direct part of the Communist plan to destroy in the United States, and that order for such an organization originated in soviet Russia. These charges were proved by evidence submitted at Foster's trial. There it developed, both by oral and documentary evidence, that the Trade Union Educational League is the "industrial department" of the Communist party and that in printed matter, so that its identity might be hidden, it is known only as "X."

Foster came to the Bridgman Communist convention as a fraternal delegate, having been defeated as a regular delegate by the influence of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers in Chicago. At the Bridgman convention he made an address explaining fully the work of the Trade Union Educational League, and the good it might do in the future to strengthen Communism. In the notes of the stenographer of the convention appears this:

"The Trade Union Educational League idea was put over 100 per cent at the convention."

"To intensify ten fold the activities of the whole membership of the Communist party in the Trade Unions is not only a question of life and death of the party, but along side another form of work among the masses the best counter-balance against controversies that tear the party to pieces. The road to revolution in America leads over the destruction of the yellow leadership of the American Federation of Labor."

While Foster denied he was a Communist, yet there was no denial that his left bower in this work and in the publication of the Labor Herald, Earl Browder, was a Communist and a member of the "inner circle" or the central executive committee. Indeed, when Foster completed his talk at the Communist convention, Browder followed with the next address and on the same subject.

FOSTER'S OWN STATEMENT

But just what is in Foster's mind so far as the work of the Trade Union Educational League is concerned, can best be gained from extracts of that speech. On the witness stand he admitted the remarks were in substance his, yet denied some of the language, especially when the language was liable to incriminate him. He said:

"We lay stress on the trade union work because whoever wants to reach the working class must conquer the labor organizations. You can't have a revolution in this country unless you control the unions of the country."

Foster admits the Trade Union Educational League is of Communist origin and was conceived by the "inner circle" of the Red trade union international sitting at Moscow, Russia.

"We came back from Moscow with a practical program for this country. It was laid before the central executive committee of the Communist party and was approved. Then it was indorsed by the membership and we organized the Trade Union Educational League. . . . We are at a great disadvantage because we cannot come out and say that this is a Communist organization. In our actions we were especially influenced by the experience of the revolutionary syndicalists in France."

Communism of today is syndicalism of yesterday. That is, every method of syndicalism which can be successfully employed by Communism has been employed and Foster with this Trade Union Educational League cannot get away from syndicalist beliefs, since it is syndicalism under another and most deceptive name. This he frankly admits. In his Bridgman address he said:

STRATEGY AGAINST LABOR

"We are learning in the Trade Union Educational League, patterned after the syndicalist movement in France, to organize a left wing bloc in the labor movement which means this movement will not consist wholly of Communists, but of all the honest susceptible material we can induce to go along in a general way. The honest trade union man is the determining element."

As every one knows, in the labor world there are two distinct groups, the loyal, sincere, high-minded and educated, which Foster refers to as the "honest trade union man," and those who have little education, do no thinking or reasoning for themselves, and who are called by Foster the "ignorant masses." Those in the first group can never be won to Communism except by deceptive methods, by carefully concealed fraud, falsehood and intrigue. The others can always be won by the Communist system of "coercion." Listen to Foster:

"My conception of the Communist movement is not a movement that is primarily a rank and file movement, but my conception is that it is a militant movement, and that does not mean you will always be in agreement with the masses. . . . The Russian revolution is a work of militant Communists. In Russia if the Communists decide on a program they put that program into effect if they have to coerce the ignorant masses that do not rise to the height of a revolutionary program. We of this country must learn that lesson. The masses are mostly guided by emotion, but the Communist movement must not be guided by emotion."

Foster and his band of revolutionary Communist workers appear every night some place in this country before audiences of working men to induce them to become allied with Communism through the Trade Union Educational League, but never tell them they are agents of the Red Trade Union International of Russia. They lay great stress on the "toiling masses" and yet when among themselves and in the secrecy of one of their own conventions, believed safe from prying eyes or interested ears, they frankly refer to the "toiling masses" as the "ignorant masses" and insist they must be "coerced" into joining the revolutionary movement.

The Trade Union Educational League is not an honest organization of honest persons, honestly seeking the good of the working class. On the contrary, it is a well concealed part of the Communist movement, guided in all activities from Soviet Russia. Here again are the words of Mr. Foster:

"The Communist Party must continue to be the inner circle, the Trade Union Educational League standing between it and the masses' organizations. We (the Communists) must control the Trade Union Educational League and extract from the trade unions the radical elements and convert them into the league which we control with the Communists. Don't think because they are Americans they cannot be made Communists. Look at what we have already done!"

And well may all loyal craft union men look and weep. Well may all employees look and wonder.

During the past two years there has been a great campaign in this country known as the "open shop" movement. Wage earners of every craft have been made to believe this a monster, sinister movement on the part of employers to crush labor, take from it all the rights it has secured, decrease wages and increase working hours.

This sort of propaganda, so cleverly prepared in Communist headquarters and distributed to the union men through the Trade Union Educational League, the Federated Press and many of the so-called "liberal" organizations which are secretly controlled by Communists, and too often acquiesced in by some of the leaders in the American Federation of Labor, has been absorbed readily and greedily by the "honest trade union man" who, Foster says, must be secured in some way.

There would be no open-shop movement if there were no Communists actively directing in the ranks of organized labor.

No doubt many sincere employers will deny the correctness of this statement, saying the trouble fundamentally is that of organized labor; and no doubt many sincere, loyal union men will deny the correctness of this statement, saying the fundamental fault lies with the greed of employers. But let those who question lay aside their prejudices, and with an honest desire to gain the truth, make their own impartial investigation.

Those who will do this can come to but one conclusion, and that is, the differences which exist between employer and employee are not real but more or less fancied, though made real in the minds of a great many by the clever work of the one world-wide movement that is determined to destroy civilization and Christianity.

The next article will deal with the methods used by Communists to "bore from within" both labor and farmers' organizations.

NEW NIGHT SERVICE

Los Angeles Times Information and Resort Bureau

Due to the large number of newcomers arriving in Los Angeles after regular business hours, many of whom are unfamiliar with the city and often experience difficulty in finding their way about, The Times Information and Resort Bureau will inaugurate a new free night service, beginning Monday, June 18.

On and after that date, a complete question-answering service will be maintained up to 11 o'clock every night except Sundays. Strangers may step into any telephone booth, call up "Pico 700" or "10391," and receive intelligent, accurate directions as to how to reach any railroad depot, bus line or steamship office—where to take cars for any part of the city or surrounding towns—how to reach hotels, resorts, theaters, churches, hospitals, schools, etc.

This will be no mere perfunctory or half-organized service. The bureau will be in charge of an expert and information seekers will receive the same cordial attention that has made so many friends for the day-time hours.

Everyone, and particularly readers of The Times, are asked to consider that the new service is theirs, to use whenever and as often as they wish.

POLITICS NOT INVOLVED

Most of the transferred regional chiefs have had long experience in work against liquor law violators, almost all having been internal revenue agents before being transferred to prohibition work. The transfers constitute the largest group of prohibition personnel changes in many months.

Political or other considerations than efficiency, Commissioner Haynes said, were not involved in the transfers, which were determined upon at conferences between Commissioner Blair of the Internal Revenue Bureau, Commissioner Haynes and E. C. Yellowly, chief of prohibition agents.

Trotzky declared that the soviet diplomacy had torn to pieces the whole fabric of the bourgeoisie plans and that Russia had again gained a certain respite for a short period at least. No full guaranty of peace was yet in sight, however. There still remained that possibility of a gigantic revolutionary upheaval in the East and it was this that agitated England.

The British were greatly worried, he declared, over the soviet's new plan of giving further autonomy to the Russian dependencies in the East where, for example, Bohara and Turkestan would soon have their own national armies.

CONTEMPT KEEPS MEN OUT OF STATE'S PRISON

FULLER AND McGEE SENTENCED; HELD IN JAIL ON FEDERAL ORDER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 19.—Edward M. Fuller and William F. McGee, confessed bucket shop operators, today were sentenced to serve from one and a quarter to four years in Sing Sing prison for their offense. But United States Attorney Hayward indicated they might be old men before they got a chance to begin serving the sentences which, with time off for good behavior, would amount to eleven months.

Fuller and McGee, jailed by Federal court order for contempt in failing to turn over to the receiver in bankruptcy records of their firm, must clear themselves in the eyes of the Federal authorities before they can leave Ludlow Street Jail to start serving their Sing Sing terms, Mr. Hayward declared, and the only way they can purge themselves, he added, is to yield up the records, with their possible evidence leading to a bucket shop ring, or at least to disclose the workings of this supposed ring, and say who its members are.

FORMER SERVANT HELD IN THEFT OF JEWELS

Having disappeared from the home where she was employed as a servant, the police say, at the same time jewelry valued at $300 vanished, Irene Peterson, 25 years of age, said by police to have been employed by Mrs. F. A. Shapiro, 224½ North New Hampshire avenue, was arrested last night by Detectives Kirk and Bayne on suspicion of grand larceny.

RADIO PICTURES PERFECTED

French Scientist Succeeds in Transmitting Flash of Photograph Over Wireless Telephone

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

PARIS, June 19.—Transmission of photographs by wireless in which the image of an individual can be visualized at either end of a telephone has reached the highest perfection in experiments being conducted in Paris in connection with the anniversary celebration for Edouard Branly, the French inventor of the radio.

The result of years of study, a French scientist, Edouard Belin, succeeded in transmitting an instantaneous flash of an object on a screen adjacent to the telephone receiver. Although M. Belin has not tried to reproduce the image of a person in motion, he declares it will be but a matter of a few more months when the screen will be able to reflect the image of a person minutely enough to show the facial expressions of a person while he is talking.

His experiments go further than those of Graham Bell, who succeeded in transforming rays of light into sound waves, and who also overcame the difficulties of former experimenters, inasmuch as M. Belin uses a new photoelectric bulb to diffuse light rays. Other experimenters with photo transmission have worked vainly with a highly sensitized plate of selenium, which requires a separate electric wire for each gradation of light and shadow composing the picture.

In such case a photograph or image of a person's face at the telephone would require 100 wires. M. Belin utilizes the wireless, thus obtaining instantaneous transmission of points of light which are projected on a little screen and which gave a view of the picture, although at present the experiments are conducted with the black-and-white outline of a photograph. With more complicated mechanism, using the same principles, M. Belin declares he will produce the complete image of a person.

Curious features which make Parisians more curious is the invention of Graham Bell, by which the same light waves projected on the screen are produced in sound, thus giving a visual image and the person's musical vibrations at the same time. M. Belin is the inventor of the telantograph and telephography. For lack of a better name he calls his new process television.

Earthquakes Recorded at Georgetown

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Earth tremors were recorded from 5:52 p.m. to 6:50 p.m., today on the Georgetown University seismograph, the intesity reaching a maximum between 6:11 and 6:14. The center of disturbances, according to Father Tondorf, in charge of the observatory, appeared to be in Central or South America. He said the tremors were "rather severe."

ANCHORAGE (Alaska) June 19. An earthquake lasting forty-eight seconds occurred here at 12:45 this afternoon. The motion was rotatory. Radio advices stated that the volcanic region on the Alaskan peninsula where extensive disturbances occurred last winter, is quiet.

ANGLO-AMERICAN DEBT AGREEMENT

ONE THOUSAND HUGE BONDS TO BE PLACED IN HANDS OF GOVERNMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The Anglo-American debt funding agreement providing for repayment to the United States by Great Britain of wartime loans of $4,600,000,000 has been formally signed and began its life of sixty-two years today.

Formal exchange of the indentures, the documentary evidence of the agreement was made between the Treasury and the British Embassy. The execution took the form of a proposal by Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, acting for his government and an acceptance by Secretary Mellon for the United States.

Finland, like Great Britain, has begun repayments, but the agreements with that nation still remain to be given Congressional approval.

The Treasury soon will receive and retain custody of the British government bonds which form the security for the debt. One thousand bonds have been drawn, each for $4,600,000, and have been forwarded from London. They may be taken up for retirement by the British semi-annually under the terms of the agreement and sums may be paid toward retiring them in three-year periods at the option of the British.

ACTRESS TO COURT OVER DOG AND RINGS

LAW INVOKED TO UNTANGLE OWNERSHIP OF JEWELS AND CANINE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 19.—Properly attired for the role of applicant for a theatrical engagement Miss Juanita Marten, an actress, left the Commodore Hotel in her quest, wearing two platinum rings set with diamonds and valued at $4600, on May 23, 1922, and with her was a red pekingese spaniel called Chinky Choo Foo. On the following day a Sheriff showed Miss Marten papers in a recovery suit brought by Arthur R. Brody, a stock salesman of Detroit, and divested her of Chinky, and, in the absence of the gems, of two pawn tickets for them.

The papers set forth that Brody had loaned her the rings for two hours only, to enhance her "front," and that the dog had been loaned to create favorable atmosphere.

Miss Marten countered with a demand for the return of the tickets and the dog. Before Justice Wasservogel today Brody withdrew suit, agreeing to return the rings, which he took out of pawn, and the dog.

Through her attorneys today Miss Marten criticised Brody as an "Indian giver" and said the jewelry had been presented to her by Brody in 1921.

STATE BOARD MOVES TO VALIDATE BONDS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—The State Reclamation Board late today authorized its attorney, Stephen W. Downey of Sacramento, to proceed at once with the filing of a suit in the State Supreme Court to validate an $8,000,000 bond issue voted several months ago by landowners affected by assessment No. 6, levied to construct the Sutter-Butte bypass. Approximately 11,000 tracts of land are affected.

Another suit is now pending in the Supreme Court to validate the assessment which must be settled before any decision can be secured on the bond validation suit ordered today. Peter R. Gadd, secretary and member of the board, explained that by taking preliminary steps on the second suit, unnecessary delay will have been avoided. Validation of the bonds will be necessary before warrants outstanding against the assessment can be liquidated, Secretary Gadd said.

encourage the parishioners. The sound of chanted prayers rises above the rumblings of the eruption and the patter of falling stones and cinders; the stricken people seem in dumb despair, hardly conscious of whither they are going, invoking the saints and inquiring tremulously: "What have we done to be visited by this awful scourge?"

A solemn service invoking mercy was held in the ancient beech forest at Castigliono. Owing to the shade of the trees and the darkness caused by the ashes, the light was too feeble for the reading of the gospel and torches were utilized. The nearness of the stream of lava was such that before the end of the service the edge of the forest caught fire; the air was so hot and vitiated by sulphurous fumes that breathing was difficult, and some of the people were so alarmed at the danger that they started to depart, at which the old priest officiating rebuked them and lengthened the service by adding prayers for the faint-hearted.

The news that King Victor Emmanuel is starting immediately for the scene of the disaster to share their perils and direct the work of rescue has given much cheer to the people. Mindful of the Pope's orders all convents and other ecclesiastical buildings have been turned into huge shelters for the refugees who crowd them.

The fury of Etna has not abated. The country has been laid waste and presents a desolate spectacle. The lava has spread almost to the sea at one point and Messina and Taormina and intervening villages have been obliterated.

After a short cessation last night the flow of lava started again in full strength this morning from several new fissures, one of which is nearly two miles around. At one point on the eastern slopes of the mountain the stream is a mile and a half wide.

Most of the population of Giarre have moved down to the seaside town of Riposto and the remainder are ready to leave at a signal from the watchers outside the town. The glow of the eruption is visible from Naples, 200 miles away, while from Palmero, eighty miles distant, the flames can be seen shooting into the air.

A most alarming spectacle was observed between Mt. Rosso and Mt. Rosello, two small promontories near Etna. From a miniature plateau between the two mounts the lava dropped a sheer 600 feet into the wooden country below. Trees were quickly ablaze and a fiery lake formed in the timber. The Pope has sent 1,000,000 lire to the relief missions.

Four Catholic Priests Shot from Ambush

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

POCAHONTAS (Ark.) June 19. Four priests and one lay church official were wounded when unidentified persons fired into the home of Father Herringer of the Engleberg Catholic Church, five miles north of here last night, according to information received here today. The house was fairly riddled with shot.

The injured men are: Father Straussmer, of Jonesboro, shot in neck, and shoulder; Father Bedlinger, Paragould, shot in neck; Father Herringer, Englesberg, slight flesh wound; Father Froitzheim, Pocahontas, shot in the leg; Joe Bruno, lay church official, shot in back.

BRITAIN MAPS PLAN TO GUARD ALIENS IN CHINA

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, June 19.—Great Britain, in collaboration with the United States and other powers, is considering what measures can be taken in co-operation with the Chinese government for the safeguarding of foreign passengers while traveling on the Chinese Railroad. One suggestion considered is the formation of a Chinese gendarmerie under the command of Allied and American officers. It is recognized that the United States has a particular interest in China and Great Britain appears anxious to have the fullest co-operation of American authorities in any new steps taken for the security of foreigners.

HARDING WILL VISIT WITH BOYHOOD CHUM

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) June 19. President Harding plans to find time to chat with Elten Apt, a boyhood friend, when he comes here Friday "no matter how crowded the program may be," according to a letter received by Mr. Apt today from the President. Mr. Apt is now a Federal prohibition agent here. The letter said: "While we are in Kansas City next Friday I want to see you privately, for an hour or so. We will find room for this chat no matter how crowded the program may be."

WRITER GIVEN HIGH AWARD

Pour Le Merite Awarded to Gerhart Hauptmann, Noted Dramatist

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERLIN, June 19.—The Order Pour Le Merite, established by Frederick the Great, which is the only decoration now legally conferrable in Germany, has been awarded to the dramatist, Gerhart Hauptmann, and the painter, Max Liebermann.

The civil branch of this order remained in existence when all other honorific decorations and titles conferred by royalty, including the military branch of the Pour Le Merite, were swept away after the revolution.

The members of the order constitute a closed corporation and are allowed to exercise the Hohenzollern privilege of selecting new recipients for the decoration.

WOMEN URGE MORE OBEDIENCE TO LAWS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANACONDA (Mont.) June 19.—After changing its name today from Intermountain and Pacific States Federation to Western Federation of Women's Clubs, delegates to the third annual convention adopted a series of resolutions demanding more rigorous enforcement of the prohibition laws, more respect for all legal enactments, less crime news in the daily press, uniform marriage and divorce laws and the passage promptly in the next session of Congress of the Towner-Sterling bill to create a national department of education. All officers of the old federation were re-elected to serve until the biennial session next June in Los Angeles. The convention closed late today.

What the President will have to say on the World Court issue must, of necessity, have political effect. He will also speak on the great domestic issues involved in the railroad problem, the troubles of the American farmer, immigration, prohibition, taxation, land reclamation, etc. In every one of these are fuses of politics.

Mrs. Harding is to accompany the President, having greatly improved in health, and the trip is to be broken by tours through the Yellowstone and Zion National Parks on the way to the Coast and through the Yosemite Park on the way to San Diego after the return from Alaska. Secretaries Wallace, Work and Hoover also will be in the official party, their chief interest in the trip being the conditions in Alaska ,which are involved in their respective departments of Agriculture, Interior and Commerce. Out of the Alaska trip the President hopes will come reorganization which will inject new life into development of Alaska's resources.

SHIP LINES PLAN LIQUOR CITY ON SEA

Floating "Oasis" Would be Stationed Off New York to Foil Dry Rulings

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GOTHENBERG, June 19. — A floating city, holding one of the finest and largest stocks of liquor in the world, ten miles off New York—no secret rum runners' paradise, but a sound business investment—is planned by members of the Atlantic Shipping Association. This plan, which British ship owners proposed, was quickly adopted by Swedish owners here. The cost of building the floating liquor "coaling" station will be borne by all the lines. The station will be erected at great cost by experts, who are devising a means of anchoring the structure to permit of the sale of liquor and liquor loading and unloading, a Swedish ship owner declared.

The British system of having passengers write out cards saying the quantity of liquor they will consume has been adopted, but ship owners are faced with the problem of loading for the return voyage, realizing that Americans will want drinks immediately the ship is on the high seas.

Some owners proposed that ships call at Halifax or other Canadian ports, but it is felt that this would be too expensive on account of mileage. The success of the present rum runners prompted the proposal to float the great liquor docks and warehouse at some quiet place on the high seas. It is expected that the proposal will be a reality before the season is over.

Revel in Shade of Mimic Mount at Gay Capital

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, June 19. (1:30 a.m.) While the real Vesuvius smoked ominously and Mt. Etna belched molten lava, turning Sicilian inhabitants into refugees, Pompeiian youths and maidens rollicked in the shadow of the immense mimic of Vesuvius while streams of swift flowing champagne coursed down its slopes in Luna Park here tonight.

The Quatzarts Ball, known the world over as a night of nights among Bohemians and artists, is in progress as a bacchanalian revel, all those attending being attired in Roman costumes.

As the evening advanced the participants became more Roman and less costumed. Refugees from dry America were seen, their faces flushed by more than one-half of 1 per cent, whirling, laughing and shouting with their Sabine partners, whose loose, flowing garments were already torn to shreds, revealing shapely limbs, and their hair blowing in the breeze.

LION CUBS DECLINE WITH YOWLS AND SCRATCHES TO BE GUESTS AT MAYOR HYLAN'S SILVER JUBILEE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 19.—Mayor Hylan's silver jubilee celebration missed out on an added attraction today when a plan to exhibit two Central Park Zoo lion cubs at the Grand Central Palace went on the rocks.

Park Commissioner Galatin and Miss Peggy Davis, motion-picture actress, decided to take the cubs to the hall, and lugged the two-months-old kittens to a small sedan automobile inside of which was a city chauffeur, "at ease."

He did not remain at ease long, for shortly after the trip began, Miss Davis holding one lion on her lap and the other being seated between her and the commissioner, pandemonium ensued. The cubs began to bite and scratch, Miss Davis's charge biting her on the nose and lacerating her hands, while the other picked a soft spot on the driver's neck and fastened himself there, the chauffeur becoming so flustered that he drove head on into a passing truck.

Mr. Galatin attempted to subdue the cubs and received several scratches. A hurry call to a near-by station brought several police to the rescue, first aid being administered. The cubs did not go to the jubilee.

SEEK REDRESS FROM CHINA

Action in Kidnaping Made Difficult Through Lack of Government Centralization

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Negotiations are in progress between the members of the Diplomatic Corps in Peking and the governments these envoys represent, looking to the formulation of demands to be made upon the Chinese government for the kidnaping of numerous foreigners by bandits early in May and guarantees to be demanded to prevent such outrages in the future.

There has, it is understood, been approaching concurrence in the negotiations so far. The demands the various persons captured made to their respective governments are at great variance. The ideas of the various nations as to what should be done run from the British belief that international control of the railroads should be undertaken to those of France, who is said to favor some sort of international aid in the establishment of a solid Central Chinese government.

FEARFUL HANDICAP

The lack of such a central government is, of course, in itself a tremendous handicap in the demands which foreign governments intend to make. At present there is no one to whom the Diplomatic Corps could present its conclusions if they were drafted.

It is extremely probable that nothing definite will be done by the Diplomatic Corps until after the situation brought about by the resignation of the government has been adjusted so that it may be determined which faction of the many into which China is now divided is to be in control.

FIGURE HIGH

Any demands that may be made upon China for the capture and detention of the foreign prisoners will of necessity include the demand for progressive indemnity made on May 10, to run from May 12. The period of the progressive indemnity covers a period of about thirty days, but whether it will run as high as the $500,000 said to have been demanded in behalf of the Italian national is yet to be decided.

NEW LAW WILL HELP WORKERS

Texas Legislature Amends Old Measure

Compensation for Injured Men Increased

Act Will Drive Damage-Suit Lawyers From Business

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AUSTIN (Tex.) June 19.—On the 14th inst. the amended Workmen's Compensation Law went into effect. It is the only act backed by organized labor of Texas which passed at the recent regular session of the Legislature. The new law is intended to put damage-suit lawyers out of business. It will also increase the compensation of injured workers, it is explained. George M. Slater, president of the Texas State Federation of Labor, in discussing the more important features of the law, said:

"A man's life under the new law is valued at $7200, as against the $5400 of the old law. His eyes are worth $3020, or more than his life, as against $6000 by the old law.

"It marks a long step forward for Texas and means much to the ordinary workman and his family in case of serious injury.

"Under the old law the injured workman was entitled to receive reasonable medical aid, medicine and hospital service for a period of two weeks. Under the new law this limit is increased to four weeks. Under the old law only husband, wife and minor children could recover compensation as beneficiaries without proving dependency. The new law includes parents and stepmother.

"Another vital change is this: Under the old law, where a beneficiary established dependency and later ceased to be a dependent, having received, say, a total of 100 weeks' compensation, the insurance company could go before the Industrial Accident Board and the remaining 240 weeks' compensation would lapse. The amended act provides the rights of a beneficiary shall be established according to the facts as they exist at the time of the death of the injured person and shall be a complete, absolute and vested right and the full amount of compensation first awarded must be paid.

"The law formerly provided that an injured person should receive 60 per cent of the average weekly wages, but in no case less than $5, nor more than $15, while the amendment provides for a minimum of $7 and a maximum of $20, an increase of 23⅓ to 40 per cent. These increases were based on United States Department of Labor data on the increase of the cost of livin- from 1913 to 1922.

"This law is written to protect the worker against the damage-suit lawyer, and no lawyer is needed to put through a claim under the new law."

RECLAMATION SERVICE PLANS FEW CHANGES

Shifts Will Be Confined to Organizations Says Works

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Prospective changes in the Reclamation Service will be confined almost entirely to organization and there will be few transfers among the personnel, Secretary Work said today in explaining changes to be made on July 1.

"We are going to put this branch of the Interior Department on a business basis," the Secretary said, "and operate it in the interest of the settlers or reclamation projects, as well as for the protection of the government. Only through a recognition of the fact that the interests of both are one can the future success of reclamation projects be assured."

Arthur P. Davis, retiring director of the service, whose office will be abolished, denied today that he had resigned, declaring the change in the office was a "total surprise."

"I was only informed," he said, "that the Secretary thought it best the office should be under a business man rather than an engineer, so I was summarily dismissed."

D. W. Davis, former Governor of Idaho, will assume charge of the Reclamation Service wit the title of commissioner.

JAPAN WOULD DOMINATE ALL CHINA, BRITISH AVER

Political Chaos is Declared to be Endangering Trade Advantages of White Nations

How directly the United States is affected by Great Britain's radical change in her naval policy in centering her main fleet at Singapore is explained in a series of articles by a British writer on Far Eastern affairs who has just returned to London after a tour of Japan, China, Singapore and other places in the Far East. The Public Ledger and The Times are publishing the articles simultaneously with the London Morning Post, the second of them today. The writer explains first the situation in China and Japan and portrays what the peoples of those countries are thinking about, and leads up in his later articles to Great Britain's reasons for spending $250,000,000 on the Singapore base at a time when that added expenditure can scarcely be afforded by the government.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1925, Public Ledger.]

LONDON, June 19.—China as a republic is without the prestige that the old imperial government enjoyed throughout the country. There are at least three main camps which carry on a government of their own and only fall in with the wishes of the Peking government when it suits them. These three roughly are: First, Manchuria and Northern Chili; second, Chili to the Yangtze Valley, and third, Southern China, where the predominating influence is Canton.

The leaders of these three military dictatorships are Chang Tso-Lin, in the north; Wu-Pei-Fu, in the middle, and Sun Yat sen, in the south, none of whom really cares much for the so-called central government except as a warming pan for the bed in which, if they are fortunate, they may hope to sleep.

There are, of course, vast tracts in China which know no allegiance even to these three great leaders or, except nominally, to Peking; but this does not seem to make very much difference to the very conservative life of the Chinese, who carry on somehow on much the same lines as they have done for thousands of years. On the fringe of the central administrations of all three leaders hordes of disbanded or unpaid soldiers roam the country, taking what they will and exacting a livelihood at the point of the bayonet.

MOVING TO TREATY PORTS

As the natural result of lawlessness, most of the better educated and more Europeanized Chinese have transferred their interests, both business and financial, into the treaty ports, where, judging by the customs returns, trade in spite of the prevalent anarchy outside is increasing by leaps and bounds. The customs administration, indeed, is virtually the only stable form of government in China today, and it says much for the inherent wisdom of Chinese nature that this efficient and entirely non-political machine has never been interfered with.

During the last twenty years railway developments in China have been extremely rapid and by concessions to British, American, French, Belgian and other interests a very considerable railway system has been evolved which has done much for the internal trade of the country.

A study of this system will show how any future penetration must take effect. Until the Washington conference, Japan had one large territorial finger in this commercial pie—that it, the occupation of the Shantung Peninsula with a railway from the coast of Tsinanfu. By a magnificent gesture, she there abrogated her rights and returned a portion of the country to China herself. In Southern Manchuria, however, she still, as a result of the Russo-Japanese War, controls the railway from Dairen through Mukden to Changchum, where the Chinese Eastern Railway takes over the northern traffic. Japan's lease of the Manchurian railway was for ninety-nine years, so for all practical purposes she may be considered to be in entire occupation of the sphere.

JAPAN AFTER COAL FIELDS

In Yangtze Valley and south of it Japan has at least two great aims—permanent control of the great coal and iron fields in Hanyang, opposite Hankow, and the exploitation of Fukien by a railway to run from Foochow up to Nanchang, where there is already a connecting line with Kukiang and the Yangtze River. The Yangtze Valley was for a great many years virtually under the British sphere of influence and Japanese trade had only a reasonable share. Japan now has collected most of the old German trade of that area and stands there in a position of equality with England and America.

If she could consolidate her position there and obtain a lion's share of influence and if, at the same time, her island fortress of Formosa could effectively dominate the rich hinterland of Fukien, she would be well on the way to control China's trade in the southeast and the middle, as well as the northeast by her remaining business interests in Shantung, and in the north by the Southern Manchurian Railway.

With these four fingers stretching over further and further into the interior, all that is profitable in China, except Kwantung and Yunnan, would speedily fall into her grasp. With the Yangtze Valley assured to her, European and American trade at Shanghai would have to fight hard for its position and the amazing wealth of Szechuan could be exploited in a way which no white nation ever has been able to attempt.

Now, it must be apparent that with a stable and solvent government in China under one head and backed by all the great nations it would be on terms of equality and Japan would have no chance of obtaining more than a proportionate share of all the riches which she can see awaiting her, and it therefore is not entirely to Japan's advantage to wait for the other nations to support law and order in China.

The Chinese themselves are by no means unfavorable to the white races. They do not like the Japanese in spite of the fact that they are of the same Asiatic brotherhood. But education and observation of the world gradually is making the Chinese people desirous of asserting China's place in the councils of nations, and they have an object lesson in Japan of an Asiatic race which won for itself a position of equality at the conference table and even an alliance with England.

Chinese opinion, therefore, is confident in its own powers to absorb all races and by no means is averse to the idea of looking to Japan for assistance against the trade domination of the white nations, and Japan, knowing this, sees in the present shattered condition of Chinese politics an admirable opportunity of seizing both the goose and the golden eggs.

Southern Manchuria and the regions around Mukden in particular afford a very good example of Japan's legitimate, but relentless, grasp of any such opportunity. The first thing, indeed, that must impress any traveler at the present time who arrives in Mukden must be the complete Japanese control of this area. Nominally only the masters of the Southern Manchurian line itself, the Japanese, by a vast expansion of railroad lines, collieries, agricultural lands and industrial settlements, have virtually captured all the trade in China "outside the wall" (that is, north of Shanhaikwan,) up to the Chinese Eastern Railway at Chagchun, so even orders from Peking to the Mukden directors as regards their line carry but little weight unless approved by the Japanese authorities at Mukden as well as by Shang Tso-Lin.

This is not necessarily to say that Chang Tso-Lin is a willing servant to Japanese policy. He is a leader of great military ability, who controls this area very well, but doubtless unconsciously from time to time has made use of Japan's assistance in his scheme and is beginning to find their incubus very difficult to shake off.

He is indeed in a very sorry position since the soviet forces, having now reached Vladivostok, may at any time try to force a shorter means of transit to the Chinese Eastern Railway when he either will have to tackle them himself with defeat spelling a complete surrender to Japanese aims in Mukden, or definitely to call in Japan's assistance, which will bind him to them forever.

Mukden and the surrounding country with its large rice crops and undeveloped mineral wealth is the key to North China and to any future government at Peking, and the Japanese can in no sense be blamed for having put themselves in such a position of security there. Their actions have been perfectly natural and straightforward, and that they are not economically in harmony with the future wishes of the Western nations is not necessarily Japan's fault.

All over China, from the North to the South, Japan has trade agents of a perfectly legitimate kind engaged in buying foodstuffs and raw materials and everything that may be necessary to further her interests. These scattered citizens of Japan, though not always popular with the Chinese, nevertheless, are left severely alone, and it is rare that any outrage, even by bandits, is practised on them as in the case of other foreign citizens. The reason for this obviously is that Japan's contiguity to China is such that within a few days, and even hours in some places, she could place troops in a position to enforce her prestige, as in the historical instance of Germany's occupation of Shantung.

The logical outcome of the loss of life or liberty to any nationals in China must be intervention by the power or powers concerned, unless and until China is in a strong enough position to control her own people, and Japan cannot be expected to refrain from seizing any opportunity that may come her way in this respect. If the Occidental nations do not use combined action in restoring their fallen fortunes in China they will open the door to oriental action which is far more likely to achieve this result.

BILLS SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Action of Executive Assures Continuation of Sacramento River Improvement Projects; Period for Passing of Measures Near End

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—Continuation of the improvement of the Sacramento River in accordance with the plans of the Federal government was assured today when Gov. Richardson signed Senate Bills Nos. 475 and 476, approximating $650,000 for the work.

The bills called for an appropriation of $900,000 but this was cut to $650,000 by the Governor, following a conference with Congressman C. F. Curry of Sacramento, U. S. Grant, III, government engineer in charge of the work, and the State Engineer.

Of the total appropriation $400,000 will be used during the coming fiscal year and $250,000 in the following year.

Assembly Bill No. 1041, carrying an appropriation of $8000 to be used in making a preliminary survey of the territory embracing Lassen Peak and the contiguous territory known as Lassen Volcanic National Park, was also signed today by the Governor. This money is to be expended under the direction of the State Engineer in cooperation with the national park service.

Gov. Richardson announced that when the bill-signing period expires at midnight Friday he will have vetoed at least 430 of the 882 bills passed by the last Legislature. The Governor has signed 431 bills and vetoed eighty-seven to date and said today that he has about twenty more, which he will sign before Friday night. This means, it is said, that probably 344 bills will fail to become laws through the exercise of the pocket veto.

"The Governor's desk is cleared earlier than ever known before in legislative history," the Governor said.

"Every one of the 882 bills has been considered carefully and when a bill has been proved meritorious it has been signed. I have put the burden of proof on the bill. I have called in experts in various lines and have had the assistance of the Attorney-General, the Legislative Council Bureau and various State departments. I have written hundreds of letters seeking information on these bills."

FEW PEDESTRIANS IN PARIS, FIGURES SHOW

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, June 19.—"Does anyone walk in Paris?" is a question that is being asked these days. Figures just compiled for the first three months of the year show that a total of 243,498,394 persons traveled on auto busses, street cars and river boats in that period. And that does not include those who journeyed by subway and taxicab.

The number of auto bus passengers alone was 82,145,287, and those on the tramways 159,924,263. The total fares of these "voyageurs," including those who traveled by boat, amounted approximately to 77,250,000 francs.

LYCETT IS BEATEN BY DE GOMAR

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WITHINGTON, Eng., June 19.—Count DeGomar of Spain today wrote his name indelibly on the tennis horizon when he eliminated Raldolph Lycett, one of England's strongest players, in the Davis Cup play-off here today 6-4, 6-1, 7-5. Count DeGomar's two victories in singles and his doubles victory with Edouard Flacquer, put Spain in the semifinal round of the European draw, where the Spanish team will meet Holland, with the winner practically certain of meeting France. DeGomar's tennis during the Davis Cup matches here has been scintillating, his sound ground strokes and dashing net play keeping the English players on defensive.. It is believed likely that Manuel Alonzo, star of the Spanish Davis Cup team of 1922, may return to Europe from America to play against the French team if the Spaniards succeed in defeating the Dutch next week. The showing of DeGomar and Flacquer has been the big surprise of the tennis season.

British Women Racketers to Invade America

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, June 19—Three or four of the finest women tennis players in England will be sent to the United States in July to engage in a series of matches against American tennis players. They will also participate in the American National Championship tournament at Forest Hills in August. The players most likely to be sent are Miss Kitty McKane, Mrs. Beamish, Mrs. Satterthwaite and Miss Elizabeth Ryan.. The manner in which the English women have been polishing off the best American players including Mrs. Molla Mallory, Miss Bancroft and Miss Goss during the past few weeks has filled the British players with enthusiasm, and there is a belief prevalent that the British women can clean up the Americans on their home courts with the same facility that they have beaten them in Europe.

GROWING LIKE MUSHROOM

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SHELBY (Mont.) June 19.—Shelby is growing so fast that if you've been here two days you are regarded as an old resident and if you have been here two weeks you're likely to be pointed out as the first white child born within the city limits. Not long ago Shelby was a sleepy little village where the fast trains on the Great Northern just tooted as they flashed through and the guide book gave it only 450 in population.

I asked the porter coming up last night from Great Falls what the population of the town was and he said: "Well, last time I was in Shelby it was 10,000 or 12,000, but that was four days ago. Lord knows what it is now."

The impending encounter between Dempsey and the gallant Mr. Gibbons is making Shelby grow so fast that you have to inquire your way around if you stay too long at a lunch counter. I walked down Main street this morning with difficulty because whenever I stopped to look around or talk to anybody seven frenzied carpenters and nine gatfitters would ask me would I stand aside while they put up the Drovers' Bank or the New Palace Hotel.

FULL OF BRICK

The air is full of brick and mortar, hammers, boards and nails. A big department store opened this morning. It is well built of brick and stone, covers half a block and is three stories high. A war correspondent stood and marvelled. He insisted that the last time he had looked at the corner it had been a vacant lot. He finally decided that they must have put up that building while he was down at the railroad station last night.

They're building everything in Shelby while you wait, bungalows, banks hotels garages stores, dance halls and theaters. I haven't seen any apartment-houses going up but shucks, I've been inside the hotel for half an hour. There was an empty lot across the street from the hotel when I came in and I'll bet four bits that when I go out I'll find the Montana Arms on that vacant lot with a sign in the window, "Every apartment in this building now occupied. Do not annoy the owner by applications for flats."

LAST TOUCHES

Outside the town the finishing touches are being put on the arena, where the Messrs. Dempsey and Gibbons will entertain on the afternoon of July 4. There it is, way out in furthermost Montana in a little town near the Canadian border that totaled 450 inhabitants a few days ago and yet that arena built to seat 40,000 people. It's almost done and when it is entirely completed and the workmen free to take on other jobs I expect to wake up some morning and see a few skyscrapers scattered along Main street.

Another army is at work on the pavilion for the cowboy's rodeo, which is going to enthrall the multitude for a few days just before Mr. Dempsey and Mr. Gibbons start walloping each other. The buccarroos are in town already clanking their spurs defiantly amid the rasping of the saws and the rattle of hammers.

STREET JAMMED

Main street is jammed with workmen, war correspondents, distracted looking auto tourists and gentlemen digging holes for telegraph poles. Other gentlemen are planting the poles in the holes. It's a fascinating sight because they work so fast. "Git to hell outta that mortar," yells a frantic man putting up the Shelby dry goods emporium, and a gentleman swaying on top of a newly set telegraph pole yells, "Look out below," and drops seven miles of brand-new telegraph wire right where you would have been stand-

Miss Fletcher is an unusually fine diver.

SEALS WHITEWASH TIGERS

Pitcher Courtney Holds Vernon Bengals Scoreless in Opening Game, 2 to 0

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

San Francisco approved the minutes of the last annual meeting of the Coast League by defeating Vernon 2 to 0 in the opening game of the series. Minutes were found to be correct.

The Seals simply continued on their smooth, even, well-oiled way while the Bengals hit a few bumps in the third, when three hits were bunched on Jakie May, who otherwise was invulnerable. Manager Jack Miller's machine was functioning perfectly behind the classy pitching of Harry Courtney, a southpaw who gave the impression of working with consummate ease. In the fifth, when Vernon filled the bases, Courtney uncoiled and fanned two. He also drove in one of his runs and scored the other.

P. Samson Schneider, with three hits, one a triple, was a batter who could interpret Courtney, but the latter evened up matters by whiffing him with one on and two down in the ninth when a homer would have tied the score with the concomitants of a cold supper and alibis to better half.

RED-HOT RUNNING

All that the customers got out of the first two frames was some red-hot running. P. Samson Schneider ran out a triple, and a flock of fire engines ran by the park. But they were running for different reasons. Pete was endeavoring to start a conflagration, and the fire engines to prevent one. The engines reached their ultimate destination, but Schnieder didn't. Pete's poke was to the centerfield fence with one down, but third base became his St. Helena, and he paced the same restlessly while Dee Walsh tossed out Rod Murphy and Bodie.

San Francisco and Vernon are as equally matched as any two teams in the country as to sweaters. Both teams wore red ones, and they are running ruffneck to ruffneck in the sweater sprint.

Seals spawned two runs in the third. Archie Yelle laid a bunt, not only beating same, but taking second when Smith armed the ball over first. A wild pitch put Yelle on third, and Courtney slapped a left-field double, registering his battery mate. This is a real battery, meaning one that shoots. Joe Kelly cracked a mean one through Warner, and Courtney counted. Joe was forced by Gene Valla, and Mulligan grounded. Joe's chin was not at its best yesterday. It did not seem to be shining. It struck one as being opaque, and perhaps clouded up with a week's growth of whiskers. But this was merely an optical illusion due to a dark day. The chin had been washed and dried as usual and perhaps oiled and yet it did not appear clear and limpid under a leaden sky. On bright days Joe can gaze down and see the reflection of his own face in his pellucid chin. He uses his chin for a mirror when shaving his upper lip.

FIELDING SPARKS

Warner gave off some fielding sparks in the fourth, when he dove after Pete Compton's hit, speared it with one hand, rolled clear over and came up as good as new. It was a single, but might have been worse. Jack was applauded as he went to the bench.

Both sides took some exercise in the fifth, when Vernon grew weak with the effort of loading the bases, and Courtney became muscle-bound unloading them. Sawyer was spared when Rhyne knuckled his grounder. May fanned for the first out. Chadbourne walked. Schneider beat out a bounder to Courtney, congesting cushions. Courtney led out a few links, and a grunt of two, and fanned Murphy. Valla pinched Bodie's fly.

SUNSET CANYON WILL HOLD SWEEPSTAKES

The Sunset Canyon Country Club will hold a men's sweepstakes tournament during the next few weeks. The tourney got under way yesterday with about fifty entries and play continued briskly all day. Goranga, club professional, has offered a handsome trophy, as well as the club trophy that goes to the winner.

Australians Hope to Win Davis Cup Go

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, June 19.—An expression of high hopes for the Australian Davis cup Team which is due to arrive at Vancouver soon and proceed to South Orange, N. J., for its first American zone match against Hawaii, has been received by the United States Lawn Tennis Association from Antipodean tennis authorities.

The contest at South Orange will be played July 26, 27 and 28, the winner to meet the survivor of the Japan-Canada tie, which takes place at Montreal on the same dates, in the final American zone match at Chicago, August 7, 8 and 9. The Australian enthusiasts believe their team will advance through the American zone matches and continue to the position of challenging nation for the Davis cup.

TENNIS ENTRY LIST SWELLS EACH DAY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, June 19.—Entries received here for the national intercollegiate and interscholastic tennis championships which begin next week, indicate one of the best tournaments in the history of this event. Play begins at the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, next Monday. An Oxford-Cambridge team has entered.

California will be especially well represented with four players in the intercollegiate championships from the University of California and Alan Herrington and Conrad Bryant, are two of the most promising of the Pacific Coast school boy contingents in the interscholastic titular event.

COLLEGE ENTERS TWO NEW MAJOR FIELDS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

STOCKTON (Cal.) June 19.—Beginning with the new term next fall the College of the Pacific will foster four major sports instead of two, announces "Swede" Righter, head of the athletic department at the San Jose institution, which moves to Stockton in another year.

The Tigers will hereafter be represented by teams in football, basketball, track and baseball. In the past Pacific has confined itself to football and basketball.

RAIN FORCES CHAMP AND CHALLENGER TO WORK OUT INDOORS

DEMPSEY PUTS IN GREAT DAY

BY HARRY NEWMAN
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GREAT FALLS (Mont.) June 19. With a large delegation of railroad and financial giants looking on, Jack Dempsey did his "purtiest" at his training camp this afternoon. It was a genuine reversal in form that the champion introduced for the benefit of the magnates and the way he slapped his sparring mates around was a caution. The railroad men were returning from a trip to the National Glacier Park and decided to take a peek at Gibbons and Dempsey. They gave Tom the up and down at Shelby the other day and reported that the St. Paul battler was in great shape. They had the same opinion of Jack when he finished doing his stuff for their benefit this afternoon.

A cold rain made it necessary to work indoors. The ring is pitched in an old dance hall on the site of an old brewery where the good old mucilage used to pour freely before Volstead and his gang got to spoiling the whole works.

HARD TO FATHOM

The champion had one of his best days and he surely looked a champion. He's a tough bird to fathom. One day like the champion that he is and the next not so good.

Just as likely as not the champion decided to "show off" with such a mob of big guns. He stepped out and made the small bag sing with the pasting he gave it. It was a treat to watch Jack this afternoon. For many days he has been a disappointment to his closest admirers but today he just unlimbered and never showed to better advantage. He had everything. As fast as a bantam in his boxing and hitting, the big fellow gave those moneyed guys a big show.

Billy Wells, fast stepping young English welter, was the first in there with the champion today. They went through two of the fastest rounds indulged in by Dempsey since he opened his training stunts. In ducking and evading wallops sent in his direction by Wells, Dempsey worked like a real artist. Wells kept trying with right hand leads for the champion's head, but Jack was inside or away from every lead.

RESEMBLES FIGHT

Dempsey's two rounds with George Godfrey resembled a fight more than a training exhibition. How Jack tore after big George. It was rip and smash all the way with the champion rocking the giant negro around the ring. Godfrey is a good straight man for Dempsey, big and strong. He can take every blow Jack has in stock and is no mean customer himself

GIBBONS ALSO SHOWS UP GOOD

BY FRANK SMITH
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SHELBY (Mont.) June 19.—Tommy Gibbons's camp was flooded again today and he was forced to do his stuff in one of the downtown dance halls. His work was increased, Manager Kane running the doings up to nine rounds and using only three sparring partners.

It was one of those dirty, muddy days, with which this part of Montana has been ignorant for the last six years. All of the natives and visitors had on their rubber boots and more than 200 of them waded to the east end of the town, where Gibbons put on the works.

BOXES TO JAZZ

It isn't often that a champion or a challenger spars while the band plays, but that was the order of today's program. There was a little jazz music as an opener and the funeral march for some of the boys after Tommy had extended himself.

Bud Gorman was the first to get a pasting and Gibbons did it to a queen's taste. He never showed better in his life than he did today and the three boys who took the socks will verify this report.

Bud never had a chance during the three rounds he boxed with the challenger. Try as he could, he didn't land a blow except on gloved and elbows. Never have we seen Gibbons quite so foxy as he was today. He had the big 220-pounder running around in circles.

TOUGH RACKET

Jimmy Delaney tried his wares on Tommy, but he did not get anywhere. As stated in these columns before, Delaney is one of the best boxers in the ring today, but he looked like a selling plater in a derby during his discussion with Gibbons.

If was a tough racket for Jimmy and when he left the ring he was somewhat red in the face from the punching he received. He tried to lay into the challenger and give him a socking and was given a nice trimming for his pains.

The first six rounds were just a warming up for the St. Paul fellow and when Tillie (Kid) Herman stepped on the canvas he received a very warm reception. Herman has the Dempsey style of shift, but Gibbons had it fathomed to a nicety and made the classy welter look like a dirty deuce in a new pack. Herman is no slouch when it comes to boxing, but Gibbons showed him up good and plenty.

BARTON TO ALTERNATE

Mike Collins, who still is a whole lot of the fight works hereabouts, announced today that George Barton of Minneapolis will be the alternate referee on the

REVIVE WRESTLING HERE

The wrestling game will be revived in Los Angeles next Monday night. Nate Scharlin is the promoter and he has leased the Philharmonic Auditorium for four shows. A big championship match is planned for the third or fourth show.

For the opening program next Monday Scharlin has secured the great Jim Londos, Greek champion and one of the best light heavyweights the game has ever produced. Londos is popular with the wrestling fans here because of previous good performances.

Londos will be pitted against Andrews Castanos, the Spanish champion, who has come all the way from Madrid to show the American public his wrestling prowess. Castanos comes highly recommened to Promoter Scharlin.

The match will be at the catch-as-catch-can style, best two out of three falls, with the time limit set at two hours. There will be some preliminaries, which will be announced later.

If Londos shows well he may be matched later on with Ad Santel for the world's light heavyweight championship.

BURNS DEFEATS REISLER

Oakland Frankie Burns easily won over Johnny Reisler in the main event at Doyle's Vernon arena last night. The first round was a pretty exhibition of fisticuffs and the honors were even at the bell. In the second round the veteran unloosed a volley of lefts and rights to the face which shook up Reisler, Burns continued his onslaught in the third round. The fourth round was all Burns, the Oaklander giving the Gothamite a boxing lesson.

The semi-wind-up between Bud Soules and Terry Adams was called a draw. Adams scored a clean knockdown over Soules, the latter staying down for the count of nine. In the second round Soules took all Terry handed him in a game way and in the final round staged a great rally that earned him a draw.

Billy Kennedy took a decision over "Jumping Jack" Ted Seidman. Joe Kelly whipped Leo Barnett so badly that the latter was almost out on his feet. Bud Dummers won from Scotty Diest. Kid Louie defeated Ted Franchie and Joe Hernandes whipped Kid Mack.

SERAPH RALLY CRUSHES OAKS

Krugmen's Spurt Wipes Out Commuters' Lead

Deal's Triple Play in Ninth Closes Down Game

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19. — The Angels rallied in the ninth inning today at Oakland and wiped out a one-run lead that Krause had been nursing. Then, in the last of the ninth, when it looked as if the Oaks would at least tie the score again, Deal started a triple play that closed the game down with a bang. Los Angeles won, 5 to 3.

The Oaks were leading by one run when the ninth opened. Maderas threw out McAuley and the game looked to be as good as in for Krause. But Twombly beat out a hit to Brubaker and Griggs got another hit on a ball that shot past Brubaker. Deal hit still another, that Brubaker could have handled had he been feeling well, and the rout was on.

Deal's blow scored Twombly and Hood followed with a hit to right that scored Griggs. Hood was picked off third. Krug was walked on purpose, filling the bases, and then Byler beat out a hit, scoring the third run of the inning.

Brubaker got a hit to open the last of the ninth and Maderas was safe on McAuley's error. Chet Thomas, the best hitter on the Oakland club, was sent to bat for Krause. All the world and his brother knew that Chet was up there to bunt the runners along. He bunted the ball right into the hands of Deal and then the triple killing followed.

McGaffigan was on second running for Brubaker and Maderas was on first. Deal caught the ball and threw to Griggs before Maderas could get back to first. McGaffigan was well on his way to third and before he could get back to second Griggs had thrown the ball to McAuley, who had it waiting for him. Instead of stepping on second base to complete the triple play, McAuley tagged McGaffigan, nearly missing him.

GROWS LIKE A MUSHROOM

ing if the man building the new dry goods store hadn't chased you out.

"Shelby is justly proud of her new City Hall," said the president of the Commercial Club, who was too busy to give me his name. "It ought to be done by this time. The boys were working pretty hard yesterday and last night."

RUINS COAT

The new City Hall was done or will be as soon as paint is dry. I know it isn't yet, because I ruined a perfectly good khaki coat leaning against the new City Hall.

There are millions of signs all over Shelby "copoassions for rent" but one sign I haven't found, "wet paint," but a wet paint sign isn't necessary. All the paint is wet. It's no use to try and escape the wet paint by strolling down the railroad track. Down there the air is full of rails and ties and sledge hammers where an army is building extra tracks to park the Pullmans on during the big show.

There is no quiet in Shelby. I've got to stop writing now and get out of the hotel for an hour or two while they build an annex to it.

CURRY NINE TRIUMPHS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CAMP CURRY (Yosemite) June 19.—Camp Curry's baseball nine took sweet revenge on the United States government aggregation yesterday by handing them a 6-to-2 defeat on the Camp Curry diamond. Last week the government team defeated Camp Curry, 16 to 3. The score:

Vic Forsythe Grabs San Gabriel Tourney

BLIND RINGER SPORTY EVENT

Many Golfers Turn Out for Novel Feature

Bean Shoots Low Score Over Mission Course

Culver City Plant Improves Tees and Greens

BY BOB LOCKE

The San Gabriel Country club course is as busy as ever. Play over this popular eighteen holes has not slackened in the least during the past few weeks and Tommy Langdon, boss of the outfit, states that all is well on the Potomac.

A Blind Ringer tournament has just been completed at San Gabriel and aside from a lot of fun a flock of good scores were turned in. Vic Forsythe, golfer, artist, and so forth, won the affair with a score of 68. C. D. Hagerman took second place with a sixty and R. G. Clelland scrambled in third with a 62. As a whole the tourney was a big success and another is to be staged in the near future.

SHOOTS LOW SCORE

Par for the San Gabriel course is 74 and E. E. Bean, one of the niftiest golfers at the club has set the world wondering by his neat score of 75. Bean the other day was shooting perfect golf and the above was the result. Many of the wiseacres of the club predict a great career for Bean in coming tournaments.

Tommy Langdon's new handicap system will go into effect today. The new board, a large and elaborate affair will be put up in the caddy house this morning and will be in operation at all times in the future.

From all that can be learned of this great affair it will be one of the wonders of the golfing world and great results are to be expected. Much time and care has been spent in constructing and arranging the board for use, and Langdon is on the receiving end of many and various congratulations.

CLUB GOES DRY

The California Country Club has gone dry. Nothing but water is to be seen and the Culver City plant, and there is plenty of that. Having finally settled water difficulties with the municipal water company the club is now running water on their course twenty four hours in the day. The course is looking greener and by the first of August when their invitational tournament will be held it should be in perfect shape.

For the first time in many years the Eastern intercollegiate lacrosse championship is undecided.

STATE TITLE IS SAN DIEGO AIM

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, June 19.—San Diego High School's baseball team, winner of the interscholastic title in Southern California, has opened negotiations with Sacramento high, winner in the north of the State, for a series or game for the State title, if the plan is approved by the Southern Conference. San Diego had planned a series with West Tech of Cleveland, at Cleveland, but West Tech sent word today that it would be unable to play.

AMERICANS WIN IN TENNIS TILT

Richards-Hunter Advance to Third Round

Are Also Victorious in the Doubles Matches

Engage in London Tourney at Queen's Club

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, June 19. — Vincent Richards and Francis T. Hunter, respectively No. 3 and No. 9 on the Americal lawn-tennis ranking list, began their invasion of British courts today by advancing to the third round in the men's singles on the London championships at the Queen's Club, in addition to winning a match together in the doubles. Richards and Hunter were swinging their rackets on the courts within a few hours after landing at Southampton and had no trouble in winning their matches.

Richards eliminated L. Roben 6-0, 6-1, in the first round, and Hunter defeated M. S. McCabe, 6-0, 6-0. In the second round Richards defeated G. Stoddart, 6-3, 6-3, and Hunter defeated H. S. Hunter, 6-1, 6-1.

Paired in doubles the Americans won from Wallis Myers and N. M. Heath, 4-6, 6-0, 11-9, 3-3 (retired.)

ARGENTINE WINS

In other singles matches, Ro Boyd, Senor Villegas and Carl Caminos, of the Argentine Davi Cup team, were victorious, the former defeating J. N. Collenan, 6-1, 6-0; Villegas defeating J. Cooleid, 6-0, 6-4, and Caminos defeating N. Bartlett, 6-1, 6-4.

Miss Leslie Bancroft advanced to the third round in the women's singles by defeating Miss Lamb, 6-2, 6-4, after winning from Miss Tetchell, 6-3, 6-3, in the second round. Miss Elizabeth Ryan, formerly of California, defeated Mrs. Warburg, 6-0, 6-0, in the third round.

In the first round of the women's doubles Miss Ryan and Mrs. Lambert Chambers defeated the Americans, Miss Isabella Mumford and Miss Bancroft, 6-1, 6-0.

SPORT SHRAPNEL

By HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Prior to any heavyweight fight of real importance, measurements of the two combatants are provided. Regarded as important among these is chest expansion. But, possibly, too much importance is placed on this feature.

This practice was in vogue nearly thirty years ago, and perhaps a long time before that. George W. Jordan of this city, veteran official of the A.A.U., and in the distant past a fellow Olympic Club member with DeWitt C. Van Court, sends me a newspaper clipping of July 27, 1895, showing measurements taken of Corbett and Fitzsimmons a few months before their fight. These show Fitz to have had a chest expansion of five inches, Corbett four.

However, such expansion was scoffed at by Gianinni, then physical culture expert of the New York Athletic Club. He said: "No man, at least in this age, ever was capable of expanding his chest even two inches. It is muscular contortion which they put down as chest expansion."

Do modern trainers agree with this statement? And how many quarts of ozone would a man need be capable of inhaling to add two inches to the circumference of his chest, or five inches as was claimed for Fitzsimmons? That is something interesting to figure.

* * *

Swung onto a First-street car at its only and last stop at that particular corner, and who should I find ringing up nickels but Bill Huddy, one-time boxing impresario and all-around sporting man in the halcyon days which have departed.

Naturally, between clangs of the cash register, the talk turned to Dempsey and Gibbons, for Bill in his day has managed a string of fighters which laid end to end would reach from here to Pomona. Also, he has conducted numerous fight clubs and was the bird who started four-round boxing at Vernon, as well as introducing it to Venice.

* * *

Bill was the party who pointed out to me some years ago that while Dempsey couldn't do much to Phat Willie Meehan, a freak fighter, he might topple a tall gazabo about the size of Willard.

So I asked Bill his opinion of the Dempsey-Gibbons affair, and like the average really smart guy he refused to positively prognosticate the result. However, he expressed the opinion that Jack would see more boxing gloves than he has encountered in quite a spell, and conceded Gibbons at least an inside chance.

"I saw Dempsey in his first two fights with Meehan, and left with the impression that Jack couldn't lick one side of Willie," said Huddy. The first bout was won by Meehan, and the second declared a draw. Dempsey won a draw decision by rushing Meehan, but did little damage.

* * *

"Dempsey is not a one-punch fighter by any means. He has a good wallop, but not as killing as is generally pictured. As a rule he catches a man coming in. His punch plus the momentum of his opponent coming in spells force. Willard walked into Dempsey's punches. Gibbons won't do that. He will be going away or in some other direction. Tommy is foxy, and knows a thing or two, perhaps three. I think it will at least be interesting."

Mention of Huddy recalls the name of Fred Hawtrey. Remember the night that Hawtrey landed on three men in one night so decisively that all of them had to be carried out of the ring. That was at the L.A.A.C. during an amateur tournament. Huddy discovered and managed Hawtrey, who at that time looked to be the best middleweight in the world. Hawtrey gave up boxing to fight for his country, and lost his life in France. Two of his brothers are on the Los Angeles police force.

* * *

One is inclined to scout stories of the extreme cleverness attributed to Gibbons after a close perusal of his features as revealed in photographs. He appears to have been hit rather solidly in the nose and ear. Also the general rounded, compact contour on his face, give the impression that he has been whanged there solidly and repeatedly.

Superlatively clever men like Jim Corbett and Packy McFarland came through without a facial mark. However, Freddie Welsh, a marvel for cleverness, carried a salad ear, as I recall it. Of course, one blow will cause a cauliflower ear to grow where there was none before, but it takes a smear of them to give that general hammered apearance to one's nbiz.

Non-Detonating Gasoline
Works a Full Stroke

The piston receives but a single smashing impulse for each stroke. The power of the explosion is over before the piston is half way down the full length of its stroke.

Due to the tendency to explode prematurely, detonating gasoline limits compression in your cylinders.

It causes much of the "knocking" you notice on hills. And the repeated crashing blows increase vibration, thus increasing wear and tear.

The Sustained Explosion

The explosion from Union Gasoline is of the other kind. It is sharp but sustained—non-detonating. It gives impulse to the piston for the full length of the stroke.

Power and efficiency are increased as a result of increased compression, because, as all authorities know, non-detonation permits added compression.

New Speed

This added smoother power means a new "lift" on hills. You take grades with a rush. Your motor doesn't "knock."

There's more snap in your pickup and new speed on the level.

Vibration is reduced, which saves wear and tear. Fuel mileage is increased due to better efficiency all around.

So there are ample reasons for selecting Union Non-Detonating Gasoline.

Union is the product of progressive refining methods. Its quality is governed by exhaustive tests. The research of able engineers and chemists, equipped with every accepted facility for studying refining methods, is constantly devoted to its improvement.

Substitute Sport for Bull Fights is Adopted

New York State Commission Rules Are Copied

BY JACK STARR-HUNT
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, June 19.—A few days ago boxing in Mexico received its official "recognition" on the appointment of a special committee by the City Fathers. It consists of ten persons, one being an old boxing instructor, two dealers in sporting articles, four members of the fourth estate, an ex-lightweight champion of Mexico, a local correspondent of a New York newspaper and, to complete the ten, one who is quaintly described in the local press as a "sportsman," but it is not stated whether the latter's confreres on the committee necessarily figures in his category. Six of those appointed are Americans, three Mexicans, and the other member is a Frenchman.

COPY AMERICAN RULES

The committee has been named by the City Aldermen, and its appointment will doubtless mean much to the fight game here. It is expected to begin operations by adopting the rules and regulations governing the sport, which are now in effect in New York State. It is understood that all fighters will be licensed, and fights conducted in an orderly manner. This last point may sound strange and rather unnecessary, but in Mexico its enforcement is likely to be not the least of the committee's troubles as, so far, the temperament of Mexican spectators has been quite out of hand when anything exciting has been going on. The committees, so it is said, will insist that referees, seconds, and such like comply with their rulings, and fighters will be required to weigh in, and pass a medical examination before entering the ring.

The fight game in Mexico is comparatively new, but in spite of all the difficulties it has had to contend with, progress has been made, and it has surely come to stay. To start with, Mexico City has an excellent site for staging its shows, namely its bull ring, which accommodates up to 30,000 spectators, its lighting arrangements being first rate for night entertainments. It has, however, been a hard struggle to educate some of the spectators up to the fact that, although they are in the big bull ring inclosure, they are not there to see a bull fight, for Mexico's national pastime is deeply engrained.

FANS MUST LEARN

There is no lack of enthusiasm among those who have taken to the sport, but they must be taught, and it is up to the newly formed committee in Mexico to establish that confidence necessary to attract the better type of boxer to visit them. Recent events in the boxing world have conclusively proved that men of Latin blood and temperament can fight and, who knows but a second Firpo may not eventually spring from Mexico?

&CLASSY BOXR NOW IN CITY TO FIGHT

Larry Jones, one of the classiest boxers that ever wore a pair of gloves, is now in this city after an extended tour of Australia where he won bouts and titles galore. Jones is here to take on all comers at either Vernon or Hollywood.

In Australia Jones won seven bouts out of seven starts, knocked out Vence Blackburn and won the featherweight title of Australia. In this country Jones has done equally as well. He has whipped Teddy O'Hara four times, and has won decisions over Joe Leopold and Joe Coffey. Jones has held Bud Ridley to a draw. Jones is especially anxious to meet Dick Hoppe.

NEW BALL TEAMS ARE ENTERED IN LEAGUE

At a meeting of the Greater Southern California Baseball Association four new teams were entered in the lineup. Bellefiower, managed by Brown, La Habra, managed by Lilly, Kant Skore, led by Zuelich, and Western Lithograph led by Tish are the new entries.

Also at this meeting plans for the barbecue on Sunday July 22, at Smiths' Ranch, Santa Susana, committees for the affair were elected as follows; Chairman of the Committee, Harry E. Dafty, assisted by Jack Goodman and Joe Rafferty; Transportation, Harry Johnson and Powell; prize committee, Oscar Williams, William Gabel, and Leo Stegstill; games, W. M. Davis, L. Benneshaesett and Alfred Horspool.

SIDNEY MEEKS WILL RECEIVE YALE CUP

The Yale Scholarship Cup presented by the Yale Club of Southern California has been awarded to Sidney Meeks of the Hollywood High School. This cup is presented to the student of the high schools of Southern California who has attained the best scholastic and athletic record of the school year.

Recommendation was made by Principal William H. Snyder who states that the successful candidate is one of the finest boys he has known.

Formal presentation of the Cup of the Yale Club will be made to Mr. Meeks at the assembly on Friday at 11:30 a.m. by Doctor R. M. Dodsworth of Long Beach and George H. Seward, Hollywood, representing the Yale Club of Southern California.

JOHN HODGE CAPTURES ELKS' GOLF TOURNEY

Johnny Hodge by defeating N. S. Ewing won the championship flight of the B.P.O. Elks' golf tournament. The score of the match was 1 up, which indicates the closeness of the fray. Hodge shot nice golf and earned his win in every way.

The tournament was a great success and credit must be given Ike Wentworth for the able way in which it was handled. Complete results of the tournament were as follows:

First Flight—John Hodge defeated N. S. Ewing, 1 up.
Third Flight—C. Van der Abe defeated L. R. Gunsolus, 2 up.

WASHINGTON ROWERS ARE CHEERED IN EAST

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 19.—The Varsity and freshmen crews of the University of Washington which will compete in the intercollegiate regatta on June 23, appeared on the river for the first time today and were loudly cheered by the Columbia oarsmen. Paddling down stream to the Poughkeepsie bridge, the purple and gold oarsmen, at the direction of Jim Rice, stopped for a few seconds opposite the Washington float, cheered and were cheered in return.

SEVERNS CLAIMS MINERAL ELEMENTS ARE VITALIZERS

Article XLII
BY BARCLAY L. SEVERNS

A number of books have been written showing the value of the different foods. They tell you the percentage of carbohydrates, hydrocarbons, proteins, etc., and advise you to select the best foods.

The tell you of the approximate amount of calories in the various foods and just how many calories you should eat in order to maintain your health.

The advice is good as far as it goes, but you can follow it and at the same time be eating food lacking in the organic mineral elements; if this is the case, it will be impossible to either maintain or regain health until these elements are supplied.

The organic cell salts and the vitamine are the real foundation of health, efficiency and strength. In selecting combinations of foods see that some at least contain these organic cell salts and the vitamines upon which your well-being so greatly depends.

There are fully 500,000 children that die in this country each year, and food experts claim that more than one-half of these die because of wrong combinations of food which do not contain the necessary mineral elements needed for the proper development of their bodies. One of the principal mistakes is made in giving them white bread and rice, barley, corn, wheat and oats that have been robbed of their mineral salts and hence of their food values.

Many children are poisoned by being fed denatured food which fills the stomach but which cannot be fully digested or assimilated; this causes congestion, maladministration, auto-intoxication and eventually death.

It seems unfortunate to say the least, that we do not enact laws that will prevent manufacturers from extracting valuable elements from our food.

All the digestive fluids, the saliva, gastric juice, pancreatic juice and the bile, are composed of the organic mineral salts in solution, and, as digestion cannot be carried on without these secretions, you can see how necessary they are; if the foods you eat do not contain them, you cannot help being weak. Your vitality is low, and, in this condition, illness and perhaps death may soon overtake you.

We can realize how important the fluids of the body are when we consider that we can do without food for weeks, but cannot do without water two days.

The human system contains between 75 per cent to 85 per cent of water, and unless we furnish this supply we cannot be healthy any more than we can if we fail to supply the necessary mineral salts. Both of these are the basis of life which the rest of the foods help to maintain.

You can never expect to have health, strength and vital power, unless you drink liquids freely or eat food that contains enough water to supply the amount used up daily.

The blood is made up of countless numbers of corpuscles and of various mineral salts, and as we find the blood so do we find the system. When the necessary iron is in the blood, this organic iron passes through the lungs, is charged, oxidized by the air you breathe, and becomes magnetic. You will always find the person who has plenty of iron in his blood and who breathes fully filling at least three-fourths of the lung capacity with fresh air, magnetic and full of life and action. But without sufficient iron in the blood, you cannot be strong, even though you breathe correctly.

If you get up in the morning with a tired feeling, it is a sign that iron is lacking in the system, and you should heed this warning at once for serious results will surely follow if the deficiency is not supplied.

The person with the proper amount of iron in his blood feels like jumping out of bed in the morning. He is eager to take a cool tub bath or a shower of cold water and when he gets out of doors he takes long breaths of the life-giving elements in the air for which the iron in the blood is calling.

Food, as it grows, contains just the necessary elements to maintain life and health; when you rob it of certain parts intended for use you are cheated out of basic elements. You change a natural food to a denatured one. For instance, whole wheat contains practically all of the organic cell salts, while white wheat flour is mainly composed of starch; this creates in the intestines free sulphuric acid from the albuminoid sulphur. This sulphuric acid, in turn, abstracts elements from the tissues which impairs or destroys them.

The organic minerals not only act as builders, vitalizers, and contructors, but they also control the destructive processes continually taking place in the body of man.

when it comes to laying in a few on his own account.

KANT-SKORE PISTONS ENTER STRONG TEAM

With every intention of copping every known honor the Kant-Skore Piston baseball team has been reorganized under the leadership of Paul Zuelch and from the looks of the line-up things will go hard for all opponents. Their first game comes off Sunday when they meet Hynes at Hynes.

The line-up looks something like this, Thompson, center field, ex-captain of L. A. High; Fred Phaller, second base, L. A. High; Vic Orsatti, third base, Manual Arts' home-run king; Joe Klinkheimer, first base, captain of Loyola College team; Ralph Layne, short stop, L. A. High; Bob Ackley, left field, L. A. High; Paul Zuelch, right field; Lester Berry, catcher, L. A. High; Bert Kerby, pitcher, Manual Arts; Ray Mairs, pitcher, L. A. High.

BEES STING THREE SOLON BALL HEAVERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—The slugging Salt Lake Bees pounded three Solon pitchers for bunched hits and extra bases in today's opening game of the week's schedule, driving Penner from the hill in the third after four runs had been scored off him, and finally winning by a score of 9 to 4. Today's defeat brings the total of Sacramento reverses up to ten out of the fourteen games played here since the team came home three weeks ago. Score:

VERNON SHOOT BILLED FOR THE SABBATH DAY

The sixth round of the series of eight shoots on the tree tropies upfor classes A, B and C, shooters will be put on the Vernon Gun Club next Sunday, it was announced last night by secretary Bill Pugh.

One hundred targets will be the program, shot at from 16 yards. A handicap shoot at fifty targets will follow the century event. On the three trophies, the gunners, when eight shoots have been held, will select the best two scores made. Sunday's shoot is expected to attract a large crowd as the eighth annual registered tournament for Vernon will be started on the following Friday, June 28, with the practice day shoot.

BLOOMER GIRLS TO BATTLE

Miss Katie Becker's world-champion bloomer girls of Chicago will engage the Shell Oil baseball team in mortal combat this afternoon at Signal Hill. The contest is scheduled to be staged at 4 o'clock.

Seven girls appear in the line-up, the other positions being filled by members of the sterner sex. Miss Annie Kenisner is slated to pitch for the girls. Mable Bohle makes a keen rival for any first baseman in any man's league. It is said she handles herself a la Sisler.

The girls have a full program lined up for the rest of the week. Tomorrow they will play at Wilmington. Friday they appear at Hermosa Beach. Saturday will find them at Sawtelle. On Sunday the fair athletes will tangle with the Telephone company all stars at White Sox park.

Johnson and Grella Clash in Ring Bout

A galaxy of amateur ring satallites will be on hand tomorrow evening at the Los Angeles Athletic Club to perform in the regular monthly boxing show. Eight attractive struggles will comprise the program.

Two slashing middleweights have been designated for the future attraction. The principals are "cyclone" Ed Johnson and John Grella. Both boys are cut-and-out sluggers and Matchmaker George Blake apparently has lined up one of the best main events that has been offered by the L. A. A. C. in some time.

Johnson cut a wide swath in the recently staged Pacific Coast A. A. U. tournament when he was awarded a technical knockout over that good youngster, Clayton Frye of the Multnomah A. C. of Portland, Oregon. In hooking up with Grella, Johnson will have to step a merry pace as the former can sock with any of the middleweights that have appeared here. At any rate, it should be a hectic fray with plenty of interesting fistic exchanges.

The complete card:

PARIS IS RILED BY KID SIKI

Dusky Battler Once More Hauled Before Police Court, but is Freed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PARIS, June 19.—Battling Siki, the Senegalese heavyweight today was fined 200 francs and lectured in police court for firing a revolver in a cafe, punching the nose of a waiter and insulting the policeman who arrested him. The judge added five francs for drunkeness.

Siki grinned broadly as he listened to the good advice from the bench, gave a military salute and shook hands with everyone in the courtroom except the judge who took refuge in flight. The fighter then walked out, followed by the hundreds who had packed the courtroom expecting the stiff jail sentence which the court had promised if Siki was ever again haled before it.

Many a Successful Business in Los Angeles was purchased through a Times Ad. Similar opportunities are on the market today's "Business Chances."

A Wall Street for Real Estate!

During the month of May, 1923, the LOS ANGELES TIMES printed 32,670 real-estate want ads, or 60% more than all three local afternoon newspapers combined.

Even more significant as showing the dominating position of THE TIMES in the real-estate market is this fact:

During this same month over 1,600 people advertised in THE TIMES for "Real-Estate Wanted."

The responsiveness of TIMES readers not merely attracts advertising, but TIMES readers are SO READY TO DO BUSINESS they are willing to spend hard cash to tell their wants.

An average of over 50 people per day thus bought space in THE TIMES TO PUBLISH THEIR REAL-ESTATE NEEDS, exceeding by a wide margin all similar advertisements in all other local papers put together, morning and evening.

TIMES Want Ads, like Wall Street, furnish BUYERS to match the SELLERS. It is not a service of paper and ink any more than the New York Stock Exchange consists of a building. In both cases, leadership of the world comes from the NUMBERS AND RESPONSIVENESS OF THE ASSEMBLED BUYERS AND SELLERS.

Chicago Board Stigmatized as Gambling Place

Wheat Pit Executive in Hot Reply to Senator

"Absolute Denial" Entered; Suit Threatened

BY FRANK RIDGWAY
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 19.—Senator Capper, Kansas, livened up the opening session of the two-day national wheat conference today when he made an attack on the Chicago Board of Trade.

"For years every wheat grower in the United States has been regularly victimized and our great milling industry upset by the 'bear raids,' by 'May squeezes,' by vicious short selling on a huge scale at the hands of big manipulators who have been in control of the Chicago Board of Trade, and have used it unscrupulously to accomplish their ends," declared Senator Capper.

"The Chicago Board of Trade has become the world's greatest gambling place and fixed the price for the benefit of the speculator and against the producer and consumer. Federal regulations to prohibit market manipulation as provided in the Capper-Tincher law, recently sustained by the Supreme Court, undoubtedly was necessary.

DEFENDS STATUTE

"This law does not in any way restrict the market except to eliminate the vicious gambling practices and the violent fluctuations in prices brought about by the gambling evil. The drop of 40 cents a bushel in the famous 'May squeeze' a year ago was accomplished by this gambling and market manipulating element. A half-dozen grain gamblers 'cleaned up' something like $2,000,000 in twenty-four hours, which was more than all the farmers of Kansas made out of their entire crop in 1922. This will not be possible with the Capper-Tincher law in operation."

Jumping to the platform immediately after Senator Capper had finished his address, John R. Mauff, executive vice-president of the Chicago Board of Trade, attempted to defend his organization. After being recognized by Representative Sydney Anderson, permanent chairman of the conference, Mr. Mauff said:

BOARD DEFENDED

"I desire, in the name of that honorable body of men, members of the Chicago Board of Trade, comprising bankers, transportation managers, men of high standing, in Canada and in Europe, and in nearly every city of the United States, to enter an absolute denial of the charges so loosely thrown out at this conference by the last speaker."

Afterward Mr. Mauff said:

"This matter will be brought to the attention of our attorney and when our president, J. J. Stream, returns to the city, a meeting of the members of our board of directors will be called to decide upon whether the public utterance made by Senator Capper at the national wheat conference, before an audience of 600 delegates and others is actionable—whether we can bring suit for damages on account of defamation of character of the 1598 members of the Chicago Board of Trade."

URGES WHEAT AS FEED

Turn one-fourth of the wheat crop to fattening the live stock on farms and the farmers' annual loss will be turned to a profit commensurate with the work of producing the necessities of life, F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., declared tonight before the banquet of the national wheat conference, called by Governors and representatives of various phases of the wheat-growing and marketing industry.

Mr. White spoke on the problem of eliminating from the country the annual surplus of wheat, which long has been the bane of the farmer's life, he said. The carry-over was in the neighborhood of 170,000,000 bushels this year, and we are now within a month of the new harvest.

"Feed more wheat" might not be a bad slogan for the farmers of many localities, he said.

Charles H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central Railroad, spoke on the traffic problems of the wheat industry. He advocated more scientific marketing.

SECOND SESSION TODAY

The conference will hold its second session tomorrow, at which Chairman Wallace of the resolutions committee will report. Mr. Wallace, from Minnesota, is a brother of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

One resolution, introduced by Benjamin C. Marsh, president of the National Farmers' Council of Washington, D. C., declared it to be the sense of the conference that the real solution of the surplus-wheat problem, with its kindred difficulties of unprofitable farming and unstable agricultural organization, may best be solved by means of a government price-stabilizing organization, or a nation-wide marketing arrangement under the supervision of the Federal government.

Another resolution urged an extraordinary session of Congress with a view of having the United States government call a world conference for the stabilization of the wheat industry.

President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor will address the conference tomorrow on the relation of farm prices to wages.

SCOUTS NEW PARTY TALK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, June 19.—"I do not think there is any chance for a third party," said Gov. John M. Parker of Louisiana, who is the guest of the Elks here.

"Party means organization, and the two old parties are well organized and have the issues pretty well defined. It would be difficult to organize a third party."

Gov. Parker came here from Springfield, Mass., where he visited Henry Ford. "Not a word was spoken about politics and Mr. Ford gave no intimation that he would be a candidate for President," said the Governor.

"Mr. Ford told me that when he started in the automobile business twenty years ago practically all his business came from the South. He did not say anything to me about the charges that he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan."

Others in the Governor's party said Mr. Ford, in general conversation, said he had never been a Klansman and was not in sympathy with the organization.

"Is sentiment in the South showing any change on prohibition?" the Governor was asked.

"I do not hear much talk about the Volstead Act, and would hardly consider it an issue," he replied.

To the Taxpayers of Los Angeles City

Every winter the water of the aqueduct runs mostly to waste into the Pacific Ocean; this is an undisputed fact and the wastage amounts to at least 75% of the flow of the aqueduct since its completion.

The wastage of water in a semi-arid country like Southern California is an economic crime.

Together with other farmers of the Valley, I have for seven years tried to stop this great waste; we have tried to prevail upon the Board of Public Service to make a consistent policy of selling this waste water for irrigation in the Valley at rates customary in Southern California for such water. A policy that would benefit the City Treasury, that would augment the flow of the Los Angeles River, that would be of very great assistance to the farmers; that would help all citizens in that it would materially cheapen the cost of food production.

Personally, I have now decided to seek aid of the Courts, believing that where there is a wrong there is a remedy.

I recognize the magnitude of the task; I recognize that in pitting myself against the Board of Public Service with all its attorneys, and with all its engineers, and with a bottomless purse kept full by taxpayers I am facing a Goliath.

Every citizen of Los Angeles is interested in this fight and I here and now give them the opportunity of assisting in it financially. This fight is going on whether citizens assist me or not but it is money that makes the fur fly.

I would be glad to accept financial assistance under the following express conditions:

1. As there must be unity of command no contributor gains any voice in the management of this fight; I will need, and will listen attentively to counsel, but in the end I will make the decision. I do not want your assistance if I have not your confidence.

2. Contributions shall be confidential and disposed of solely at my discretion.

3. That it is distinctly understood that I am giving only my spare time to this fight, and only after I have attended to my own business and affairs and that as I am acting without any compensation that no contributor has any right to haul me over the coals for any act of omission or commission.

4. That contributions be earmarked and after this fight is over, or annually, if it lasts more than a year, a statement be published in the Los Angeles Times showing itemized contributions earmarked and itemized expenditures, and finally giving the unexpended balance, if any, to the Salvation Army.

NEW MEXICO BROOM CORN ACREAGE VAST

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLOVIS (N. M.) June 19.—According to statistics the broom-corn acreage in New Mexico this season is 22,000 acres, as compared with 11,000 acres last year. The fact that the grower is now being offered more than $250 a ton is responsible for the increased planting. The abundant rainfall since the 1st inst. in the broom-corn section of the State will undoubtedly further increase the acreage this year, and planting is still in progress.

In the six broom-corn-growing States the acreage of this crop has been increased from 257,000 acres in 1922 to 416,000 acres for this season.

On the 1st inst. the condition of the crop in New Mexico was 85 per cent normal; in Illinois, 83 per cent; Texas, 77 per cent, and Oklahoma, 62 per cent.

Curry, Quay, Roosevelt and Union counties are the leading broom-corn-producing sections of New Mexico.

FUNDS TO PROMOTE CURE OF DIABETES

ROCKEFELLER GRANT EXTENDED TO FIFTEEN HOSPITALS FOR INSULIN USE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 19.—A gift of $150,000, to be distributed among fifteen hospitals in the United States and Canada to promote the use of insulin in the treatment of diabetes was announced tonight by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. The hospitals are in all sections of the country.

The purpose of the gifts, Mr. Rockefeller said, would be to increase the number of free ward patients who could be treated with insulin and to teach physicians in general practice the proper methods of employing insulin in the treatment of diabetes.

The period during which the sums should be expended was not specified, but was left to the discretion of the hospital authorities. The hospitals, which were selected by a committee headed by Dr. Simon Flexner, included the Lane Hospital, San Francisco.

CONGRESS PARTY IS GUEST OF SPOKANE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SPOKANE, June 19.—Twenty United States Senators and Representatives with women relatives were guests of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce on a four-hour visit here today. They are en route from a trip to Alaska. Their stay here included an automobile trip over Spokane and vicinity, and a luncheon, during which Fred A. Adams, educational director of the Columbia Basin Irrigation League, gave an illustrated talk on the Columbia Basin irrigation project. From Spokane the special will travel to Glacier National Park.

HUGE SHORTAGE FOUND IN TRUST BANK'S FUND

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

HARRISBURG (PA.) June 19.—Discovery of a shortage of $170,000 in trust funds of the Waynesboro Trust company, Waynesboro, was reported today by Secretary of Banking Peter G. Cameron. Secretary Cameron announced he had ordered the arrest of Charles H. Coover, treasurer.

The secretary said Coover had made a confession admitting the money was lost through speculation.

The shortage has been made good without loss either to the stockholders or the depositors, Mr. Cameron said.

TO EXAMINE LAWYER WHO SHOT OFFICER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, June 19.—Donald A. Rethrock, a local attorney, who shot Traffic Officer Rhodes on the night of March 22, has been sent to the army hospital at Palo Alto, for examination as to his mental condition for treatment. He had been returned to the County Jail from the State insane asylum, where he had been under observation. He is said to have been subject to fits of depression and at times to have been unaccountable for his actions.

COLORADO FERRIES RUNNING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, June 19.—Despite high water on the Colorado River, no stoppage has been noted of ferries at Blythe or Parker, and travel between Phoenix and Los Angeles is uninterrupted. The roads, though dry, probably are better than they will be next month, when summer rains are expected.

ABUSE IS CHARGED BY SAAR

District Representatives Make Strong Protest to League of Nations

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

BERLIN, June 19.—Encouraged by the recent indications of sympathy in England and elsewhere, the population of the Saar district, through the elected representatives on the Advisory Council, have sent a petition to the League of Nations asking relief against alleged abuses of power and disregard of treaty rights by the League of Nation's governing commission.

The indictment charges deliberate violation of the spirit and the letter of the League convenent and the Saar convention on six different points and declares, in conclusion, that the commission has forfeited the respect and confidence of all elements of the population by its methods and stands absolutely isolated in the district.

The commission, it is declared, has fallen down on the high ideals of its mission and has disregarded the League's principles of justice, liberty and self-determination; has rejected an opportunity to bridge the gulf between two neighboring peoples and thereby has brought into contempt the high principles for which the League was founded.

The League Council hitherto has turned a deaf ear to the population's protests against the governing commission, but recent criticisms of its administration by British, Scandinavian and other representatives on the council give a hope of a better reception of this petition, which was indorsed unanimously by all parties in the Advisory Council except the Communists.

A Summer in Pa

Can't you vision the delight of a holiday in the romantic South Sea of Hawaii? Surf-riding and swimming at Waikiki; exploring the fiery throat of Kilauea, world's greatest living volcano; golf, mountain tramping, deep-sea fishing, motoring—all in a climate of eternal summer, amid exotic tropic foliage and bloom. Hawaii's summer climate is delightfully cool.

From any one of the "Four Ports to Paradise"—Vancouver, B.C., Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles—you may sail direct, making the voyage in four to eight days, the round trip in three weeks, at a total cost not to exceed the expense of not more than $350.

PROTEST RISE IN MANAGER'S PAY

Petition Filed by Citizens of Phoenix

Document is Rejected for Irregularity

Case, However, is to be Taken to Court

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, June 19.—A technical snag has been struck by the movement to block a rise in the City Manager's salary from $6000 to $8000 a year. There was due filing, on the last legal day, of a referendum petition carrying 860 names. The protestants said they had other petitions, carrying about 400 names, but that only 350 were needed in all, as the vote at the last election was 3500. If the gross registration for the last full election period were considered, the number on the petition might have to be 750.

The petition was rejected by City Clerk Hugh Callahan, on the advice of Assistant City Attorney Pat Nelson, on the ground that it was "irregular and void." The irregularity appears to be in that the forms for the petitions were not secured from the clerk's office and that there had been interpolation of the words, "or at a special election called for that purpose," this with reference to submission of the question to the voters.

OBJECTIONS TRIVIAD

That these objections are trivial and that the law has been followed in all essential features is contended by the petitioners, who have ten days in which to take their case to the courts, either through mandamus on the City Clerk or by legal notice on the City Treasurer, warning him not to pay the increased salary.

The petition was submitted by Henry H. Miller, C. W. Hartman, who was street superintendent of the former administration, and George B. Schade. In addition to the formal presentation of the subject, is set forth: "While it is true that the present City Manager, Mr. Avery Thompson, refuses to work as manager of the city of Phoenix at a salary of $6000, the former manager, Mr. W. C. Foster, a capable and efficient man, a potent factor in the reduction of taxes in the city of Phoenix, received the aforesaid salary and discharged the duties of this office in a business-like manner.

COMPARE LOS ANGELES

"We are informed that the Mayor of Los Angeles, a city many times greater in population than the city of Phoenix, receives a salary of $5000 a year, and we feel that the duties of his office are far more cumbersome and important than the duties of the City Manager of a city the size of Phoenix." Possibly in apprehension of trouble was an added paragraph to the effect that it was hoped that no frivolous objection might be found, to keep the matter from early submission to the people.

The movement for the salary reduction is understood to come especially from individuals resentful over the manner in which the new Mayor was selected in March, by the deciding vote of the City Clerk, after resignation of the elected Mayor, L. L. Harmon. There was a switch overnight from J. L. Irvin to L. B. Whitney. All three are Democrats, prominent in the party, while both Foster and Thompson are Republicans. Party politics is not involved, though there are complications among factions within both parties.

INJUNCTION PLEA IN COMBINE CASE DENIED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19. — Federal Judge Dooling denied today the government's application for a temporary injunction to restrain the Industrial Association o San Francisco, the Builders' Exchange and forty firms and individuals in the San Francisco Bay region from continuing operations in an asserted conspiracy in restraint of trade.

Hearing on a petition for a permanent injunction under the Sherman antitrust law is pending. The defendant group, most of them building-material dealers, are asserted to have formed a combination and to have refused to deal with contractors who operate under the so-called American or open-shop plan.

In his decision Judge Dooling stated that he was not convinced there was "any appreciable interference with interstate commerce resulting from a unity of action on the part of the defendants" and that there is at present "no threatened or prospective injury to commerce grave enough to warrant the court to disturb in advance of a trial the industrial situation existing in San Francisco and neighboring counties for the past three years."

The defendants previously had been acquitted in local court on charges of violating the Californ Antitrust Act, known as the Cartwright Act. The injunction proceedings grew out of an investigation conducted by two special assistants to the Attorney-General.

FLAMES GET FIREBUG AND IGNITE TROUSERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 19.—Ernest Buell, German war veteran and confessed firebug, testified today that he had cerried out so thoroughly a contract with John M. Larsen, famous aviator and airplane builder, to burn Larsen's $200,000 plant at Central Park, Long Island, last Feoruary, that the flames caught him and set his trousers on fire. He had to use a fire extinguisher to save himself, he said.

Buell is the chief witness for the Commercial Union Assurance Company, Ltd., which is suing Larsen for $18,000 paid him on an insurance policy.

MEXICO SEEKING TOURIST TRADE

Foreign Office Opens Drive to Attract Travelers

Southern Republic Has Many Points of Interest

Monuments Left by Ancient Races Are Intriguing

BY JACK STARR-HUNT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, June 19.—The Mexican Foreign Office is making a determined effort to influence the tourist trade, especially from the United States, which formerly went to Cuba and other countries during the winter months, and with that object in view has recently issued 100,000 copies of an attractive and well-illustrated pamphlet which have been sent to all Mexican consuls throughout the United States, England and Canada.

The average American knows practically nothing about the neighboring republic and, except for the man with business interests there, who has thus been fortunate enough to have seen some of its beauties as well as its disadvantages, the general opinion has been that it is a pretty wild place and better kept away from. This is not deserved, for there are few countries of more interest to the tourist seeking the unusual, or to the business man taking a vacation while on the outlook for a new field for his activities, than Mexico.

BOASTS OLD HISTORY

Mexico City itself is fast becoming better known to the discriminating tourist, and its wonderful monuments left by her ancient races make it one of the most interesting of the world's cities for both pleasure and study. Mexico's history dates back to ancient Egypt or even further. The people of the Mythic Islands, it is said, settled both in Mexico and Egypt. The relics and romances which remain today in the train of the Aztec and Spanish rulers will furnish unforgettable days by those over whom the lure of past casts its spell.

The capital is located in the center of a plateau more than 7800 feet above sea level and is entirely surrounded by lofty, snow-capped mountains. Owing to this elevation the city's 750,000 inhabitants enjoy a temperate climate the whole year around. During the rainy season—June to September—a shower lasting an hour or two may be expected daily, but during the dry season—October to June—rain is seldom seen.

FEW GOOD HOTELS

There are, however, few first-class hotels at the service of the visitor to the city. English is spoken almost everywhere. Parks and playgrounds for the children abound, and music by military and police bands is played frequently in the principal paks. Motor trips to all points of interest are well arranged, while for those to whom the modern motion picture is a necessity the best and most recent films are to be seen. The journey to Mexico, whether by sea or land, is interesting; to travel in Mexico is even more so. The beauty of its scenery, the mysterious attraction of its cities, Swiss lakes, Italian skies and thrilling scenes—all have their counterpart in Mexico.

American clubs in Mexico's capital are well known to visitors. Those patronized by the American and English elements are principally the Country Club, the Reforma Athletic Club, British Rowing, Chapultepec Country Club, American Club, British Club and University Club.

RAIL MEN PROMISE AID IN FARM LEGISLATION

FIGHT FOR FAIR PRICES WINS BACKING OF ENGINEERS' BROTHERHOOD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND, June 19. — The railway men's organization will back the farmers to the limit in securing legislation in the new Congress and governmental action needed to stabilize prices of farm products, Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, asserted today.

"We know that consumers of farm products have been and are paying enough for farm products so that the farmers could have fair prices for what they produce and still pay all legitimate and necessary costs of distribution," the statement said. "The railway men's organizations are with the farmers in their fight for fair, that is honest, prices, and will help them get practical measures to assure them such prices."

SUBMISSIONS FILED IN SANTA FE WAGE FIGHT

SIGNALMEN AND RAIL HEAD PRESENT DISPUTE PLEAS JOINTLY

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, June 19. — A joint submission in a dispute between the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway System and the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen for America involving an increase in wages, was filed with the Railroad Labor Board today.

The petition was presented to the board by President W. B. Storey of the system.

The signalmen ask that the following rate of pay be established:

Gang foremen, $1 an hour; leading signalmen and signal maintainers, 90 cents; signal maintainers, 85 cents; assistant signal men and signal maintainers, 70 to 76 cents, depending on the length of service, 2 cents an hour to be added for each six months accumulated; signal helpers, 60 cents.

ARGONAUT MINE BLAST VICTIM STILL MISSING

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

JACKSON, June 19. — The eighty foot sump at the Argonaut has been thoroughly cleaned out and no trace found of the body of William Fessel, missing miner of the disaster of last August. It was confidently expected that Fessel's body would be in the sump. The search will be continued until every foot of the mine has been covered, officials state.

Noticias de Washington

WASHINGTON, junio 19.— Mañana comenzará el viaje del Presidente Harding, quien va a hacer una jira por el oeste, el oeste central, y Alaska. Lleva por mira hablarle al pueblo sobre las cuestiones importantes del momento presente, nó con fines políticos, sino para darle cuenta de su administración.

Los líderes republicanos han señalado la estadística del impuesto sobre la renta en 1921, por la que puede verse que sobre ocho estados del norte, que son republicanos, gravitó el 75 por ciento de esa gavela, no habiéndoles correspondido a los estados demócratas del sur ni el 5 por ciento.

El Comité de Relaciones Extranjeras de la Liga del Gobierno Popular Nacional ha dirigido una protesta al Presidente con motivo de la concesión petrolera Chester. Dice que ella pone en peligro la seguridad americana.

Inundaciones en Nebraska

OMAHA (Nebraska) junio 19.—Ayer se produjeron considerables daños materiales en Nebraska, originados por las crecientes de los ríos Beaver, Loup, Cedar, Elkhorn y Platte, engrosados por las lluvias; pero no hubo, felizmente, pérdidas de vidas, según informes recibidos aquí hoy de varias regiones del Estado. Ya habían comenzado las aguas a bajar desde hoy.

Algunos ramales de los ferrocarriles Unión Pacific y Chicago y Noroeste han perdido muchas millas de vía herrada debido a deslaves en varias secciones; muchos puentes pequeños han sido igualmente destruídos. Créese que por algún tiempo carecerán varias poblaciones de servicio de trenes.

Declárase Inconstitucional una Ley

SAN FRANCISCO, junio 19.—La Suprema Corte del Estados declaró ayer inconstitucional una ley promulgada por la Legislatura de 1919. Se dispone en ella que los patronos suministren un fondo que provea a la rehabilitación de los obreros lisiados en el trabajo industrial. La parte de esa ley que crea un impuesto es, según sostuvo la Suprema Corte, inconstitucional.

NOTAS LOCALES

Aprehensión de un Abacero en el Puerto

Con motivo de que los maestros de la Escuela Preparatoria del Puerto de Los Angeles, y los padres de los educandos, se quejaron a la policía de que los estudiantes de dicha escuela se han presentado a las clases en estado de ebriedad, las autoridades resolvieron practicar un raid en una abacería cercana al solar de la escuela. Lo efectuaron ayer, y dió por resultado, al decir de la policía, la confiscación de gran cantidad de licor inebriante. Durante el raid, fué aprehendido John Macceno, dueño, según dice la policía, del almacén de comestibles que frecuentaban los escolares, y se ha formulado contra él la acusación de haber violado la ley Wright, pues se encontraron en su establecimiento setenta y ocho botellas de vino, y setenta y cinco botellas de "jackass brandy." Alegó inculpabilidad ante el Sr. Sheldon, Juez de Policía, solicitando se vea su causa en jurado. Fué puesto en libertad bajo caución de $2000.

Dos Individuos Acusados de Lotarios

Dos individuos que se hallan ahora en la cárcel de la ciudad de Nueva York, y que se han conquistado, según se dice, el título de Lotarios, van a ser traídos aquí para juzgarlos, según quedó decidido ayer, a raíz de que el gran jurado formuló tres inculpaciones en el juzgado del Juez Avery. Richard G. Francois, que se dice ha hecho ardientemente la corte a varias mujeres de Los Angeles, Chicago y Nueva York, fué inculpado por dos capítulos: bigamia y latrocinio mayor. Se le acusa de haberse casado aquí con la Sra. Blanche Uniack, de la calle Alvarado Sur, 722, el 1 de julio de 1922, siendo todavía esposo legal de la Sra. Lillian B. Francois. Se le hace también el cargo de latrocinio mayor, pues días después de su último enlace, se substrajo joyas valoradas en $2500, y pertenecientes a su esposa No. 2. El Juez Avery fijó su fianza en $10,000.

La otra inculpación recayó sobre Angelo Quaglia, que se hizo pasar aquí por conde italiano, en la época de su supuesto matrimonio con Leah Garner, que se efectuó en mayo 27 último. Se le acusa de que en ese tiempo era esposo de la Sra. Elmira Bruce-Quaglia.

Los Pastores Renuevan sus Ataques a la Policía

Los ministros Gustav A. Briegleb y Robert B. Shuler se presentaron de improviso ayer en la junta del Consejo de Comisionados de Policía, en el Ayuntamiento, para refrendar sus cargos contra el departamento de policía. Entregaron a la comisión referida una lista de veintiséis lugares en Los Angeles, donde, al decir de cartas recibidas por los ministros, se juega y se vende ilegalmente licor, bajo la protección de la policía. El Alcalde Cryer y el Comisionado De Coo manifestaron que se haría desde luego una investigación en los sitios señalados.

DEPORTES

Pugilato

NUEVA YORK, junio 19.—Benny Leonard, campeón mundial pesoligero, defenderá su título contra Lew Tendler, de Filadelfia, la noche del 23 de julio, en el Yankee Stadium, en combate de quince asaltos, según convenio celebrado hoy entre los principales. La pelea Leonard-Tendler, que se ha estado esperando con ansiedad desde el encuentro de estos dos púgiles hace algunos meses, se cree que atraerá la mayor muchedumbre que haya venido nunca a una contienda pugilística de esta ciudad.

Despertóse nuevo interés en la pelea eliminatoria de gran peso Willard-Firpo, anunciada para julio 13, con la llegada del gigante de Kansas, que arribó anoche a Nueva York y fué inmediatamente a conferenciar con Tex Rickard. El gran ex-campeón está, según su propio dicho, en tan buena condición al presente, como en el día en que dió su k.o. a Floyd Johnson, en la función a beneficio del fondo para leche, y espera ponerse desde luego en entrenamiento.

Tennis

WITHINGTON (Inglaterra) junio 19.—El Conde de Gomar, jugador español, escribió hoy su nombre de modo indeleble en el horizonte del tennis, pues eleminió a Raldolph Lycett, uno de los más fuertes jugadores de Inglaterra, en el partido de la Copa Davis, por 6-4, 6-1, 7-5. Las dos victorias del Conde de Gomar en los nones, y su victoria en las parejas con Edouard Flacquer, pusieron a España en la tanda semifinal del certamen europeo, en la que el equipo español se las verá con Holanda, y el ganador del encuentro estará casi seguro de llarse con Francia. El juego de Gomar durante los matches de la Copa Davis efectuados aquí ha sido brillantísimo, y sus limpios tiros de tierra, así como su rápido juegó de red, han mantenido en la defensiva a los jugadores ingleses. Créese probable que Manuel Alonzo, as del equipo español de 1922 en la Copa Davis regrese de América a Europa para jugar contra el equipó francés, si los españoles logran derrotar la entrante semana a los holandeses.

Baseball

San Francisco venció por 2 a 0 a Vernon en el primer partido de la serie de la semana, jugado ayer en el parque Washington. Los Angeles le ganó en el norte a Oakland por anotación de 5 a 3.

LAUSANNE REPORTERS PLANNING TO GO HOME

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LAUSANNE June 19.—Impatience with the dragging progress of the Near East Peace conference found new expression today when Turkey's twelve press representatives met and decided to go home unless there are prospects of immediate progress.

The significance of this decision is that it is evidently actuated by the Turkish government, which foots the correspondents' bills, only one representative among them being paid by newspapers.

It was learned today that the question now being discussed not at Lausanne, but at Paris, London and Rome, which are the real seats of the conference, is the Turkish counter formula in the payment of debts proposed after the French formula failed to obtain support.

In this new formula the Turks agree to accept the Mosaren decree regarding the regulation of the Ottoman debt, but to make a different division of payments, 40 per cent paper and 60 per cent gold payments being spread over a period of fifteen years, the first payment to be made March 1, 1925.

The Turkish delegation received word today that the Angora Assembly had voted a credit of £4,000,000 to pay the Lausanne delegation expenses. About £2,500,000 already has been spent.

JAPANESE FORBIDDEN BET ON HORSE RACE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOKIO, June 19.—Cash sweeps at the annual spring race of the Peking Club this year have not been as liberal as in previous years. A winning ticket paid for first place $4731, while the figure in previous years went beyond the $8000 mark. This set some people thinking, and it resolved itself into this finally—the Japanese were not betting.

Last autumn, it is said, a prominent member of the Japanese Diet called at the Japanese Consulate-General in Shanghai on some business. He asked for one official; that person was not in. He asked for another, neither was that individual in. He finally found that everyone of importance was out—and at the races. The irate Japanese immediately registered a mental resolution that he would put a stop to this, and on his arrival in Tokio called at the Foreign Office and registered an emphatic protest over the way in which the government's representatives abroad were said to be carrying on.

SLAYER OF HUSBAND IS GIVEN SENTENCE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OROVILLE, June 19.—Mrs. Mae Murdoch of Biggs, convicted of manslaughter for the killing of her husband, whom she had said Ouija board messages had told her to slay, was sentenced to from one to ten years in San Quentin penitentiary today by Superior Court Judge Gregory.

Butte county officials have recommended to the prison board that the maximum penalty be exacted. The killing occured on the Murdoch ranch March 17.

CAR LICENSE CALL HEAVY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, June 19.—Prosperity may be indicated by the fact that Maricopa county this year is calling for 6000 more motor-car plates than were used last year. It is expected that 20,000 pairs will be issued.

Prepared to Die--- Veronica Saves Him

Baltimore, Md.—I have suffered for the past eight years with kidney and bladder troubles and have used all kinds of remedies, but without success. One year ago this fall I gave up and went to bed, the doctors saying that I could not live six months. I was so bad that I could not leave my bed and was preparing myself to die, when I heard of Veronica Water, and about two weeks before Christmas I began its use and continued regularly, and was able to go downstairs to my New Year's dinner, and have been gaining ever since. I think by the time I use another case I shall be permanently cured, and I can recommend it to all others for these troubles.—Benjamin A. Hoffman, Baltimore, Md.

Veronica Water is a natural mineral water pure and unadulterated just as it comes from the springs. It is sold by Drug Stores everywhere. A big generous 1½ qt. bottle for sixty-five cents. If your druggist does not have it in stock send his name to Veronica Springs Company, Santa Barbara, Calif., and arrangements will be made for you to obtain Veronica Water through him.

GIRLS! LEMONS WHITEN AND BEAUTIFY SKIN

Make this Lemon Cream to Clear Skin and bleach Tan, Freckles

Mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents, shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin softener and complexion beautifier. Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon cream into the face, neck, arms and hands, then shortly note the youthful beauty, softness and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this harmless lemon cream to bring that velvety, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate. —[Advertisement.

Merchant Financial Wreck

"I am a financial wreck because of the expense of doctors and medicine for my wife. She has been a chronic sufferer for 10 years. Some pronounced it gall stones, some gastritis and some intestinal inflammation. I happened to read an ad of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and from the first dose my wife has steadily improved." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflamation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Magical Beautifiers for Women

Women everywhere are trying all kinds of beautifiers, only to find that their effects are transitory. The first requisite of beauty is health. Without it the steps lag, eyes are lusterless, dark circles appear beneath them, the complexion becomes sallow, and almost invariably the underlying cause is some ailment peculiar to women. There is a very inexpensive remedy for this condition in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for nearly fifty years has been relieving women from some of the worst forms of female ills. Why not let it restore you to health and beauty and the joys of living?—[Advertisement.

RUM SLEUTHING FINDS DISFAVOR

Bonds Returned by Canada on Shipments to Mexico

Responsibility Ended When Liquor is Landed

Traffic in Puget Sound to be Cleaned Up

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) June 19. The Canadian government's investigation of liquor-landing conditions in Mexico, according to the bills of lading and customs bonds filed in the customs office here, has proven satisfactory, as the government lifted the restrictions on the bonds that had been held for the past two months and handed back to the liquor shippers their $900,000.

Some question arose in Ottawa as to the arrival of the Canadian boats at the Mexican port designated on the bonds that were collateral for the safe arrival of the ship and cargo at its destination. It has been contended by officials of the United States Prohibition party, in protest to Ottawa, that the liquor never went to the Mexican port, but was sold in the United States before going to Mexico.

MEXICO REACHED

A special investigation was made and it was found that the Canadian boats do go to Mexican ports and enter their cargoes, which is the only condition the Canadian government is interested in. One member of Parliament stated that if Mexico wanted to let the liquor leave again for some outside destination it was no business of the Canadian government.

The government could not follow liquor cargoes all around the world to be certain that they did not get into the United States. For his part, he though Canada had already spent too much money in airplane patrols and liquor investigations to protect the United States from its own buyers of liquor, and in future he intended to see that the money was spent for Canadian development.

Shippers of liquor on what is known as the short run, or that from Vancouver to Puget Sound, are experiencing difficulties. The majority of these shipments have been duty-paid goods and small boats have taken from 25 to 150 cases to some Canadian coast destination close to the boundary line and there been met by a United States boat and the transfer made.

TO CLEAN UP SOUND

Recently the Canadian customs department decreed that all liquor going out of the country must be shown on export papers at the customs office. The capture made last week at Discovery Island was of boats that had not complied with these regulations, but had slipped out of the Fraser River with their cargoes without reporting.

Atty.-Gen. Manson has decided to clean up all rum running in the Gulf of Georgia and in Puget Sound and has issued instructions to the provincial police to seize all boats that land liquor in Canadian waters from the small boats or that cannot show export papers for liquor going to United States.

Liquor exports to Mexico do not appear to be in the same disfavor as those to gulf ports or for transfer to Seattle and other Puget Sound ports, as several large shipments have cleared for Mexico re-recently.

GERMAN MAY GOLD EXPORT IS RECORD

NEXT TO ENGLAND IN AMOUNT OF PRECIOUS METAL SENT TO U. S.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—May imports of gold into the United States showed a considerable change in the sources from which the shipments were drawn.

While England was as usual, the largest exporter of gold, sending $26,680,215 to the United States, Germany sent $14,588,578. Germany never before has bulked so large in the export of gold to this country. The figures ares aid to represent a detail of reparations payments by which money turned over to Belgium in the course of settlement, became payable in New York to holders of international bills of exchange, which Belgium has sold.

China was the only other large source of gold sent into the United States during May, the amount being $1,277,814. The balance of the total was made up in small shipments from nearly every other country on the globe.

Gold exports from the United States during May amounted to $824,444. Mexico got practically all of it—$561,120—but that country also sent into the United States during the month $673,655.

DIVIDEND DECLARED BY CLOSED BANK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, June 19.—A twenty per cent dividend has been declared by Banking Superintendent Hammons to the creditors of the Parker Valley Bank of Parker and checks have been mailed 200 individuals. About $13,000 will be collected from the stockholders, under the State double-liability law, and there will be some addition from collections of $22,000 of paper of very uncertain value. The bank was closed in August of last year, when it was found that its manager had eliminated the cash by means of kited checks with an Oklahoma bank with which he had had connection. Smith, now in the Arizona penitentiary, was captured on a vessel in the harbor of Mazatlan, Mex.

MANY TAKE STUDY COURSES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MINNEAPOLIS, June 19.—Minnesotans are showing a rapidly increasing interest in the hundred or more courses of study offered by correspondence, according to a report by Prof. W. C. Smiley, director of University of Minnesota correspondence work. Registration in May and early June has been well above the number recorded in those months in 1922, he said. A number of new courses, many of them of a practical nature, have been added to the correspondence lists this year.

The Little Warrior

[SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS.]

Freddie Rooke, a young English sluggard, takes the welfare of his friend, Sir Derek Underhill, M.P., very much to heart. Sir Derek has lately become engaged to Jill Mariner and has so written his mother, Lady Underhill. The news is hurrying that lady to London and Freddie fears the worst for his friend who, in addition to keeping the commandments must also preserve the Underhill traditions. Freddie professes his faith in a pang in times of distress and comes to the station with two brother-club members to promote good will to the meeting of Derek and his mother.

The boat-train slid into the station. Bells rang, engines blew off steam, porters shouted, baggage trucks rattled over the platform. The train began to give up its contents, now in ones and twos, now in a steady stream. Most of the travelers seemed limp and exhausted, and were pale with the pallor that comes of a choppy Channel crossing. Almost the only exception to the general condition of collapse was the eagle-faced lady in the brown ulster, who had taken up her stand in the middle of the platform and was haranguing a subdued little maid in a voice that cut the gloomy air like a steel knife. Like other travelers, she was pale, but she bore up resolutely. No one could have told from Lady Underhill's demeanor that the solid platform seemed to heave beneath her feet like a deck.

"Have you got a porter, Ferris? Where is he, then? Ah! Have you got all the bags? My jewel case? The suit case? The small brown bag? The rugs? Where are the rugs?

"Yes, I can see them, my good girl. There is no need to brandish them in my face. Keep the jewel case and give the rest of the things to the porter, and take him to look after the trunks. You remember which they are? The steamer trunk, the other trunk, the black box—Very well. Then make haste. And, when you've got them all together, tell the porter to find you a four-wheeler. The small things will go inside. Drive to the Savoy and ask for my suite. If they make any difficulty tell them that I engaged the rooms yesterday by telegraph from Mentone. Do you understand?"

"Yes, m'lady."

"Then go along. Oh, and give the porter sixpence. Sixpence is ample."

"Yes, m'lady."

The little maid, grasping the jewel case, trotted off beside the now pessimistic porter, who had started on this job under the impression that there was at least a bob's-worth in it. The remark about the sixpence had jarred the porter's faith in his species.

Derek approached, acutely conscious of Freddie, Ronny and Algy, who were skirmishing about his flank. He had enough to worry him without them. He had listened with growing apprehension to the catalogue of his mother's possessions. Plainly this was no flying visit. You do not pop over to London for a day or two with a steamer trunk, another trunk, a black box, a suit case, and a small brown bag. Lady Underhill had evidently come prepared to stay; and the fact seemed to presage trouble.

"Well, mother! So there you are at last!"

"Well, Derek!"

Derek kissed his mother. Freddie, Ronny and Algy shuffled closer, like leopards. Freddie, with the expression of one who leads a forlorn hope, moved his Adam's apple briskly up and down several times, and spoke.

"How do you do, Lady Underhill?"

"How do you do, Mr. Rooke?"

Lady Underhill bowed stiffly and without pleasure. She was not fond of the Last of the Rookes. She supposed the Almighty had had some wise purpose in creating Freddie, but it had always been inscrutable to her.

"Like you," mumbled Freddie, "to meet my friends. Lady Underhill. Mr. Devereaux."

"Charmed," said Ronny affably.

"Delighted," said Algy with old-world courtesy.

"How do you do?" she said. "Have you come to meet somebody?"

"I — er — we — er — why — er" This woman always made Freddie feel as if he were being disemboweled by some clumsy amateur. He wished that he had defied the dictates of his better nature and remained in his sung rooms at the Albany, allowing Derek to go through this business by himself. "I — er — we — er — came to meet you, don't you know!"

"Indeed! That was very kind of you!"

"Oh, not at all."

"Thought we'd welcome you back to the old homestead," said Ronny, beaming.

"What could be sweeter?" said Algy. He produced a cigar case and extracted a formidable torpedo-shaped Havana. He was feeling delightfully at his ease and couldn't understand why Freddie had made such a fuss about meeting this nice old lady. "Don't mind if I smoke, do you? Air's a bit raw today. Gets into the lungs."

Derek chafed impotently. These unsought allies were making a difficult situation a thousand times worse. A more acute observer than young Mr. Martyn, he noted the tight lines about his mother's mouth and knew them for the danger signal they were. Endeavoring to distract her with light conversation he selected a subject which was a little unfortunate.

"What sort of crossing did you have, mother?"

Lady Underhill winced. A current of air had sent the perfume of Algy's cigar playing about her nostrils. She closed her eyes, and her faced turned a shade paler. Freddie, observing this, felt quite sorry for the poor old thing. She was a pest and a pot of poison, of course, but all the same, he reflected charitably, it was a shame that she should look so green about the gills. He came to the conclusion that she must be hungry. The thin gto do was to take her mind off it till she could be conducted to a restaurant and dumped down in front of a bowl of soup.

"Bit choppy, I suppose, what?" he bellowed, in a voice that ran up and down Lady Underhill's nervous system like an electric needle. "I was afraid you were going to have a pretty rough time of it when I read the forecast in the paper. The good old boat wobbled a bit, eh?"

Lady Underhill uttered a faint moan. Freddie noticed that she was looking deucedly chippy, even chippier than a moment ago.

"It's an extraordinary thing about that Channel crossing," said Algy Martyn meditatively, as he puffed a refreshing cloud. "I've known fellows who could travel quite happily everywhere else in the world—round the Horn in sailing ships and all that sort of thing—yield up their immortal soul! Don't know why. Rummy, but there it is!"

"I'm like that myself," assented Ronny Devereaux. "That dashed trip from Calais gets me every time. Bowls me right over. I go aboard, stoked to the eyebrows with sea-sick remedies, swearing that this time I'll fool 'em, but down I go ten minutes after we've started and the next thing I know somebody is saying, 'Well, well! So this is Dover!'"

"It's exactly the same with me," said Freddie, delighted with the smooth, easy way the conversation was flowing. "Whether it's the hot, greasy smell of the engines—"

"It's not the engines," contended Ronny Devereaux. "Stands to reason it can't be. I rather like the smell of engines. This station is reeking with the smell of engine-grease and I can drink it in and enjoy it." He sniffed luxuriantly. "It's something else."

"Ronny's right," said Algy cordially. "It isn't the engines. It's the way the boat heaves up and down and up and down and up and down—" He shifted his cigar to his left hand in order to give with his right a spirited illustration of a Channel steamer going up and down and up and down and up and down. Lady Underhill, who had opened her eyes, had an excellent view of the performance, and closed her eyes again quickly.

"Be quiet!" she snapped.

"I was only saying—"

"Be quiet!"

"Oh, rather!"

Lady Underhill wrestled with herself. She was a woman of great will power and accustomed to triumph over the weaknesses of the flesh. After awhile her eyes opened. She had forced herself, against the evidence of her senses, to recognize that this was a platform on which she stood and not a deck.

There was a pause. Algy, damped, was temporarily out of action, and his friends had for the moment nothing to remark.

"I'm afraid you had a trying journey, mother," said Derek. "The train was very late."

"Now, train-sickness," said Algy, coming to the surface again, "is a thing lots of people suffer from. Never could understand it myself."

"I've never had a touch of train-sickness," said Ronny.

"Oh, I have," said Freddie. "I've often felt rotten on a train. I get floating spots in front of my eyes and a sort of heaving sensation, and everything kind of goes black."

"Mr. Rooke!"

"Eh?"

"I should be greatly obliged if you would keep these confidences for the ear of your medical adviser."

"Freddie," intervened Derek hastily, "my mother's rather tired. Do you think you could be going ahead and getting a taxi?"

"My dear old chap, of course! Get you one in a second. Come along, Algy. Pick up the old waukeesa, Ronny."

And Freddie, accompanied by his henchmen ambled off, well pleased with himself. He had, he felt, helped to break the ice for Derek and had seen him safely through those awkward opening stages. Now he could totter off with a light heart and get a bite of lunch.

TAMPICO IS FREED OF YELLOW FEVER

SCOURGE OF TROPICAL PORT TOWNS ERADICATED BY AMERICANS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TAMPICO (Mex.) June 19.—Yellow fever, the scourge of tropical port towns, has been eradicated in Tampico, according to Dr. E. J. Scannell, chief of the local American Yellow Fever Commission, which has been responsible for the eradication work here.

Dr. A. L. Pierce, representative of Dr. Cummings, chief of the Public Health Department at Washington, who recently made an investigation of yellow-fever conditions in Tampico and vicinity, reported to Washington that he had found no cases nor was there any possibility of an outbreak.

Much work has been done here to demolish the breeding places of the yellow-fever mosquito. Streets are being paved and water holes drained and filled up.

The United States border officials have placed the customary quarantine for the summer months on Tampico. One leaving this city for the States must go into quarantine six days before crossing the border. This is considered as an imposition by the American business men here who comprise the American Chamber of Commerce, the largest foreign American chamber in the world. Protests have been sent to Washington officials and it is expected that in view of Dr. Pierce's report the quarantine will soon be lifted.

FORMER WIFE FIRES AT MAN OVER CHILD

BELIEVED HE WILL RECOVER; MRS. EFFIE KEOUGH TO BE RETURNED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) June 19.—George Daws, advertising salesman, shot last night by his divorced wife, is now believed assured of recovery. He is in the hospital, suffering mainly from loss of blood.

Daws had gone to his former wife's home to see his young son who had been given him by order of court several months ago. Mrs. Daws admitted she had taken the child from persons whom she claimed had not been giving him proper care and that she shot in desperation when Daws came apparently to take the boy away. She fired seven shots through the screen of a porch and one bullet hit the man in the back as he was running away. She has been allowed liberty on bail. Proceedings are to be taken by the father to secure custody of the boy.

Mrs. Nellie Schriner of the Los Angeles police force, is here with papers from the Governor of California, requesting return to that State of Mrs. Effie Keough, wanted on a charge of kidnaping. Gov. Hunt has honored the requisition, but Mrs. Keough has disappeared and the Sheriff's office tonight stated its inability to get even a clew concerning her whereabouts.

She had been released successively on two charges. Now a fresh charge has been filed, that of being a fugitive from justice. A man who came here with her, whom she claims as her son and who has denied relationship, is in Prescott. The child, asserted to have been the kidnaped daughter of Felix De Carlos of Los Angeles, has been in the Crittenden Home there for over two weeks awaiting the pleasure of her father.

Gov. Hunt and Secretary McCluskey have gone to Warren to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the Colorado River conference, which is understood to have formulated a report to have early submission here to the conference.

STATE FINANCES ARE ALL TIED UP

Transactions at Standstill at New Fiscal Year

Legal Controversy Over Budget Up to Court

Controller to Refuse to Audit Any Claims

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—Financial transactions of the State government virtually will come to a standstill on July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year, until the State Supreme Court adjudicates the legal controversy arising from the budget bill passed by the last Legislature, it was announced today by State Controller Riley, who declared that after July 1 he will refuse to audit or issue warrants for any claims presented by State agencies whose financial status is uncertain under the terms of the budget bill.

The statement, which was made following conferences with Atty.-Gen. Webb and others, follows:

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

"The constitution and laws of this State designate the Controller as the watchdog of the people's money and impose upon him personal financial responsibility for errors of judgment in the disbursement of funds. Therefore, questions of political expediency have no proper place in this office and fiscal transactions must be determined upon a legal basis only.

"The budget bill, passed by the late Legislature, has caused an intense bitter controversy over legal question regarding various items of appropriation therein. After a consultation with the duly constituted legal adviser of this office, Atty.-Gen. Webb, I deem it necessary to raise certain questions to clarify an ambiguous situation.

UP TO COURT

"This method is clearly the one for me to pursue, because when the Controller is in doubt the Supreme Court of this State is designated by the constitution and the laws to direct the proper course of procedure so that the expenditure of the people's money may have full authority of law.

"Pursuant to my decision to request the advice of the court, I shall refuse to audit and issue warrants for any claims presented by the so-called self-sustaining or fee departments of the State government. No expenditures against recurrent appropriations not specifically appropriated by the budget appropriation bill will be permitted.

"No fees or fines or other money received by any State agency or department, the disposition of which has been formerly fixed by an unrepealed statute, will be directed by me into any fund until the disposition of such fees, fines or other money shall be determined by the court.

EXPRESSES HOPE

"In order that unnecessary proceedings may be obviated I shall consult with the various boards and departments that are affected hereby, and proceed to arrange with them the minimum number of actions to present these questions to the court. The above procedure will relieve any particular board, commission or department from the necessity of sponsoring individual litigation and raising issues that should have determination in order to protect the disbursement of public funds.

"I believe that the court will find a way to reconcile the various apparent conflicting provisions of existing law and the budget bill without undue delay, and thus relieve me of a responsibility which it is neither wise nor within reason to ask me to assume."

WILD HORSES ARE MENACE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) June 19. Special Grazing Commissioner T. P. McKenzie of the Provincial Government Agricultural Department has appealed to the government to take action against thousands of wild horses that are running in the hills and going onto farms of Central British Columbia.

The horses are a menace to the herds of stock that are on domestic farms.

The commissioner stated that logging camps, mining concerns and every company that has ceased to do business in that part of the country have failed to take out their horses, only turning them loose in the hills. The grazing is good all year in parts of the province, and the horses have been existing on natural grazing facilities.

PROBATION SUGGESTED FOR CHINA

Brother of Secretary of Navy Has New Plan to Stabilize Government

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

TOKIO, June 19.—"Put China on probation for thirty years before withdrawing our safeguards and giving her government more control within her own boundaries." That is the verdict of Charles Denby of Washington and Detroit, who has known China intimately for forty years and served much of that time in the American diplomatic and consular service there.

Mr. Denby, who is a brother of the Secretary of the Navy, is an automobile manufacturer, and his present trip to the Far East, which has lasted several months, has been made for business reasons. He first went to China in 1883, and served as second secretary of the Legation at Peking. Later he went into business in Tientsin; was Secretary-General of the provisional government established by the allied powers for the district of Tientsin in 1900; served as foreign adviser to the Governor-General of North China from 1902 to 1905; was American Consul-General at Shanghai from 1907 to 1909, and in 1913 went to China again as a special representative of the Department of State.

His son, James Denby, is now third secretary of the American Embassy of Tokio and carrying out the tradition of the Denby family for service in the American diplomatic and consular corps in the Far East. Edwin Denby, the Secretary of the Navy, served as a young man in the customs service in China, and his father, the grandfather of the present third secretary of the Tokio Embassy, was at one time American Minister at Peking.

Extraterritoriality and other features of foreign control are the only factors which exert any stabilizing influence in China today, Mr. Denby says. He adds his opinion that the termination of extraterritoriality would prove disastrous to business ventures of all kinds in that country and result in disorganization of a sort worse than has ever been known there in the past.

Mr. Denby was the founder of the Peking Electric Company, organized twenty-three years ago and now a strong and successful enterprise. It could not have been accomplished, he says, except for the benefits which a foreign charter gave him and his associates. "The same Chinese business man does not want extraterritoriality removed," Mr. Denby declares. "He would rather invest his money under the protection of foreign flags than under that of his own government."

ALASKAN RAILROAD FINISHED

Construction of New Line in Nine Years Hailed as Remarkable Feat

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Completion of the laying of standard-gauge track this week to Fairbanks, the northern terminal of the Alaska Railroad, means the final completion of the road.

Through traffic, both passenger and freight, from Seward to Fairbanks for a distance of 470 miles is now a reality without change of cars or transfer of passengers. President Harding and his party will make the trip over the complete route on their visit to Alaska next month. At the Department of the Interior it was pointed out today that the construction of this government railroad took exactly nine years, three months and five days, a remarkable achievement considering the character of the country and the delay caused by the intervention of the World War.

WISCONSIN NATIONAL GUARD WILL BE KEPT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MADISON (Wis.) June 19.—The Wisconsin Assembly voted to concur in the Finance Committee bill appropriating $248,000 annually to the Wisconsin National Guard. The Governor has said he would sign the bill. Passage of the bill assures financial support for the National Guard for the next two years. The Assembly had previously voted to abolish the guard.

Wisconsin Wet Hopes' Doom is Seen in Senate

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MADISON (Wis.) June 19.—Unless a few dry Senators experience a change of heart overnight the valiant efforts of the State Assembly to follow New York's lead in repealing Wisconsin's State prohibition enforcement act are doomed to be set at naught when the Senate kills the Tucker repealer bill tomorrow.

Of thirty-three Senators, nineteen are conceded to be dry and the Assembly wets have made little attempt to carry their fight into the Senate. Neither is the telegram of congratulation from Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, author of the New York repealer, to Assemblyman H. G. Tucker, author of the Milwaukee repeal bill, expected to be effective.

"Congratulations on the Assembly's passage of your bill to repeal the prohibition enforcement act," Cuvillier wired. "May the Senate follow example. New York joins her sister State of Wisconsin in upholding State rights, and personal liberty of her citizens, guaranteed by the bill of rights and against double jeopardy under the Volstead Act."

LINER BRINGS SMALL RETURN AT AUCTION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—The China Mail Steamship Company's liner Nile, built at a cost of more than $1,000,000, was sold at auction today for $47,500. It goes to the Moore shipyards of Oakland, Cal. The sale was ordered to satisfy creditors. On board the Nile, anchored here since May 14, last, are 350 Chinese, including the crew and thirty-four passengers. The Chinese will be returned to the Orient. The ship is 3135 net tons.

Henry Ford Talks About His Mother

"Did your mother ever whip you?"

Many interviewers have asked Henry Ford many questions, but probably no one ever asked him that question before. Yet he met it with frank good humor.

The interview took place in the white farmhouse where he was born.

THE HOUSE has long since ceased to be occupied, but the fire is kept always burning. Every detail of every room is precisely as she left it.

And sometimes, in the evening, Ford drives out there with his wife and son and grandchildren. They cook their supper, and visit, and sing old tunes around the parlor organ.

"That's a funny way for such a man to have a good time," many people will say. "Why, that's just the kind of thing that our family does."

Why not? After all, what is there for any family to do except the things that all families do?

When Ford talks about his mother, isn't he talking about my mother, too? When another man speaks frankly of his struggles and hopes and fears, doesn't his experience find an echo in my own?

What does it matter that you have a profession and I have a job which seem to keep us far apart? Living is a universal business in which we are both at work. That is why both of us buy and read The American Magazine. It speaks the language of this universal occupation—

It is the trade paper of LIFE.

This Will Ward Off And Break Up Colds

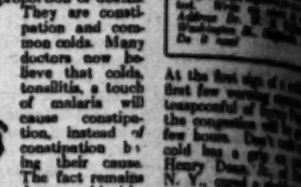
THE two ailments that people generally regard as of the least importance are in reality the cause of most serious illnesses and of the greatest proportion of deaths. They are constipation and common colds. Many doctors now believe that colds, tonsilitis, a touch of malaria will cause constipation, instead of constipation bringing their cause. The fact remains that you seldom have a cold without constipation, due to general congestion. The only way to avoid colds is to keep up your vitality. You usually catch cold in the winter if you are run down. Therefore in cold weather exercise more; eat more fatty foods; drink four to six glasses of water a day; keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

You are also less liable to colds if your system is free from the intestinal poisons of constipation, so empty the bowels regularly with a plain vegetable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.



At the first sign of a cold take a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and within a few hours the congestion will be relieved. Don't let a cold hang on. Mrs. Henry Dean, Jr., of N. Y., writes: "I used a bottle of your Syrup Pepsin last year and it effectively broke up a cold of her family, and also of her husband's, which was a bilousness, and to break up fevers."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific combination of a pound of Egyptian senna with pleasant-tasting aromatics, safe to give to babies and children like it. Refuse to resort to cold remedies containing narcotics; try a bottle of Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist can supply you, and the cost is less than a cent a dose.

PASTEUR GRACES NEW CURRENCY

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, June 19.—The Pasteur Centenary has been made the occasion of the issue of a new French stamp, on which the head of the great scientist, shown in profile, will replace the graceful figure of "The Sower" on the 10, 30 and 50 centime issues. The 25 centime stamp, the one most in use, remains unchanged. The design of the Pasteur stamp was engraved by the artist Prudhomme and the reproductions were obtained by the photogravure process. The new stamps will be "fed" gradually to the public as the old issue becomes exhausted.

...is improperly portrayed. One always sees him presented as a sort of harlequin or a circus clown. It is strange such a great spirit should be misunderstood. I have often contemplated staging Faust myself, but the right kind of actors always have been lacking."

STILL HAS WAR COMPLEX

Later Von Leon described the ex-Kaiser's life at Doorn. He is extremely busy and spends virtually all of his time studying war plans and science to the detriment of his interests in drama, history, archaeology and genealogy. According to the stenographic notes of one of the students, Wilhelm himself thus summed up his activities:

"Sketch a little, compose now and then, go walking and so the day passes." His pale gray eyes are nervous and restless with heavy wrinkles under them and across his forehead. His full ash-en gray beard has been somewhat cropped and his imperial mustache has lost some of its ferociousness.

GIRL MOTHER SEEKS JUSTICE FROM COURT

ASKS THAT NAME BE GIVEN CHILD BORN OUT OF WEDLOCK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) June 19.—Little Evelyn Copp, 14 years old, with her human doll in her arms, sobbed the story of her motherhood from the witness stand in the court of Judge Chester Ducombe today. It was the same room, the same chair and the same judge before whom Mrs. Augusta Tiernan had charged Harry E. Poulin, local haberdasher, with being the father of her third child born in wedlock; the same room in which Judge Ducombe refused to brand as illegitimate the unrecognized child of Prof. John Tiernan.

As Evelyn, pretty, but small for her years, wept out the story of her life, leading up to the birth thirteen days ago of her baby, Welcome Lee, 18-year-old Mishawka youth, sat with his attorneys and wondered at his fate. The fatherless child should have the name of Lee, the girl sobbed to the court. Lee will contest.

Evelyn, whose father is dead, was cared for until a few weeks ago by her mother, she told the court. Then came the day that the parent learned her child was to become a mother, and the parent left, abandoning her, Evelyn said. She was left to be cared for by a sister, perhaps three years her senior. Upon her falls the care of the child-mother and the fatherless babe.

"I didn't have the kind of parents to whom I could tell my troubles," Evelyn sobbed, her eyes meeting those of the youth, whose name she seeks. "I didn't have the right kind of home and my friends and boy companions were not what they should have been. My mother deserted me when she found I was to become a mother. Now I have not a soul who cares, except my sister, and she, too, is young."

Judge Ducombe bound the youth over to the grand jury. The State is prosecuting the case for the girl. Lee is represented by Attorney Sam Schwartz, who won the case for Harry Poulin.

CRIPPLED SOLDIERS HAVE RACE AT PARIS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, June 19.—At a crippled soldiers' race here recently it was necessary to separate the entrants into four categories. Inasmuch as the vehicles used were chairs propelled by hand, or by the feet if the occupant didn't happen to have hands, it would have been obviously unfair to have a legless man race against one who had legs, but no arms. So the handicapping and classifying were carefully worked out by the committee. And so was the first prize—a beautiful bronze of a young girl holding a bird with an injured wing.

NEW DELIVERY METHOD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PITTSBURG, June 19.—A new departure in barge delivery service of steel products on the rivers has been inaugurated by the Kelly Ax manufacturing Company of Charleston, W. Va., a heavy consumer of Pittsburg steel products. The services installed on the rivers by the big steel companies of the Pittsburg district during the past year or so have been for the purpose of making deliveries of steel to customers. The Kelly experiment is the first instance of a customer setting up his own river service to haul to his works purchases of steel made from Pittsburg mills.

EL CENTRO ROAD GOOD

YUMA (Ariz.) June 19.—Though abounding in chuck holes, the road hence to El Centro is declared in negotiable condition, with the plank road good. Only a quarter-of-a-mile stretch near the mesa is considered bad.

MIDDLE WEST NEWS IN BRIEF

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, June 19.—Friends of the family have started an investigation into the death of Ramsay Welch, son of John Welch, Green Bay paper manufacturer, who drowned in Bay De Noc, near Escanaba, last week, and whose body has not been recovered. A leather coat worn by Welch has been found along the shore of the bay and an effort will be made to determine whether it was pulled off by the young man while he was alive or lost in a struggle with an assailant. Welsh was an expert swimmer.

Purchase of the Cole property in the business district at Sheboygan, is announced by the Milwaukee Northern Railroad Company. The company will shortly erect on this site a modern passenger station which also will be a freight and express terminal.

INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, June 19.—A building permit for the construction of a $40,000 home at 4126 North Meridian street was issued yesterday to Arthur Wolf, secretary of the Automobile Underwriters, Inc. The house will be of Colonial style. When completed it will be one of the finest residences of the North Side.

The Warsaw City Council has created a new office, that of sanitary policeman. W. A. Winebrenner has been appointed to fill the office and it will be his duty each day to visit dairies and pasteurization plants and to see that the city's new milk ordinance is complied with by all dealers.

AKRON

AKRON, June 19.—Shortly after his wife, Julia, was shot to death last night, Arthur Hammond, 25 years of age, was found dead at his home, 166 East North street, the victim of a shotgun. Police say evidence indicated hat Hammond killed his wife and then committed suide but they are investigating a theory that Hammond was slain in revenge for the death of his wife. One man is being held for questioning by the police. Mrs. Hammond was killed at the home of John F. Smith.

In accordance with orders of the State Board of Health, Service Director Ernest A. Schlegal is making plans for construction of a new $300,000 sewage disposal plant in Kenmore this summer. Sewage outlet of the present plant, especially the outlet to Mud Lake, long has been the subject of complaint by both Kenmore and Barberton citizens, and health officials declare prevailing conditions to be insanitary.

DETROIT

DETROIT, June 19.—Thousands of women and children spectators, together with an assemblage of nuns, priests and the highest dignitaries of the local Roman Catholic Church, witnessed the blessing and laying of the corner-stone for the new $4,000,000 Sacred Heart Seminary on Chicago Boulevard Sunday afternoon.

Postoffice inspectors and police officers are seeking the identity of the person or persons who demanded $500 in a letter written to the Bank of Elwell, at Elwell, four miles west of Alma. The letter demanded that the $500 be placed in a pile of tile in Alma.

OMAHA

OMAHA, June 19.—A fine building site is being prepared by landscape gardeners on the farm owned by "Pussyfoot" Johnson, famous temperance worker, and his brothers and sisters, three miles east of Fremont. Friends of the family say that "Pussyfoot" Johnson intends to take up his residence on the farm.

Lightning struck the kitchen of the Nebraska Masonic home at Plattsmouth, knocking down the chimney. Several of the occupants suffered severe shocks but no serious injuries were sustained.

A $600,000 building program is under way at Fairbury. There is more building under construction than for the last twelve years.

ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, June 19.—Construction of a $500,000 Young Men's Hebrew Association building on the site purchased at the southeast corner of Union Boulevard and Enright avenue will be started as soon as possible, Gilbert Harris, executive secretary, said yesterday.

The attitude of the Missouri Pharmaceutical Association toward prohibition showed a change when delegates at the closing session at its convention at the Statler voted to express no opinion on the sale of liquors in drug stores. The organization previously had taken a stand against liquor dispensing by drug stores.

GOSSIP IN WASHINGTON

Harding Held Suffering From Speech-Making Complex; Woman Held Sway Over Stamboulisky; Presidential Party Pruned

BY THE OBSERVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—President Harding, his friends and men who in their professional duties have to accompany him on his various trips have decided, is suffering from "I-cannot-remain-silent" complex. The Chief Executive of the nation from his time of the 1920 campaign has endeavored to cultivate a speech making inhabition. His cultivation has been assiduous. One does not even have to imagine that he says over and over again "I will not make a speech" for President Harding says so publicly and privately on many occasions and then despite all his efforts of will when the time comes at which he might appropriately say a few words he says them. The trait was first noticed during the Presidential campaign when as a candidate Mr. Harding would start on some little trip purely for diversion. Not a speech, he solemnly would assure the newspapermen and more often than not the day's close would be marked by two or three short addresses. After he became President Mr. Harding still continued the struggle with himself unsuccessfully. On one occasion he went to Annapolis for the graduation exercises with the strict promise of Edwin Denby, his Secretary of the Navy, that he would not be asked to say a word. The promise was made but when Admiral Scales, superintendent of the Academy, who was not in on the secret asked the President if he would like to say something the President responded at length. The Delaware trip is a more recent instance. Mr. Harding was determined to say nothing of a public nature from Wilmington to Lewes. Friday he was positive that this would be the case. Saturday he managed to squeeze in a dozen extemporaneous addresses. This pleased Delaware and the Delawarians immensely, but it must make the President wonder when he is going to get the best of his ubiquitous complex.

The Stamboulisky government has never in the character of its administration or the nature of its fall given hint of a great deal of feminine influence yet the deposed Prime Minister in his international relations was completely at the mercy of a woman if she had cared to use her power. Miss Nedjica Stancioof, daughter of Bulgaria's minister to London, was the woman in whose hands this power reposed. She served as Stamboulisky's mouth and ears whenever the Bulgarian Premier met with his European fellows and French or some other language foreign to the Bulgarian Premier was the medium of conversation. Born in Russia, Miss Stancioff in turn lived in the five or more countries at whose courts her father served as Bulgaria's envoy. She speaks Russian, English and French with the grace of a native and can acquit herself well in German and Italian. She was the Premier's secretary and interpreter at international conferences. It was always she who arose when Bulgaria's name was called for Stamboulisky never troubled to make his addresses first in the original Bulgarian. He merely told Miss Stancioff what he had to say and left the rest to her. Miss Stancioff was selected for the secretaryship of the Washington Legation at one time but the appointment was not carried through.

Officials in charge of the plans for President Harding's trip West and then back through the Panama Canal, have found it necessary to prune the entourage to fit the limitations of the President Harrison, Shipping Board vessel on which the Presidential party will make the trip from San Diego to San Francisco. The President Harrison is a combination passenger and cargo vessel and accommodations on board are limited to thirty cabins with seventy beds. This limits rather severely the number of persons that can be taken. It already has been found necessary to eliminate many of the special newspaper correspondents and the rule of press associations only which goes into effect when space becomes limited has been applied. The lack of cabin space means that for the two weeks or so which this portion of the journey will require the President will be surrounded virtually by only those of his own party which will permit of some real rest on the part of the Chief Executive.

HEED PROTESTS OF CONSCRIPTED COOLIES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HONGKONG, June 19.—There have been many public protests in Canton at the conscripting of coolies by the Sun Yat Sen regime in order to procure men to carry army equipment to the troops now fighting in various parts of the province. These coolies have been seized by the police and forced to work for the army without pay of any kind. Dr. Sun has now paid heed to the complaints and has ordered that prisoners in the jails serving light sentences be liberated to carry out this work.

BRITISH WOMEN SEEKING SEATS

Commons Ultimate Goal of All Organizations

Every Class Banded Together for Politics

"Fifty in Parliament" is Radical War Cry

BY WILLIAM HASSETT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

LONDON, June 19.—The part which women are to play in politics in England still remains a riddle. The lessons to be learned from the candidature of women in the general election last November are not yet clear. Thirty-three women contested seats in the House of Commons and only two—Lady Astor and Mrs. Wintringham—were elected. The obvious interpretation is that women will not vote for women.

The trouble was, say these women, that only three women in the entire thirty-three who stood for the House of Commons contested seats previously held by members of their own political party. Two of them were elected and the third, Lady Cooper, after polling 14,349 votes, failed by only 325 votes.

ALL TOOK HUSBANDS' SEATS

Now a third woman has just been elected to Parliament in the person of Mrs. Hilton Philipson, better known by her stage name of Mabel Russell. She has taken her place as a Conservative in the seat which her husband won last November as a National Liberal. Her husband was unseated because of illegal acts performed by his election agents.

By a curious coincidence each of the three women members have succeeded their husbands in the Commons. Lady Astor was chosen to fill her husband's place when he left the Commons to enter the House of Lords as his father's successor in the peerage and Mrs. Wintringham was elected to succeed her husband, who died.

WOMEN AT CONFERENCES

In less than a fortnight a series of annual conferences of women's political associations—nonpartisan as well as partisan—have been held. These meetings brought together in different organizations women from every stratum of English life, from all the political parties as well as those not definitely aligned with any party. The meetings showed how women in all parties and out of them are taking a more active interest and a more prominent place in politics and are making in many directions identical demands.

The first of these organizations to sound its clarion call to English women was the Women's Freedom League, a militant organization with an ambitious program. It pays no attention to party in the sense of affiliation, but works through any and every party it can influence for full equality in every direction of women with men in every walk of life. That's no small order. The Women's Freedom League feels that women will have a sad time of it until they are represented by at least fifty of their own sex in Parliament.

Not less earnest, but certainly less revolutionary in its ambitions, is the National Liberal Federation, whose conference of more than 700 delegates at Holborn Hall was presided over by Lady Bonham Carter, former Premier Asquith's very clever daughter.

ATTEND LABOR MEETING

Some 600 delegates participated at York in the National Conference of Women, who are members of the Labor party—the present official opposition to the government. Under the presidency of Mrs. Harrison Bell, chairman of the standing joint committee of industrial women's organizations, that organization was in substantial accord with the program of their sisters of National Liberal persuasion.

Not to be outdone by their more radical sisters, the Women's National Unionists' Association also held a meeting. These are the ultraconservative women of the most conservative country in the world. These are the Tory women. They wield wicked lorgnettes, glorify tradition and hate all innovation—such radicalism, for instance, as the present disinclination of English girls to enter domestic service.

It would be difficult to analyze the objects and aims of these and other organizations of women, both political and nonpolitical, and from th eresult formulate what would purport to be the English woman's point of view. There is as great a diversity of opinion as to what women need as there is in the plan of campaign best calculated to attain it.

Lovers of Dogs Had Best Remain Out of Venice

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VENICE, June 19. — Venice would appear to be a bad city in which to keep a dog. In fact, the keeping of dogs is not encouraged by the authorities, who limit canine pets to one per person, except in special cases. As can be imagined, a city which is practically without streets is not a good place for dogs, and the dog owners have difficulties in giving their pets a run. They take them sometimes to the island of Murano, of the glass makers, where there is a bit more space and a different City Council. Murano has for some time become for this reason a place to which owners take their dogs which they wish to be rid of, and the dog colony has assumed such proportions that the Murano authorities have had to take measures.

In Rome, of course, Trajan's Forum is the site consecrated to abandoned and superfluous cats. There are always about a hundred or more stray cats crawling about the historic columns of the Foro Traino, where they are fed by the inhabitants of the square and given water by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

When they get too numerous, a raid is made on the felines and the most depraved and least flourishing specimens are chloroformed into the cats' Elysium.

Pair of Russian Counts Found in Vancouver; One Is Digging Ditches, Other Slings Coal

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) June 19.—Two Russian noblemen have been discovered in menial positions in this city and both were disclosed by their attempts to market imperial rubles. Count Reon Takaroff, formerly a dashing cavalryman in the forces of Czar Nicholas, is now a ditch digger on the city streets here, and Count Halaroff Kasasky is a coal slinger in one of the bunker departments of a city dock.

Both these men came here some time ago and had a little money when they arrived. Count Takaroff invested in a chicken ranch in North Vancouver, but not being accustomed to marketing was forced to eat the chickens and the eggs as the only way he could get any profit. Finally the last chicken was killed and the once brilliant officer at court was forced to take a position on the city streets as a ditch digger.

Kasasky refuses to tell how he got into British Columbia, but rumors have it that he knows more about the Czar's last hours than many of the writers who contend they have been near the death chamber. This Russian is known to have come through Siberia by sleigh and to have been seen with prominent members of the Imperial family in Russia just prior to leaving.

Quiz Salesman on Vanishing of Young Student

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLIFTON (Ariz.) June 19.—B. H. Rouw, San Francisco traveling man, probably will be asked to make a signed statement covering what he knows of the mysterious disappearance in September, 1921, of Leighton Mount, Northwestern University student, which he disclosed in a conference today with Charles S. Wharton, Assistant State's Attorney of Chicago, according to plans announced this afternoon by Mr. Wharton.

Rouw picked out five pictures from a group shown him by the Chicago officer and declared that these five men resembled members of the group of students whom he saw lowering a body into an Evanston pier the night Mount disappeared. Rouw said he was unable to make positive identification from the photographs.

Rouw also said he told Wharton that he accepted $100 from a tall man who seemed to be a leader of the student group, on condition that he keep silent concerning the affair.

STATE FINANCES ARE ALL TIED UP

Transactions at Standstill at New Fiscal Year

Legal Controversy Over Budget Up to Court

Controller to Refuse to Audit Any Claims

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—Financial transactions of the State government virtually will come to a standstill on July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year, until the State Supreme Court adjudicates the legal controversy arising from the budget bill passed by the last Legislature. It was announced today by State Controller Riley, who declared that after July 1 he will refuse to audit or issue warrants for any claims presented by State agencies whose financial status is uncertain under the terms of the budget bill.

The statement, which was made following conferences with Atty.-Gen. Webb and others, follows:

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

"The constitution and laws of this State designate the Controller as the watchdog of the people's money and impose upon him personal financial responsibility for errors of judgment in the disbursement of funds. Therefore, questions of political expediency have no proper place in this office and fiscal transactions must be determined upon a legal basis only.

"The budget bill, passed by the late Legislature, has caused an intense bitter controversy over legal question regarding various items of appropriation therein. After a consultation with the duly constituted legal adviser of this office, Atty.-Gen. Webb, I deem it necessary to raise certain questions to clarify an ambiguous situation.

UP TO COURT

"This method is clearly the one for me to pursue, because when the Controller is in doubt the Supreme Court of this State is designated by the constitution and the laws to direct the proper course of procedure so that the expenditure of the people's money may have full authority of law.

"Pursuant to my decision to request the advice of the court, I shall refuse to audit and issue warrants for any claims presented by the so-called self-sustaining or fee departments of the State government. No expenditures against recurrent appropriations not specifically appropriated by the budget appropriation bill will be permitted.

"No fees or fines or other money received by any State agency or department, the disposition of which has been formerly fixed by an unrepealed statute, will be directed by me into any fund until the disposition of such fees, fines or other money shall be determined by the court.

EXPRESSES HOPE

"In order that unnecessary proceedings may be obviated I shall consult with the various boards and departments that are affected hereby and proceed to arrange with them the minimum number of actions to present these questions to the court. The above procedure will relieve any particular board, commission or department from the necessity of sponsoring individual litigation and raising issues that should have determination in order to protect the disbursement of public funds.

"I believe that the court will find a way to reconcile the various apparent conflicting provisions of existing law and the budget bill without undue delay, and thus relieve me of a responsibility which it is neither wise nor within reason to ask me to assume."

WILD HORSES ARE MENACE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) June 19. Special Grazing Commissioner T. P. McKenzie of the Provincial Government Agricultural Department has appealed to the government to take action against thousands of wild horses that are running in the hills and going onto farms of Central British Columbia.

The horses are a menace to the herds of stock that are on domestic farms.

The commissioner stated that logging camps, mining concerns and every company that has ceased to do business in that part of the country have failed to take out their horses, only turning them loose in the hills. The grazing is good all year in parts of the province, and the horses have been existing on natural grazing facilities.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MADISON (Wis.) June 19.—Unless a few dry Senators experience a change of heart overnight the valiant efforts of the State Assembly to follow New York's lead in repealing Wisconsin's State prohibition enforcement act are doomed to be set at naught when the Senate kills the Tucker repealer bill tomorrow.

Of thirty-three Senators, nineteen are conceded to be dry and the Assembly wets have made little attempt to carry their fight into the Senate. Neither is the telegram of congratulation from Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, author of the New York repealer, to Assemblyman H. G. Tucker, author of the Milwaukee repeal bill, expected to be effective.

"Congratulations on the Assembly's passage of your bill to repeal the prohibition enforcement act," Cuvillier wired. "May the Senate follow example. New York joins her sister State of Wisconsin in upholding State rights, and personal liberty of her citizens, guaranteed by the bill of rights and against double jeopardy under the Volstead Act."

LINER BRINGS SMALL RETURN AT AUCTION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—The China Mail Steamship Company's liner Nile, built at a cost of more than $1,000,000, was sold at auction today for $47,000. It goes to the Moore shipyards of Oakland, Cal. The sale was ordered to satisfy creditors. On board the Nile, anchored here since May 14, last, are 250 Chinese, including the crew and thirty-four passengers. The Chinese will be returned to the Orient. The ship is 3135 net tons.

AVIATOR HOPS OFF ON RETURN TO NEW YORK

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, June 19.—Lieut. Russell L. Maughan, who plans a four-stop transcontinental flight soon, hopped off from here today on his return trip to New York. Maughan reached here Sunday night from the East inspecting landing sites and mapping the route of his proposed cross-country flight for a record. Maughan, a native of Logan, Utah, expects to reach some Wyoming town by tonight.

PROBATION SUGGESTED FOR CHINA

Brother of Secretary of Navy Has New Plan to Stabilize Government

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

TOKIO, June 19.—"Put China on probation for thirty years before withdrawing our safeguards and giving her government more control within her own boundaries." That is the verdict of Charles Denby of Washington and Detroit, who has known China intimately for forty years and served much of that time in the American diplomatic and consular service there.

Mr. Denby, who is a brother of the Secretary of the Navy, is an automobile manufacturer, and his present trip to the Far East, which has lasted several months, has been made for business reasons. He first went to China in 1883, and served as second secretary of the Legation at Peking. Later he went into business in Tientsin; was Secretary-General of the provisional government established by the allied powers for the district of Tientsin in 1900; served as foreign adviser to the Governor-General of North China from 1903 to 1905; was American Consul-General at Shanghai from 1907 to 1909, and in 1913 went to China again as a special representative of the Department of State.

His son, James Denby, is now third secretary of the American Embassy of Tokio and carrying out the tradition of the Denby family for service in the American diplomatic and consular corps in the Far East. Edwin Denby, the Secretary of the Navy, served as a young man in the customs service in China and his father, the grandfather of the present third secretary of the Tokio Embassy, was at one time American Minister at Peking.

Extraterritoriality and other features of foreign control are the only factors which exert any stabilizing influence in China today, Mr. Denby says. He adds his opinion that the termination of extraterritoriality would prove disastrous to business ventures of all kinds in that country and result in disorganization of a sort worse than has ever been known there in the past.

Mr. Denby was the founder of the Peking Electric Company, organized twenty-three years ago and now a strong and successful enterprise. It could not have been accomplished, he says, except for the benefits which a foreign charter gave him and his associates. "The same Chinese business man does not want extraterritoriality removed," Mr. Denby declares. "He would rather invest his money under the protection of foreign flags than under that of his own government."

FOREST FIRES PUT OUT BY MINNESOTA RAINS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. PAUL, June 19.—Heavy rains fell today in the forest fire area near International Falls and resulted in considerable improvement in a situation which was menacing that town, according to word received here. The flames apparently were under control along the entire front, the advices said.

ALASKAN RAILROAD FINISHED

Construction of New Line in Nine Years Hailed as Remarkable Feat

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Completion of the laying of standard-guage track this week to Fairbanks, the northern terminal of the Alaska Railroad, means the final completion of the road.

Through traffic, both passenger and freight, from Seward to Fairbanks for a distance of 470 miles is now a reality without change of cars or transfer of passengers. President Harding and his party will make the trip over the complete route on their visit to Alaska next month. At the Department of the Interior it was pointed out today that the construction of this government railroad took exactly nine years, three months and five days, a remarkable achievement considering the character of the country and the delay caused by the intervention of the World War.

WISCONSIN NATIONAL GUARD WILL BE KEPT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MADISON (Wis.) June 19.—The Wisconsin Assembly voted to concur in the Finance Committee bill appropriating $355,000 annually to the Wisconsin National Guard. The Governor has said he would sign the bill. Passage of the bill assures financial support for the National Guard for the next two years. The Assembly had previously voted to abolish the guard.

This Will Ward Off And Break Up Cold

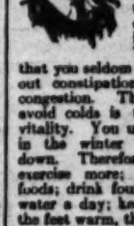
THE two ailments that people generally regard as of the least importance are in reality the cause of most serious illnesses and of the greatest proportion of deaths. They are constipation and common colds. Many doctors now believe that colds, tonsilitis, a touch of malaria will cause constipation, instead of constipation being their cause. The fact remains that you seldom have a cold without constipation, due to general congestion. The only way to avoid colds is to keep up your vitality. You usually catch cold in the winter if you are run down. Therefore in cold weather exercise more; eat more fatty foods; drink four to six glasses of water a day; keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.



You are also less liable to colds if your system is free from the intestinal poisons of constipation, so empty the bowels regularly with a plain vegetable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

ART FAMILY HAS TIES

At the first sign of a cold, first few warning sneezes, teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin relieves the congestion, all the few hours. Don't cold has a right to Henry Dana N. Henry Ford Talks About His Mother

"Did your mother ever whip you?"

Many interviewers have asked Henry Ford many questions, but probably no one ever asked him that question before. Yet he met it with frank good humor.

The interview took place in the white farmhouse where he was born.

THE HOUSE has long since ceased to be occupied, but the fire is kept always burning. Every detail of every room is precisely as she left it.

And sometimes, in the evening, Ford drives out there with his wife and son and grandchildren. They cook their supper, and visit, and sing old tunes around the parlor organ.

"That's a funny way for such a man to have a good time," many people will say. "Why, that's just the kind of thing that our family does."

Why not? After all, what is there for any family to do except the things that all families do?

When Ford talks about his mother, isn't he talking about my mother, too? When another man speaks frankly of his struggles and hopes and fears, doesn't his experience find an echo in my own?

What does it matter that you have a profession and I have a job which seem to keep us far apart? Living is a universal business in which we are both at work. That is why both of us buy and read The American Magazine. It speaks the language of this universal occupation—

It is the trade paper of LIFE.

PASTEUR GRACES NEW CURRENCY

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, June 19.—The Pasteur Centenary has been made the occasion of the issue of a new French stamp, on which the head of the great scientist, shown in profile, will replace the graceful figure of "The Sower" on the 10, 30 and 50 centime issues. The 25 centime stamp, the one most in use, remains unchanged. The design of the Pasteur stamp was engraved by the artist Prudhomme and the reproductions were obtained by the photogravure process. The new stamps will be "fed" gradually to the public as the old issue becomes exhausted.

GIRL MOTHER SEEKS JUSTICE FROM COURT

ASKS THAT NAME BE GIVEN CHILD BORN OUT OF WEDLOCK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) June 19.—Little Evelyn Copp, 14 years old, with her human doll in her arms, sobbed the story of her motherhood from the witness stand in the court of Judge Chester Ducombe today. It was the same room, the same chair and the same judge before whom Mrs. Augusta Tiernan had charged Harry E. Poulin, local haberdasher, with being the father of her third child born in wedlock; the same room in which Judge Ducombe refused to brand as illegitimate the unrecognized child of Prof. John Tiernan.

As Evelyn, pretty, but small for her years, wept out the story of her life, leading up to the birth thirteen days ago of her baby, Welcome Lee, 13-year-old Mishawka youth, sat with his attorneys and wondered at his fate. The fatherless child should have the name of Lee, the girl sobbed to the court. Lee will contest.

Evelyn, whose father is dead, was cared for until a few weeks ago by her mother, she told the court. Then came the day that the parent learned her child was to become a mother, and the parent left, abandoning her, Evelyn said. She was left to be cared for by a sister, perhaps three years her senior. Upon her falls the care of the child-mother and the fatherless babe.

"I didn't have the kind of parents to whom I could tell my troubles," Evelyn sobbed, her eyes meeting those of the youth, whose name she seeks. "I didn't have the right kind of home and my friends and boy companions were not what they should have been. My mother deserted me when she found I was to become a mother. Now I have not a soul who cares, except my sister, and she, too, is young."

Judge Ducombe bound the youth over to the grand jury. The State is prosecuting the case for the girl. Lee is represented by Attorney Sam Schwartz, who won the case for Harry Poulin.

CRIPPLED SOLDIERS HAVE RACE AT PARIS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, June 19.—At a crippled soldiers' race here recently it was necessary to separate the entrants into four categories. Inasmuch as the vehicles used were chairs propelled by hand, or by the feet if the occupant didn't happen to have hands, it would have been obviously unfair to have a legless man race against one who had legs, but no arms. So the handicapping and classifying were carefully worked out by the committee. And so was the first prize—a beautiful bronze of a young girl holding a bird with an injured wing.

NEW DELIVERY METHOD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PITTSBURG, June 19.—A new departure in barge delivery service of steel products on the rivers has been inaugurated by the Kelly Ax manufacturing Company of Charleston, W. Va., a heavy consumer of Pittsburg steel products. The services installed on the rivers by the big steel companies of the Pittsburg district during the past year or so have been for the purpose of making deliveries of steel to customers. The Kelly experiment is the first instance of a customer setting up his own river service to haul to his works purchases of steel made from Pittsburg mills.

The attitude of the Missouri Pharmaceutical Association toward prohibition showed a change when delegates at the closing session at its convention at the Statler voted to express no opinion on the sale of liquors in drug stores. The organization previously had taken a stand against liquor dispensing by drug stores.

GOSSIP IN WASHINGTON

BY THE OBSERVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—President Harding, his friends and men who in their professional duties have to accompany him on his various trips have decided, is suffering from "I-cannot-remain-silent" complex. The Chief Executive of the nation from his time of the 1920 campaign has endeavored to cultivate a speech making inhabition. His cultivation has been assiduous. One does not even have to imagine that he says over and over again, "I will not make a speech" for President Harding says so publicly and privately on many occasions and then despite all his efforts of will when the time comes at which he might appropriately say a few words he says them. The trait was first noticed during the Presidential campaign when as a candidate Mr. Harding would start on some little trip purely for diversion. Not a speech, he solemnly would assure the newspapermen and more often than not the day's close would be marked by two or three short addresses. After he became President Mr. Harding still continued the struggle with himself unsuccessfully. On one occasion he went to Annapolis for the graduation exercises with the strict premise of Edwin Denby, his Secretary of the Navy, that he would not be asked to say a word. The promise was made but when Admiral Scales, superintendent of the Academy, who was not in on the secret asked the President if he would like to say something the President responded at length. The Delaware trip is a more recent instance. Mr. Harding was determined to say nothing of a public nature from Wilmington to Lewes. Friday he was positive that this would be the case. Saturday he managed to squeeze in a dozen extemporaneous addresses. This pleased Delaware and the Delawarians immensely, but it must make the President wonder when he is going to get the best of his ubiquitous complex.

The Stamboulisky government has never in the character of its administration or the nature of its fall given hint of a great deal of feminine influence yet the deposed Prime Minister in his international relations was completely at the mercy of a woman if she had cared to use her power. Miss Nedjica Stancioof, daughter of Bulgaria's minister to London, was the woman in whose hands this power reposed. She served as Stamboulisky's mouth and ears whenever the Bulgarian Premier met with his European fellows and French or some other language foreign to the Bulgarian Premier was the medium of conversation. Born in Russia, Miss Stancioff in turn lived in the five or more countries at whose courts her father served as Bulgaria's envoy. She speaks Russian, English and French with the grace of a native and can acquit herself well in German and Italian. She was the Premier's secretary and interpreter at international conferences. It was always she who arose when Bulgaria's name was called for Stamboulisky never troubled to make his addresses first in the original Bulgarian. He merely told Miss Stancioff what he had to say and left the rest to her. Miss Stancioff was selected for the secretaryship of the Washington Legation at one time but the appointment was not carried through.

Officials in charge of the plans for President Harding's trip West and then back through the Panama Canal, have found it necessary to prune the entourage to fit the limitations of the President Harrison, Shipping Board vessel on which the Presidential party will make the trip from San Diego to San Francisco. The President Harrison is a combination passenger and cargo vessel and accommodations on board are limited to thirty cabins with seventy beds. This limits rather severely the number of persons that can be taken. It already has been found necessary to eliminate many of the special newspaper correspondents and the rule of press associations only which goes into effect when space becomes limited has been applied. The lack of cabin space means that for the two weeks or so which this portion of the journey will require the President will be surrounded virtually by only those of his own party which will permit of some real rest on the part of the Chief Executive.

HEED PROTESTS OF CONSCRIPTED COOLIES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HONGKONG, June 19.—There have been many public protests in Canton at the conscripting of coolies by the Sun Yat Sen regime in order to procure men to carry army equipment to the troops now fighting in various parts of the province. These coolies have been seized by the police and forced to work for the army without pay of any kind. Dr. Sun has now paid heed to the complaints and has ordered that prisoners in the jails serving light sentences be liberated to carry out this work.

SALEM (Or.) June 19.—George M. Brown, Supreme Court justice, mentioned in Portland news stories this morning as a possible candidate of the Ku Klux Klan in a movement to recall Gov. Pierce, today declared that he had not been approached with the suggestion, and he would not be a candidate in any event.

BRITISH WOMEN SEEKING SEATS

Commons Ultimate Goal of All Organizations

Every Class Banded Together for Politics

"Fifty in Parliament" is Radical War Cry

BY WLLIAM HASSETT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

LONDON, June 19.—The part which women are to play in politics in England still remains a riddle. The lessons to be learned from the candidature of women in the general election last November are not yet clear. Thirty-three women contested seats in the House of Commons and only two—Lady Astor and Mrs. Wintringham—were elected. The obvious interpretation is that women will not vote for women.

The trouble was, say these women, that only three women in the entire thirty-three who stood for the House of Commons contested seats previopsly held by members of their own political party. Two of them were elected and the third, Lady Cooper, after polling 14,349 votes, failed by only 325 votes.

ALL TOOK HUSBANDS' SEATS

Now a third woman has just been elected to Parliament in the person of Mrs. Hilton Philipson, better known by her stage name of Mabel Russell. She has taken her place as a Conservative in the seat which her husband won last November as a National Liberal. Her husband was unseated because of illegal acts performed by his election agents.

By a curious coincidence each of the three women members have succeeded their husbands in the Commons. Lady Astor was chosen to fill her husband's place when he left the Commons to enter the House of Lords as his father's successor in the peerage and Mrs. Wintringham was elected to succeed her husband, who died.

WOMEN AT CONFERENCES

In less than a fortnight a series of annual conferences of women's political associations—nonpartisan as well as partisan—have been held. These meetings brought together in different organizations women from every stratum of English life, from all the political parties as well as those not definitely aligned with any party. The meetings showed how women in all parties and out of them are taking a more active interest and a more prominent place in politics and are making in many directions identical demands.

The first of these organizations to sound its clarion call to English women was the Women's Freedom League, a militant organization with an ambitious program. It pays no attention to party in the sense of affiliation, but works through any and every party it can influence for full equality in every direction of women with men in every walk of life. That's no small order. The Women's Freedom League feels that women will have a sad time of it until they are represented by at least fifty of their own sex in Parliament.

Not less earnest, but certainly less revolutionary in its ambitions, is the National Liberal Federation, whose conference of more than 700 delegates at Holborn Hall was presided over by Lady Bonham Carter, former Premier Asquith's very clever daughter.

ATTEND LABOR MEETING

Some 600 delegates participated at York in the National Conference of Women, who are members of the Labor party—the present official opposition to the government. Under the presidency of Mrs. Harrison Bell, chairman of the standing joint committee of industrial women's organizations, that organization was in substantial accord with the program of their sisters of National Liberal persuasion.

Not to be outdone by their more radical sisters, the Women's National Unionists' Association also held a meeting. These are the ultraconservative women of the most conservative country in the world. These are the Tory women. They wield wicked lorgnettes, glorify tradition and hate all innovation—such radicalism, for instance, as the present disinclination of English girls to enter domestic service.

It would be difficult to analyze the objects and aims of these and other organizations of women, both political and nonpolitical, and from th eresult formulate what would purport to be the English woman's point of view. There is as great a diversity of opinion as to what women need as there is in the plan of campaign best calculated to attain it.

Lovers of Dogs Had Best Remain Out of Venice

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VENICE, June 19. — Venice would appear to be a bad city in which to keep a dog. In fact, the keeping of dogs is not encouraged by the authorities, who limit canine pets to one per person, except in special cases. As can be imagined, a city which is practically without streets is not a good place for dogs, and the dog owners have difficulties in giving their pets a run. They take them sometimes to the island of Murano, of the glass makers, where there is a bit more space and a different City Council. Murano has for some time become for this reason a place to which owners take their dogs which they wish to be rid of, and the dog colony has assumed such proportions that the Murano authorities have had to take measures.

In Rome, of course, Trajan's Forum is the site consecrated to abandoned and superfluous cats. There are always about a hundred or more stray cats crawling about the historic columns of the Foro Traino, where they are fed by the inhabitants of the square and given water by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

When they get too numerous, a raid is made on the felines and the most depraved and least flourishing specimens are chloroformed into the cats' Elysium.

Pair of Russian Counts Found in Vancouver; One Is Digging Ditches, Other Slings Coal

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) June 19.—Two Russian noblemen have been discovered in menial positions in this city and both were disclosed by their attempts to market imperial rubles. Count Reon Takaroff, formerly a dashing cavalryman in the forces of Czar Nicholas, is now a ditch digger on the city streets here, and Count Halaroff Kasasky is a coal slinger in one of the bunker departments of a city dock.

Both these men came here some time ago and had a little money when they arrived. Count Takaroff invested in a chicken ranch in North Vancouver, but not being accustomed to marketing was forced to eat the chickens and the eggs as the only way he could get any profit. Finally the last chicken was killed and the once brilliant officer at court was forced to take a position on the city streets as a ditch digger.

Kasasky refuses to tell how he got into British Columbia, but rumors have it that he knows more about the Czar's last hours than many of the writers who contend they have been near the death chamber. This Russian is known to have come through Siberia by sleigh and to have been seen with prominent members of the Imperial family in Russia just prior to leaving.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLIFTON (Ariz.) June 19.—B. H. Rouw, San Francisco traveling man, probably will be asked to make a signed statement covering what he knows of the mysterious disappearance in September, 1921, of Leighton Mount, Northwestern University student, which he disclosed in a conference today with Charles S. Wharton, Assistant State's Attorney of Chicago, according to plans announced this afternoon by Mr. Wharton.

Rouw picked out five pictures from a group shown him by the Chicago officer and declared that these five men resembled members of the group of students whom he saw lowering a body into an Evanston pier the night Mount disappeared. Rouw said he was unable to make positive identification from the photographs.

Rouw also said he told Wharton that he accepted $100 from a tall man who seemed to be a leader of the student group, on condition that he keep silent concerning the affair.

BUSINESS NEWS OF BUSY MARTS

Santa Fe Survey for Short Line to San Francisco

Oil Companies Approved for Exchange Listing

Perishable Freight Moving in Record Volume

Survey of a short line from Los Angeles to Bakersfield in the San Joaquin Valley will be completed within four months, by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, J. R. Hayden, assistant traffic manager said yesterday. The Santa Fe enters Los Angeles by way of Barstow at present, and is planning the new line to give more expeditious service for traffic between this city and San Francisco.

In conjunction with the Southern Pacific, the Santa Fe has built two short lines in the Bakersfield district designed to tap the fruit country in that territory, in which Southern California capital is largely interested. The first branch extends from Bakersfield into the Weed Patch country, and is eighteen miles in length. The second is four miles long, and radiates from Richgrove. Both lines will be in service July 1.

Mr. Hayden says that the Santa Fe has recently finished its double tracking from Barstow to Winslow, Ariz., leaving a gap of 120 miles between California and Chicago, which will be completed in the next year. With these additions to facilities, he believes that the Santa Fe will be in a position to move the perishable traffic from California in a rapid fashion this season, provided the proper cooperation is given by the shippers. Particular concern is expressed over the size of the grape acreage of 612,000 acres, one-third of which is in bearing. Crops of this magnitude are expected to cause a shortage of cars, but, in Mr. Hayden's opinion, serious results can be prevented by harmonious relations between the railroads and the shippers.

STOCK LISTINGS

Stocks of the Rio Grande Oil Company, Occidental Petroleum Company, Spearhead Gold Mining Company, and of the Tecopa Consolidated Mining Company have been approved for listing by the governors of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, and will be called on Saturday.

The Rio Grande Oil Company is capitalized at $1,500,000 of authorized common stock, with a par value of $100. The outstanding stock of $900,000 is held by 400 stockholders. The company operates in all phases of the petroleum industry with the exception of production, and maintains and operates refineries in Southwestern States. L. E. Lockart, is president; A. M. Lockhart, vice-president; L. M. Lockhart, secretary-treasurer. The main office is located in El Paso.

The Occidental Petroleum Company has authorized common stock of $1,000,000, having a par value of $1, of which $600,000 is in the hands of the public. Three leases are held in the Santa Fe Springs field. F. E. Caldwell is president; George E. Foley, vice-president, and J. T. Zeeman, secretary-treasurer. The main office is at 809 Junior Orpheum Building, Los Angeles.

The Spearhead Gold Mining Company has an authorized capitalization of $2,000,000 in common stock, $1,600,000 is owned by the public. Par value is $1. Properties are located in the Comstock district, Silver City, Nev. J. P. Donnelley is president; David Maltman, vice-president; William E. Herrens, vice-president, and A. A. Codd, secretary-treasurer. The main office is 421 Clay-Peters building, Reno, Nev.

The Tecopa Consolidated Mining Company has authorized common stock with a par value of $1 totalling $3,000,000, all of which is owned in the names of 646 stockholders. The company pays a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent. The properties consist of twenty-two claims and additional unpatented claims in the Tecopa district, Inyo county. A concentrating mill with a capacity of sixty tons is owned. Nelson Z. Graves is president; Dr. L. D. Godshall, vice-president, and Franklin S. Jerome, secretary-treasurer. The principal place of business is No. 400 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

COOTE SUSPENDED

A. W. Coote, independent broker whose creditors filed a petition of involuntary bankruptcy Monday, was suspended yesterday from the New York Curb, in which he held an associate membership, and the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, of which he was a governor. The suspensions followed the appointment of a receiver, and is usually the action of exchanges in such cases.

PURE OIL NOTES

A syndicate composed of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, the Bank of Italy, Chase Securities Corporation, and Halsey, Stuart and Company are offering $12,000,000 Pure Oil Company ten-year 6½ per cent sinking fund notes at 99 to yield about 6 5-8 per cent. The proceeds from the sale of the issue will be used to reimburse the treasury for recent acquisitions of other companies, development work, and to repay bank loans.

PERISHABLE FREIGHT

The Southern Pacific expects to ship 150,000 cars of perishable freight from California in 1923, C. J. McDonald, superintendent of perishable freight service, predicted yesterday, which will represent about a 20 per cent increase over last year. Of this total, Mr. McDonald says 27,000 cars will come from the Imperial Valley, or about 3000 more than in 1922.

Despite the increase of 25 to 30 per cent in general railroad traffic this season, perishable shipments are securing much better service than in the past, in Mr. McDonald's opinion. The Southern Pacific, through its 50 per cent ownership in the Pacific Fruit Express has now 2200 refrigerator cars in ex-

FINANCIAL CONDITIONS REVIEWED

Slight Tendency Toward Reaction; Car Loadings Heavy; Oil Adjustment

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions in its current issue says in part:

"The spring retail trade is subhas not yet begun, and manufacs.ding, the autumn wholesale trade turing activities for the fall are only in the planning stage. The demand for labor seems to be falling off a little. However, June is usually a month of diminishing trade activity in good years and poor.

"Financial business also shows a tendency toward reaction. Money is cheaper mostly from lack of both commercial and financial demand for loans, and the stock market is following precedent. It more often shows weakness or heaviness in June than in any other month of the year except February.

"Freight-car loadings continue to make high records, but the inference that railroad stocks should enjoy an aggressive rise is unwarranted. The trade conditions to which the stock market responds consist of business initiated rather than business completed; and railway traffic represents the latter. When bear movements occur in railway stocks they habitually do so in spite of continual increases in car loadings. The great bear movements of recent times were invariably $0 to 100 per cent completed before railway traffic began to show declines from the previous year.

"The sharp drop in crude oil has been accompanied by a rise of a half a cent in refinery prices of gasoline, and probably both represent a readjustment of oil and gasoline prices. Crude has been ruling too high as compared with gasoline, and the ability of the refiners to bring about a readjustment may be taken to mean that the petroleum stocks are not in quite so weak a position as appears."

DAILY TRADE TALK

Difference Between Business and Speculation; Future Cotton Empire in Pacific Southwest

The reading public, in which classification is included the average citizen and the occasional investor, should not permit current discussion to mislead. There is a difference between the business situation and the market situation.

A Trade Talk correspondent is moved to suggest that there are so many varying views that he is in occasional doubt as to whether there is any prosperity at all. This is a feeling which unquestionably comes from the present unsettled state of the stock market due to conditions precipitated by recent failures of brokerage and investment houses, and has very little to do with the fundamental basic condition of business per se.

There is a wider gulf at the moment between speculation and business than usually exists between these concomitant parts of trade, and firms or individuals who have been attempting to capitalize unsteady, unstable, uncertain and erratic fluctuations in foreign exchange, oils and highly speculative stocks do so at their peril—but, there is nothing the matter with business in general which is profitable. Wages are high and labor is in demand.

It would be marvelous indeed if our intricate economic machinery were to run smoothly in every part with half the world in a muddle. A condition in which every indicator of prosperity or adversity showed the same thing in the same degree at the same time would be theoretical and academic. Particular things must be overlooked in the search for general indications.

COTTON EMPIRE

E. M. Fowler, president of the Los Angeles Cotton Mills Company told the World Traders at a recent meeting that California and Arizona will eventually be called upon to produce the major portion of the cotton of the world.

"We will have to raise cotton in California on a very large scale," said Mr. Fowler. "We are facing a crisis which also means that we will manufacture cotton fabrics here in increasingly large volume."

There is now available in the Pacific-Southwest 12,543,000 acres of land on which cotton can be grown. California and Arizona enjoy the benefits of freedom from destructive insects that have ravaged the southern fields. The growers here rely on artificial conditions entirely in the raising of the product and are able to produce 500 pounds to the acre. Whereas, in the South, the limit is 141 pounds to an acre, with no definite assurance of the crop coming through.

Although 200,000 bales of cotton represented the crop of this year in Arizona and California, the last bale was disposed of a few days ago, showing the dearth of this necessary article. This is caused principally, Mr. Fowler declared, by the damaging boll weevil. Because of climatic conditions in this territory the boll weevil does not thrive here.

In Georgia, the production of cotton has dropped from a normal yield of 2,800,000 bales to 745,000 bales, with a decrease this year of from 8 to 10 per cent. Mr. Fowler said. South Carolina dropped from 1,700,000 bales to 532,000. Texas' high point of 4,000,000 bales was reduced 2,000,000.

The United States produced last year 10,000,000 bales of cotton. The demands were for 12,000,000. It was, therefore, necessary to call upon reserve stocks. There is now on hand 400,000 bales to last over until the new crop comes in.

FIRES COST MONEY

Fire collects a national tax of $1000 a minute, according to the statistics of the National Fire Protection Association, which places the annual fire loss at more than $500,000,000. Experts declare that 80 per cent of fires are preventable.

WHY NOT?

Business has been rather quiet of late with the bond salesmen, a condition which has given them an opportunity to make more frequent calls upon clients than usual. One of him had been turned down rather brusquely by a some-time customer one morning. The sales man was hurt: "I don't believe you'd give four bits to bury a bond man," he said. "You bet I would," replied the prospect; "here's $5, bury ten of them."

BUSINESS SITUATION

Almost unequaled prosperity is reported from all parts of the Twelfth Federal Reserve District. A moderate shortage of farm labor is the only apparent weakness. Building construction continues at a high level. Retail trade is substantially larger than a year ago; crops and live stock are in good condition. The fruit and vegetable production will be about normal, notwithstanding the drought earlier in the year. Prices are firm to slightly higher in many commodities; collections fair to good.

How the Engineer Contributes to Safe Investment

ENGINEERING is a science about which most business men know little. Yet it plays a highly important part in business, for engineers help to determine the safety of a security.

Our thorough investigations almost invariably include the service of an able engineer. In some cases he is a civil engineer, in others an electrical engineer is required. Water engineers, mechanical engineers, chemical engineers, marine engineers or any other type may be called upon.

And the engineer's important aid in determining the safety of an investment is always accompanied by a like service on the part of lawyers, accountants, appraisers, bankers and corporation financiers.

For we invest before we recommend. Therefore our investigations are conducted to safeguard both our interests and yours.

The same interests which dictate the investigation before investment influence us to watch carefully the security as long as your money or our money is entrusted to the enterprise.

That is the meaning of the phrase, "A Blyth, Witter & Co. Recommended Security."

You may desire to go more deeply into this subject. For that reason we have prepared a new booklet, entitled, "A Blyth, Witter & Co. Recommended Security," which may interest you. We'll gladly send it, without charge, upon request.

Fuel and Power for 34 Communities

For thirty-five years the Western States Gas & Electric Company, or its predecessors, has been successfully engaged in providing you with electricity in Central and Northern California.

In order to generate additional power to take the place of power which now has to be bought from other companies, the company has undertaken to complete a hydro-electric plant, financing it by means of the following bond issue:

Western States Gas & Electric Co.
(of California)
$2,000,000 First and Unified Mortgage 6% Gold Bonds

These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, are secured by a first mortgage on all properties, including the new hydro-electric plant, of El Dorado Power Company (the entire capital stock, except directors' qualifying shares, is owned by the Western States Gas & Electric Company.) The bonds are further secured by a direct mortgage on the properties of the Western States Gas & Electric Company, subject only to the lien of the outstanding underlying closed mortgage bonds and by deposit of the Refunding and Refunding Mortgage Bonds due 1941.

Professionals Re-enter Wheat and Corn Mart

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 19.—While the grain trade is confident that the wheat conference being held here will be devoid of lasting results, as far as the price of the grain is concerned, there was a feeling that something might be said that would have some effect on values. With a let-up in liquidation after the December had dropped to a new low for the season, commission house buying was effective in bringing about a rally with the nearby deliveries 1-3@¼c higher at the last and December ⅛c lower. Corn acted tight and gained ⅛@1⅛c with July leading. Oats were ⅛@⅜c higher, and rye ⅛@⅜c lower.

There is no balance wheat in the wheat market, and prices fluctuated rather rapidly on any good buying or selling, the news having but little effect. Liverpool failed to fully reflect the extreme weakness in America the previous day, and closed 1¼@1⅝d lower. Heavy rains in parts of the Southwest offset to some extent the moisture reported in parts of the Northwest. The detailed Government report failed to confirm the private claims of heavy rains in the latter.

Foreign demand for wheat showed considerable improvement, and it is estimated that sales in all positions the past two days exceeded 2,000,000 bushels, and advices from abroad indicated that the outlook there was much less optimistic than of late. Some change in sentiment was noted during the day, due more to the belief that the market was well liquidated than anything else. Harvesting is fairly general in parts of the Southwest.

Shorts in July were took little at the small amount of cash corn held in public elevators here, and with the spot basis ½c higher on yellow and a belief that there is a concentrated holding, prices moved up sharply to 82¾. Deferred deliveries were influenced by the action of the July and closed firm. Warm weather is favorable for the rapid growth of the new crop, which caused the December to drag a little. Sales of 325,000 bushels corn were made to go to store during the day with charters for 105,000 bushels to Georgian Bay. The buying brought out a small increase in country offerings with purchases of 30,000 bushels to arrive. Receipts, 53 cars.

Strength in other grains was the dominating influence to-day. There were reports from parts of Iowa of oats and barley being used to a larger extent than usual for hog feed, but crop reports on the whole were favorable. Speculation is down to a minimum. Receipts, 23 cars.

Charters have been made for 175,000 bushels more rye for shipment from Duluth to Chicago, and 22,000 bushels were sold to go to store. This was largely responsible for the lower range with all deliveries at a new low for the season.

PLANTATION CAFE TO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

RESORT TO GIVE PARTY IN HONOR OF ITS FIRST ANNIVERSARY

The Plantation Cafe on Washington Boulevard will observe its first anniversary with a birthday party Thursday evening, the 28th inst.

The cafe was opened just a year ago and has leaped into popular favor with hundreds of motorists. It is the mecca for theatrical and film folk, many of whom gather there nightly.

The anniversary will be observed with a birthday cake in which a single large candle will burn. Special music and a number of unique features are being arranged by Manager Dave Wolf.

Resisting Importunities—

Dependable Income Bonds wisely selected.

The woman of means frequently finds difficulty in resisting the importunities of others who would influence her investments. Unfortunately the good intentions are often not backed by specialization and expert ability in investment matters.

In such cases it is comforting and valuable to have some one of experience to fall back upon for impartial advice who will take a sincere interest in her investments. The importunities of others are more easily denied when backed by the opinion of experts.

Having our headquarters in Los Angeles the counsel of our officers is available to women who have investment problems. Impartial recommendation will be cheerfully given to friend and stranger alike.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Governments are Steady

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 19.—Recessions ranging from large fractions to more than a point were general in trading in bonds today. Prices, however, held fairly steady in the United States government group. Copper liens were particularly heavy, Cerro De Pasco 8s dropping 4⅜ points to 121½, a new low for the year. Liggett & Meyers 5s and American Telephone and Telegraph Convertible 4s each dropped a point. Pan-American 7s recorded a gain of 1 point.

Railroad mortgages also were offered freely, losses of a point or more being registered by Erie general 4s, Kansas City Southern 5s and Denver and Rio Grande Refunding 5s. Tractions slumped also, New York Railways refunding 4s certificates and Interborough Rapid Transit 7s each declining 1.

Selling of foreign government issues continued throughout the day, but losses generally were small. Mexican 4s closed 1¼ lower and Serbian 8s fell off nearly a point.

Total sales, par value, were $12,570,000.

Public offering will be made tomorrow of $5,000,000 State of North Carolina one-year 5 per cent highway bonds at 100½.

A Savings Account that provides a service of DOUBLE VALUE

Investigate NOW the many advantages of this new form of saving

Find Out Today About the

"TRUST FUND SAVINGS ACCOUNT"

BANK OF AMERICA

A "TRUST FUND SAVINGS ACCOUNT" in this strong bank offers you not only every advantage of an ordinary savings account; such as a substantial rate of interest; absolute security; and prompt, pleasant service—but in addition, and at no extra charge, it provides positive protection for your loved ones in an emergency.

It is a savings account plus—a new and highly developed phase of banking service that you will appreciate because of its greater value.

You name your beneficiaries at the time you open this account—just as you would in a will—and you may change or modify these provisions at any time, and as often as you wish. In time of need the funds in your account, with accrued interest, become immediately available to your beneficiaries—exactly as you have indicated and with no probating fees or court costs to pay.

A "Trust Fund Savings Account" is, like a regular savings account, always under your direct control and the funds are subject to your withdrawals or deposits.

It is as simple to open as an ordinary account and earns the same rate of interest—4 per cent—compounded in exactly the same manner. It protects both depositor and beneficiaries and affords many protective measures not to be had in an ordinary savings account.

Write or call today for a descriptive booklet outlining the many ways in which a "Trust Fund Savings Account" can perform a valuable service for you and yours.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

In the market of restricted trading limits, the weakness of General Petroleum and Holly Development yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange stood out as the important developments of the day. General Petroleum declined from an opening price of 32 3-8 to a final quotation at 31 1-4, off 1½ points from the close of the previous session. Holly Development dropped 6 cents to a closing price of 1.30, after fluctuating between 1.36 and 1.25.

Union Oil of California advanced 1 point to 104, and Standard Oil of California lost ⅛ point at 50½. Union Oil Associates was unchanged at 44, and Globe Petroleum sold at 50, off ½ cent.

Trading in the mining group was confined to a small volume of sales. United Eastern recorded the most important change in price, climbing 5 cents to 1.70. Simon Silver moved up 1 cent to 27 and Tom Reed was quoted at a closing price of 58, up 2½ cents.

Los Angeles Gas and Electric 5½s of 1947 were in demand in the bond market at 93 1-4, and a fair-sized block of Los Angeles Pacific 5s of 1943 was taken at 79½. Buckeye United Oil was the popular stock in the automotive department.

MARKET REVIEW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YORK, June 19.—There moment by speculative ventures. The fact must be readily recognized, however, that a change for the better in the foreign situation, particularly between France and Germany, will be accurately reflected in the foreign exchanges, and for this reason a close watch is being kept on them. At the moment, however, they reveal no hint of what is to be the outcome of present reparations negotiations. It may be said that it is the consensus of international bankers here that a settlement must be reached in the near future, and there appears to be no doubt that pressure to bring about an early and amicable settlement is being exerted from internation quarters.

Preliminary statements on the basic indices thus far this week do not forecast any very considerable changes in fundamental conditions throughout the country. There has been a moderate decline, it is true in carloadings on western railroads and some slowing up here and there in the ratio of manufacturing operations in many basic lines. It is much too soon to say, however, whether or not these are of permanent or temporary character, and in consideration of the fact that consumption continues at a high level, it is reasonable to presume that they are more or less temporary and that such declines in operation as have taken place are to some extent, at least, seasonal in character.

Better Market Tone

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 19.—Stock prices displayed a better tone in today's active dealings on the New York stock exchange but there were indications of frightened and forced liquidation and short selling throughout the day which gave the market a spotty appearance. Several of the leaders tumbled to new low records before sufficient buying support set in to stem the tide of selling orders.

Official denial of the widespread rumors that several brokerage houses were in financial difficulties did much to dispel the pessimism that was so prevalent in yesterday's late dealings. Speculators for the decline made repeated assaults on the list but in many instances they encountered substantial buying orders placed in the belief that the recent reaction had been overdone and that technical conditions warranted a rally.

Oils were rather unstable because of unfavorable trade conditions, the Pan-American issues, Texas Company, California Petroleum, Producers and Refiners, General Asphalt, and a number of others falling to new low prices for the year.

United States Steel touched another new low at 92⅛ and then rallied to 92 7-8, up 1-4. Gulf States and Replogle Steels, Consolidated Gas, Cerro de Pasco and Kennecott Coppers, International Paper, Baldwin, United States Industrial Alcohol and Central Leather were among the more than three score other stocks that sold at new minimum prices for the year, but all rallied before the close.

Rails held up well in the first few hours of trading but they gave way in the afternoon reaction and many of them closed at net losses on the day. Chesapeake and Ohio, Lackawanna, Illinois Central, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, and Norfolk and Southern dropped back 1 to 3 points.

Call money held at 5 per cent all day. The demand for time money and commercial paper was again quiet with no change in rates.

Foreign exchange rates showed marked improvement. Demand sterling advanced 5-16 to 4.62 5-16 and French francs climbed 7⅛ points to 6.22⅛ cents. German marks rallied from .0006 1-4, the extreme low established yesterday, to .0009 3-8 cents.

BUSINESS NEWS OF BUSY MARTS

cess of the supply in 1923, and will have 5300 more delivered by September 1.

To transport the perishable crop out of California alone, it is estimated that over 900,000 tons of ice will be required. The Imperial valley canteloupe crop of 12,000 cars will use 100,000 tons, and the watermelon shipments, which are running around forty to fifty cars daily, will utilize a considerable tonnage of ice. The Southern Pacific operates fifteen icing plants in the State.

Oil Royalties

WE OWN AND OFFER SUBJECT TO PRIOR SALE:

1% Royalty in the Commonwealth Oil Company's well, Signal Hill, now drilling at 3400 feet. This is surrounded by wells producing from 2000 to 5000 barrels daily. Should be in production within the next thirty days.

2½% in well drilling to the Alamitos sand, within a very few feet of the General Petroleum Corporation well that came into production making over 5000 barrels of oil daily.

"And Something More"

I want to say to you dear folks that every dollar you invest with me will be guarded with my life. So just consider your investment as safe as the Rock of Gibraltar, for the only route by which they can ever depreciate it will be "over my dead body," and even then I leave "eight fighting soldiers" that will live to say, "it shall be done."

The Facts Between the Covers

Could I afford to put out a 24-page book on the refining industry and spend 28c to get it into your hands—UNLESS it held facts that mean PROFIT and INCOME for us both?

When I announced my first enterprise embracing oil profits, a swarm of investors answered—and made big profits. The same with my second and third; ALL successful; ALL earning huge sums; ALL paying amazing monthly dividends.

Here's the fourth WHITE STAR organization—bigger than its predecessors. If you are honestly interested in making money with us in producing, transporting, refining and marketing petroleum, I'll be mighty glad to hear from you, and send you 24 pages of sincere, compelling FACTS about your coming profits.

OIL ROYALTY

Every Oil Investor is familiar with the Julian 4 and Russell wells, with wells like these as neighbors the "IF" is almost taken out of "IF THERE IS OIL." We have a small amount of Landowners' royalty in a 30-acre lease bordering the Russell property. This is priced to sell.

F. R. LONG

327 Bank of Italy Building

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

According to the latest reports from Huntington Beach, the Amalgamated Oil Company is leading all others in daily production in that field. Its daily output is said to be 23,140 barrels, while that of the Standard Oil Company is 22,842 barrels. The Shell Company comes next with 8610 barrels. The Petroleum Midway Company is getting 7125 barrels a day, and the Union Oil Company 7110 barrels.

Trouble With Shutoff

La Merced No. 23, the deep test well of Union Oil Company of California in the Montebello field, which has occupied the center of interest as far as the latter field is concerned, is still held up by attempts to shut off water. The well is down 4947 feet, with four and one-half inch casing, and bailing for water shutoff is now being carried on.

Advances Crude

The Ohio Oil Company at Findlay, O., yesterday advanced the price of Wooster crude oil 15 cents a barrel. The new price is $1.90 per barrel.

May Fatten Treasury

Oil royalties from city water lands at Long Beach are expected to be increased as a result of the proving up of the deep oil sand in that section of the Signal Hill field Monday by the bringing in of the Petroleum Midway Company's Harlow and Kent No. 2 with an initial production estimated by officials at 7400 barrels a day.

This well on a lease near the city land was drilled into the sand at 4517 feet, proving up a sand considerably deeper than the stratum from which the wells on the 140-acre tract on the city's water lands obtain the fluid that enriches the city treasury in royalties.

Officials of the oil company expressed the opinion that the well will produce in the neighborhood of 10,000 barrels a day.

A considerable revenue is derived by the city at present from royalties on oil wells from the shallower sand on the water land. A deepening of wells in the section of the new producer is expected to follow in a short time, due to the increase in production from the deeper sand.

Union After Wobblies

Taking a direct slap at the I. W. W. organization, officials of the oil workers' union have appointed a special membership committee under the direction of State organizers, who will have charge of a membership drive, which will start in Santa Fe Springs oil field and continue through every oil field in the State.

The decision to start the membership drive was reached Saturday when the officials of the union met in Huntington Beach.

According to Federal officers, the "Wobbly" element has been unusually active in the Santa Fe Springs field since the failure of the strike in the harbor district. Several bands of paid I.W.W. organizers have started to work in the field and it is believed the active campaign being waged by the oil workers' union will lessen the effect of the "Wobblies."

Showings In Yucaipa

The C. P. Ritter Company, owner of the Grapehill Ranch oil well in lower Yucaipa, has drilled to a depth of about 1800 feet and has stopped drilling to "cement off," having reached a sand stratum that is said to be oil bearing, the showing being paraffine-base oil.

The company didn't expect to find oil sand at that depth. Geologists said the sand would be found under 2200 feet. Thomas Walkup says that the company now feels sure there is oil there. The head driller on the well is convinced the present well will be no less than a 200-barrel well.

Development Is Rapid

No less than forty wells have been brought in as producers on the flat in the Buena Vista Hills district, just east of Thirty-six Hill during the last few months and the territory is fast being extended on both sides of the Taft-Bakersfield highway.

The most recent well to come in on the flat is that of the Pacific Oil Company on Section 31, 32-24. The production of this well, which is near the discovery well of the North American Petroleum Company, is in the neighborhood of 3500 barrels a day.

Oil in small quantities has been found at Ducor, where tests have been made by Long Beach capitalists. It is said the well will not do more than twenty-five barrels now, but it is expected the production will be increased so that the well will pay handsomely by going to a deeper sand.

The hole is now down about 2000 feet.

Output Is Enormous

That the daily production in the Santa Fe Springs field would reach 300,000 barrels if the wells now producing were allowed to flow at a normal rate is the opinion advanced by oil operators in that field. They contend that the ten new wells added to the list within the last ten days and the 60,000 barrels of oil, if relased along with other curtailed and shut-in production, would bring the total near the 300,000-barrel mark.

At least 18 new wells are drilling in the sand. With one half of them producing from the Myer sand, the production may top the 300,000-barrel mark in the next six weeks, producers think.

The Union Oil Company is drilling eight wells which are near the Myer sand depth and at least ten wells are being drilled at that depth in proven area by other companies.

MARKET FOR CRUDE RUBBER IS EASIER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 19.—Prices of crude rubber were slightly easier today. Ribbed smoked sheets and firsts latex spot was offered at 25¼c; brown crepe thin clean, 25¼c; amber No. 1, 25¼c, and spot or near Para, 25c.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 19. — What amounts to a general expectation that lower prices will be named on leading grades of dried fruit is gradually taking form in the trade. The outlook now is that opening prices will be named for apricots not later than next week, while new prices are expected for prunes about the middl eof July.

California packers have been making efforts to place their product on the market at prices that will prove attractive and they are at the same time extending themselves in the effort to improve the quality of the grading and deliveries of the larger fruit.

The past couple of days have witnessed an increased movement in old-crop raisins, a fairly good movement of Muscats as well as sultanas having been seen, although the stocks were moved at slight concessions.

Despite the higher cost of sugar and other cannery materials, California cherry growers recently cut prices to the extent of 30 per cent, and a better movement has taken place at the lower price levels.

Peach growers have also followed the general trend of lowering prices, and have set a lower price on their product.

CITRUS FRUITS

At the foreign lemon auction sale today actual prices were lower than from the closing sales of last week, but the prices were higher for the general condition of the fruit was bad. Few lots were fit for shipment to other than near-by points.

The range of price was as follows: First choice, 300s, at $4.62½ to $5.50; seconds, $3.37½ to $4.12½; first choice 360s, $4.12½; seconds, $3.37½ to $4.12½.

There were thirteen cars of California Valencia oranges sold, as well as three cars of navels, two cars of seedlings, three cars sweets, one car bloods, two cars St. Michaels, one car budded oranges and two cars mixed navels. One car of lemons was also sold. The market on Valencias was better on 216s and smaller, and about steady on 200s and larger. Lemons closed unchanged.

CANNED GOODS

Wholesale grocers are receiving fair inquiries for the general run of canned goods. Before long wholesalers are expected to enter the market for factory shipments, since their stocks are now running rather low.

Canners have had an opportunity to size up the season's pack of Columbia River salmon and indications are that a price of somewhere between $2.40 and $2.50 will be named, as stocks have already been billed out at the inside figure, with the proviso of an adjustment up or down.

Tomatoes continue to be firmly held at canners' figures. The new pack will come on a practically bare market, so the outlook from the standpoint of the packers is considered quite bright.

SUGAR MARKET

While there were more encouraging reports in circulation as to the volume of business passing in refined sugar, neither the market for actual or future raw sugar reflected this condition. So far as actual business was concerned, the only business transacted was some 11,500 bags for late June shipment and 1600 bags Cubas, in port, to the Federal Sugar Refining Company, at 5 1-4 cents, cost and freight, or 7.03 cents, delivered. The absence of retail buying, which resulted in refined sugars piling up in refiners' warehouses, may not prove to be a factor for an indefinite period. The reports today were that there was very little refined available under 9.25 cents and that refiners couting that price had been receiving a good demand

In the sugar future market there was a moderate amount of covering and new long buying in the early dealings, but there was more trade selling in evidence at the close. The list closed firm, however, at net gains of 7 to 12 points on sales of 40,500 tons.

COFFEE, TEA

Persistent irregularity in the coffee futures market reflected the uncertain attitude of the trade in the matter of how large a proportion of government holdings the Brazilian government has already disposed of. The trend was downward early today on the decline of 625 to 675 reis at Rio and the 300-reis drop at Santos, although this showing was offset somewhat by a gain of 5-64d in the Rio exchange rate on London and a 150-reis decline in the dollar buying rate.

This market weakened under persistent trade selling in the forenoon until a little after 1 o'clock net declines of 30 to 45 points had been scored, the principal pressure being against the distant months on the knowledge that a bumper crop is in prospect. Trade interests who had sold reversed themselves and became buyers just before the close, when July went back from 8.10 to 8.26; September from 8.50 to 8.60, and December from 7.15 to 7.25. The close was irregular at a decline of 14 points to an advance of 9 points.

Demand for teas was not especially brisk as of yesterday. The trade was awaiting the cable advices from Colon and London regarding the course of the markets there, since at the sale of Indian teas in London on Monday prices had risen another ½d per pound.

While there was no additional information of a market-shaping character from any of the oriental markets, prices at the latter points were firm at last accounts.

Stocks are large enough to leave the general rice situation comparatively easy in view of the small turnovers now being experienced.

BUTTER, EGGS

The arrivals of butter are running far below expectations of receivers and with active demand for all accounts prices on table grades advanced 1-4 cent per pound. Call sales: One hundred, sixty, 100, twenty-five, fifty and fifty tubs creamery extras at 39 cents for spot delivery. In future sales were 100 tubs creamery extras, June delivery, at 39 cents per pound.

The egg market is showing signs of weakness, but late prices were not disturbed. Call sales: 100 cases Northern Ohio firsts at 24 cents; 50 cases Northern Iowa No. 1 dirties at 21¼ cents; 50 cases Iowa firsts at 22½ cents; 400 cases Illinois firsts in storage at 24 cents; 50 cases Northern Iowa extra firsts on dock at 26 cents all four spot delivery.

COPPER, ZINC

The copper market is unchanged at 15⅛ to 15¼ cents a pound for electrolytic delivered, but the higher limit of the range is rapidly disappearing.

The resumption of the downward movement in London has weakened the domestic market and the recent wave of buying has subsided. Although the Copper Export Association has sold all of the 400,000,000 pounds of copper for the disposition of which it was organized, it will continue to handle the copper for export for several important producers in this country.

London cables a further drop in copper there, standard declining 2s 6d to £66, 12s 6d for spot and to £67 for futures, while electrolytic was off 10s to £73, 10s for spot and £74 for futures.

The zinc market is steady, but quiet at 6 cents a pound St. Louis. There were 55 tons of zinc exported to France yesterday. Joplin advices state that shipments of zinc ore last week amounted to 10,298 tons as against 11,789 tons the week previous, while shipments since the first of the year total 337,392 tons as compared with 211,890 tons during the corresponding period last year. In London spot declined 5s to £29, 5s and futures 7s 6d to £29, 10s.

OIL, GASOLINE

Another reduction was announced in the midcontinent field when the Ohio Oil Company cut Wooster crude oil 15 cents to $1.90 a barrel. Further reductions in the midcontinent and eastern fields are generally anticipated and weakness is appearing in the market for refinery products.

A break in the New York gasoline tank wagon market is predicted in some quarters.

BOND MARKET

Bond prices were decidedly irregular all day and the market was forced to absorb an even larger volume of trading than on Monday.

The hardening of the call money rate at 5 per cent was regarded by some as a favorable turn of affairs in view of the 5½ per cent peak on the previous day.

Anaconda Copper 7's furnished a feature with an unusually heavy turnover, selling under par during the final hour, but pulling up to that level on the final sales.

Sugar bonds improved slightly.

Oils were conservatively traded in.

Rails were steady to firm.

LIVE-STOCK MARKETS AT VARIOUS CENTERS

[Furnished by Federal-State Live-Stock Market News Service, 207 Exchange Building, Union Stockyards.]

Disposition, Monday, June 18: To Los Angeles Packers, 337 cattle, 177 calves, 1055 hogs, 800 sheep; others, 62 cattle, 3 calves.

CATTLE—Approximately 1100 cattle on the market met very dull trading, in fact, hardly enough to establish a market. A few steers sold at slightly lower prices. Two loads of good 1090 and 1225-pound steers cashed for 7.00, while half a load of medium 1157-pound steers made 6.75. Few heavy Holstein steers cashed for 6.00 with one out at 5.90.

She stuff met dull trading with only a few loads moving, and the market closed weak to 25 cents lower. Top of 5.10 was scored on a load of good 962-pound cows. A load of good 881-pound cows scored 5.00 as did a part load of good 967-pound cows. Two loads of medium 1026-pound cows cashed for 4.90 with a load of medium 913-pound kinds at 4.85.

CALVES—Steady. One load of good 196-pound vealers cashed for 10.50. Odd lot of good 190-pound kind made 10.50.

HOGS—Steady. Brisk trading cleaned up yards at an early hour. Twelve loads of good 170 to 195-pound killers cashed for 9.25 with a few heavies out at 7.50 and wags at 6.00. A half a load of good 116-pound feeder pigs cashed for 8.00. Six loads of good handyweight killers sold late yesterday at 9.25 and 9.35.

We Own and Offer

YANKEE UNITS

We don't usually recommend oil investments—don't ordinarily even handle them.

SAFETY OF THE PRINCIPLE INVESTED is the keystone of this institution. Our success has been built upon carefully choosing, after the most rigid investigation, the choicest investment opportunities available.

We did not vary one iota from this policy when we contracted to purchase, before Fosters' big wells were completed, a block of Yankee units.

We purchased these units because our investigation convinced us that Fred B. Foster & Company, who are behind Yankee, are the premier oil producing institution of California, in which the public can make an investment in actual oil production.

We found the Fosters with several big money-making, publicly financed oil offerings to their credit. We found that they had fulfilled every promise and made good in striking fashion one time after another.

We found that their Yankee Syndicate had one of the highest-priced and most attractive Santa Fe Springs leases ever thrown open to the public for an investment.

We found it located so near 6000-barrel wells that we are convinced Yankee will get 6000-barrel producers.

As a result of our investigation we bought, with the intention of unqualifiedly recommending them as an investment, a block of Yankee units.

Then THREE Great Foster Wells Roared In:

Despite the fact that we believe this striking proof of the Foster capacity for producing oil made our Yankee units worth a great deal more, we are selling them at exactly the same price as the Fosters sold them. We do this because we believe that every man who purchases Yankee units from us will be a life-long client of this institution.

BAND PLAYED RIBALD SELECTIONS; NOW SUES

PAY REFUSED MUSICIANS WHO WISTFULLY PLAYED "HOW DRY I AM"

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 19.—Prof. De Noto, whose brass band halted in front of the reviewing stand where Mayor Hylan and Gov. Smith were seated during the jubilee parade on May 26 and pleadingly played, under the leaders' direction, "How Dry I Am," has retained Assemblyman Louis Cuvillier to bring suit against the city for $320. Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, who engaged the band, has refused to settle with the professor.

"How Dry I Am," was an interpellation and embarassed the Mayor, who was visibly agitated, Gov. Smith laughed and thousands of spectators cheered. Whalen ordered the professor to stop the band, but De Noto kept his musicians to the task until they had played the last note.

Commissioner Whalen said today:

"That band was given specific instructions to play at the reviewing stand and the piece certainly was not 'How Dry I Am.' The band violated its contract with the city. I'll pay when I get good and ready, if at all."

SENATOR EDEN QUITS LEGISLATIVE POSITION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—State Senator Walter Eden of Santa Ana, representing the Thirty-ninth Senatorial District, Riverside, Imperial and Orange counties, has filed his resignation with Gov. Richardson, effective immediately. Senator Eden is moving out of the district to Los Angeles. The vacancy can be filled only by election, which the Governor will call in due time. Senator Eden had two years to serve, being a hold-over. There was a report that State Senator Frank Arbuckle, of Ventura county, had also resigned to move to San Francisco. No record or intimation of such a resignation has been received at the Governor's office. The two Senators may have been confused.

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF IMPERIAL RANCHER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, June 19.—Angelino Bizzins, 52 years of age, a well-known rancher, died in a hospital without regaining consciousness after being hurt in an unexplained manner. He was found near his auto on the Calexico highway late Sunday night. He is reported to have been accompanied by three other men when he left for his home after spending the evening at Mexicali.

The Sheriff is seeking the three companions to get them to explain how Bizzins came by his fatal injury. Bizzins was unable to talk to the officers when they found him. His skull was fractured.

CLUB'S LADIES' NIGHT

POLICE FIGHT IS EXPLAINED

Pastors Deny Trying to Keep Agitation Going

Declare Letters From Public Basis of Complaint

Mayor Undecided About Grand Jury Sift

The appearance of Rev. Gustav A. Briegleb and Rev. R. B. Shuler before the Police Commission yesterday morning, when a number of letters complaining of conditions were filed, was not an effort to prolong the vice investigation agitation, Dr. Briegleb said last night.

"We are not seeking to break into print again," said Dr. Briegleb, "but scores of letters and complaints continue to pour into us, and as we have been unable to get any satisfaction through correspondence, we decided to visit the commission and voice our side of the affair.

"The town is not 'wide open' now, due to the agitation of last week. It is impossible to collect evidence against bootleggers and gamblers at present, as we told the Mayor, because the underworld has tightened up, posted lookouts, and is waiting for the flurry to blow over."

IN JUSTIFICATION

Mayor Cryer observed yesterday that the move on the part of the ministers was in justification of their sensational charges of last week, when they demanded the dismissal of Chief Oaks. At that time the police department was accused of inefficiency and graft by the ministers. Yesterday they laid before the commission a score of letters in which accounts of violations of the law were asserted.

The Mayor stated last night that he has not definitely made up his mind whether to address a communication to the county grand jury asking for an investigation. Reports that he would do this were published in a local paper yesterday but Mayor Cryer declared premature publicity to this contemplated move had left him undecided whether to proceed with the request.

At the Police Commission hearing where the pastors spoke, Mayor Cryer and Commissioner De Coo said that an investigation would be started of the places named. Five additional locations were also given in another report given to the board by the ministers as coming from a private investigator and these places were said in the report to be operating under police protection.

After the two ministers had filed their lists, warm discussion followed, finally reaching the point where Acting Chief of Police Hilf arose and said:

"These charges that policemen who are active in enforcing the law are punished for it by their superiors and transferred are false. I ask to be excused from attending this meeting and listening to these men."

HILF STAYS AT HEARING

"It is very appropriate that you should listen to it," said Commissioner De Coo, so Hilf sat down and remained silent throughout the rest of the meeting.

"We object to being called vaudeville performers," said Mr. Briegleb. "We receive letters charging that the police are inefficient and telling of alleged violations of the law and we are sincerely desirous of seeing these conditions eliminated."

"Then why all this publicity?" asked City Prosecutor McConnell. "Why not lay these reports before the authorities and help them?"

Some of the charges the two ministers said were contained in letters received by them were that an ex-policeman is openly conducting a house of ill-fame, supposedly under police protection; that a high official of the police department reported to Mr. Shuler that policemen who were active in enforcing the law were punished by being transferred to remote beats; that one young woman was attacked by two young men who were escorting her home from a dance at the home of a friend of the family and that the young woman said her parents were afraid to report the case to the police for fear that the young men would use their money and influence with the police department to attack the character of the young woman; that police officers drink liquor while on duty at downtown protected saloons masquerading as soft drink parlors; that over 1500 protected places existed in Los Angeles where the gambling and liquor laws were being violated; that in Hollywood liquor was openly sold in two well-known places.

CHARGES ARE NUMEROUS

City Prosecutor McConnell and Mayor Cryer pointed out to the ministers that the City Prosecutor's office is in constant receipt of letters making charges; that these are investigated, many of them found to be baseless and that more that 11,000 complaints were issued last May by the City Prosecutor's office showing that the police and the prosecutor are active in arresting and prosecuting violators of the law.

Mayor Cryer asked Mr. Shuler for the name of the police official who had written the minister that policemen had been transferred as punishment for their activities for law enforcement.

"I'd have my right arm cut off before I gave the name of that police official," said the minister. "You know very well what would happen to that police official if his name became known."

"I resent the attacks upon the integrity and efficiency of the police department," said Acting Chief of Police Hilf yesterday, "but do not care to enter into a discussion with the ministers. Chief Oaks will be at his desk in a few days and he will be well able to handle the situation."

METHOD OF ACTION

Acting Chief Hilf said that the list of "locations" furnished the Police Commission by the ministers would receive the same consideration, if referred to the police department for action, as thousands of other complaints received from sources official, private and anonymous.

These complaints are indexed, then given to the various division commanders for action, the reports of the outcome being afterward delivered to the Police Commission, where they are available.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Becker recalled the case of the woman who asserted that she had been attacked by a downtown dentist while in his office. Mr. Becker declared that a complaint had been offered the woman but that she declined to prosecute the dentist when shown that the chance of conviction was very slight and that she would be forced to undergo an unpleasant experience in court.

"She left my office apparently satisfied," said Mr. Becker.

NEW POTATO CENTER

Large Shipments Sent Out From Porterville and Strathmore

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, June 19.—The opening chapter of a new industry for Porterville and Strathmore districts is being written in shipment of local-grown potatoes to the Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Stockton markets. Three cars left yesterday via the Santa Fe and about five cars will leave tonight or in the morning over the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe lines. The total consignment is expected to each about twenty-two or twenty-three cars.

The potatoes are from the ranches of Messrs. Lowe, Sears, Doane and Ingram and are principally of the White Rose variety. Deputy Horticultural Commissioner Rewey, acting as inspector, states that they are of superior quality and free from all pests.

Early estimate from these eighty acres was only about fifty cars, according to R. C. Barnard, Santa Fe agent. Care, soil and climate conditions were apparently ideal and it is thought seed may have been responsible for the unexpected drop. They will bring about $2.25 per 100 pounds on the cars.

HUGE TITLE TRANSFER

Sun Maid Raisin Growers' Deed Is Filed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, June 19. — What is claimed by officials to be the largest deed of transfer in the history of Fresno county was filed today with Recorder Barstow by the Title Insurance Guaranty Company of Fresno in behalf of the Sun Maid Raisin Growers, formerly the California Associated Raisin Company, known as California Corporation, to the Sun Maid Raisin Growers' Association, known as the Delaware Corporation. Revenue stamps totaling $2600 were required.

The assessed valuation of the twenty-eight plants in Fresno county, together with lands and machinery, was placed at $2,600,000.

Another record is claimed in the issuance of a title insurance policy for $3,000,000, covering the twenty-eight plants of the company. This is the first large title insurance filed in connection with a deed of transfer of this type in Fresno county. It is also the largest deed of transfer with title insurance protecting the banks and growers of the county.

JOE KIRKWOOD LEADS GOLFERS IN SCOTLAND

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

GLEN EAGLES (Scotland) June 19.—Joe Kirkwood, with a 71 and Jim Barnes with a 73, led the field today at the end of the first half of a qualifying round in the Glasgow Herald's thousand guineas golf tournament.

Among others with good scores were A. G. Havers, who won the British open championship last week; George Duncan, S. F. Brews, and H. C. Jolley. Abe Mitchell and J. H. Taylor are not competing in the tournament.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN LAUNDRY TUB

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, June 19.—Drowned in a large laundry tray on the porch of her home, the body of Mrs. Louisa De Gelman was found this morning when a neighbor called. The body was floating in the tub and water was still pouring in from faucets when the neighbor made the discovery. Mrs. De Gelman's three children had left for school only a short time previously.

JUNISO CAPTURES BIG ASCOT HEATH CLASSIC

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ASCOT HEATH (Eng.) June 19. The Ascot stakes of £2000 with extras, run here today, was won by W. M. G. Singer's Juniso, by Junior out of Osaka. Lady Penrhyn's Donna Inez was second and Lady Nelson's Mizzen Mast third. Sixteen horses ran. The betting was 5 to 1 against the winner, 100 to 8, against Donna Inez and 7 to 1 against Mizzen Mast.

WENTWORTH TOURNEY CLOSES ON SUNDAY

That the Ike Wentworth tournament will close next Sunday is the announcement that comes from the tournament committee. It will be necessary for all contestants to have a complete four rounds of eighteen holes each by that time or they will be disqualified. So far all matches have been played off promptly and it is expected that the remainder will be played as well.

Fifty-six routes will be started by the Czecho-Slovak State Autobus Transportation service this year.

Workman Killed; Another Injured in Attempted Rescue

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, June 19.—Claude McKindrick was killed instantly and his companion, Edmund Fitzmaurice, was burned fatally today when they came in contact with a 60,000-volt wire at the Southern California Edison station in Vestal. McKindrick went up a pole, coming in contact with the high-power wire near the top. Fitzmaurice was burned while trying to rescue his pal. McKindricks's body is at the Lloyd parlors here, with everything but the shoes burned off it. Fitzmaurice died soon after being taken to the Porterville Hospital. Both men were single and were members of the Edison company heavy construction crew doing extra work in Vestal. Inquests will be held tomorrow afternoon.

CHILD DEAD AFTER BEING HIT BY AUTO

Driver is Detained on Charge of Suspected Manslaughter

Struck by an automobile when she ran from behind a street car yesterday at the intersection of Brooklyn avenue and Breed street, Ida Davids, 10 years of age, 325 North Fickett street, suffered injuries from which she died later at the Receiving Hospital.

C. B. Dudderman, 14 Pine street, Long Beach, asserted to have been the driver of the motor car, was held on a charge of suspicion of manslaughter.

According to police, Dudderman said he was driving east on Brooklyn avenue, close to the curbing, when the little girl stepped from behind a street car running west on the same street and that he was unable to apply the brakes of the machine before the girl was hit.

A man who said he was an eyewitness, Michael Paul, 137 North Soto street, who took the injured girl to the hospital, told a different story of the accident, according to police. He said the car that struck the girl was running along the car track instead of along the curbing, as Dudderman stated, police declared. The driver speeded the car up just before he passed the street car, Paul told police.

BROTHERS SENTENCED FOR ATTACK

Judge Scores Girl in Beating of Motion - Picture Actors

"I am sorry your sister is not here before me on the same charge, as I am convinced she is as much to blame as anyone," said Police Judge Richardson yesterday when he gave ninety-day suspended sentences to Clarence and Howard Ralston on charges of disturbing the peace. The brothers pleaded guilty Monday.

George W. Frey, motion picture actor, whom the Ralston brothers assailed following an accusation that he was forcing unwelcome attentions on their sister, Esther Ralston, pleaded not guilty and was released on $100 bail for trial next Monday.

"I have made some investigation of this case that leads me to believe Mr. Frey's conduct was at least constructively invited," said the Judge.

Frey was attended at the Receiving Hospital as a result of the work of the two brothers.

"UPSIDE DOWN" TO BE FILMED BY RAWLINSON

Herbert Rawlinson's next picture will be "Upside Down," an original story by H. H. Van Loan, well-known screen writer, it was announced yesterday at Universal City. William Parke will direct the production, the cast for which is yet to be selected.

DECORATE HERO OF WORLD WAR

Distinguished Service Cross Awarded Lieut. Rafter

Single-Handed Kept Enemy Forces Back

Regiment Commandant Gets Silver Saber

Five years ago on the battle line at Ronssoy, France, a lone corporal of the One Hundred and Fifth Infantry, Twenty-seventh Division stood his ground and remained at his post throughout a terrible night and despite the fact that all the members of his detachment were either killed or wounded he kept up a constant rifle fire and prevented enemy groups from organizing an attack on his company.

The sequel to this act of heroism under fire was written last night when Lieut. Edwin J. Rafter (then Corporal) was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross on orders from the War Department at the local National Guard Armory.

PRESENT MEDAL

The cross was placed on the breast of Lieut. Rafter by Lieut.-Col. H. R. Richmond, United States Cavalry, while four companies of the One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry, California National Guard, stood at attention.

The decoration of Lieut. Rafter was followed by the presentation to Capt., W. R. Jackson, of Company H of the regiment, of the Distinguished Marksmanship medal, on orders from the War Department. The evening's ceremonies were brought to a close when Col. Walter P. Story, commanding the regiment, was presented with a silver presentation saber by the officers and men of the regiment.

EXTRAORDINARY HEROISM

"For extraordinary heroism in action east of Ronssoy, France, September 27, 1918. This soldier while in command of a flank detachment of which all the members except himself were killed or wounded, remained alone at his post during the entire night and by his constant rifle fire defeated several attempts of enemy groups to develop an attack on the left of his organization, thus enabling his company to reorganize and consolidate their position. His indomitable courage and devotion to duty set an inspiring example to the men of his company and battalion."

Lieut. Rafter, who conducts the cigar stand at the Hotel Trinity and who lives at 1215 West Ninth street, enlisted with the 105th Infantry (originally the Seventy-first New York National Guard) in April, 1917, shortly after war was declared. He was soon promoted to corporal and then to sergeant. After he was discharged in 1919 he re-enlisted as a lieutenant.

HONOR MARKSMAN

When asked last night after he was decorated what he had to say as to his heroic exploit on the firing line, he smiled and said, "Oh, there's nothing to say!"

Capt. Jackson won the honor for distinguished marksmanship by virtue of the fact that he had a place on the national rifle team on six different occasions, each time representing the State of California. He is known as one of the best rifle shots in the country.

The presentation of the silver saber to Col. Story was made before the assembled companies by Sergt. A. Ray Condit in behalf of both the officers and men of the regiment. In presenting the saber, Sergt. Condit declared that it was given as a token of appreciation felt by the regiment for their chief. Tribute was paid to the colonel for the work that he has done and is doing for the regiment.

It was the first appearance of the colonel before his regiment since his recent marriage to Miss Diana Hunter.

YOUTH SHOT IN MYSTERY GUN ATTACK

Long Beach Young Man Wounded While Sitting in Auto With Girl

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, June 20.—James Fidsord, 19 years of age, a member of this year's graduating class at Polytechnic High School, was shot and seriously wounded tonight while sitting in an automobile with Miss Frances Clark, a 17-year-old high-school student, in front of the girl's home, 1012 Appleton street.

Two men approached the car, Miss Clark said, stepped off the sidewalk and commanded young Fidsord to "drive on." No other words were spoken, she said.

As Fidsord fumbled in his pockets for the keys to the car one of the men drew a pistol and fired.

The wound probably will not prove fatal, Dr. O. T. Boyd said at the Long Beach Hospital, where Fidsord was taken.

After the shooting the two men fled in the direction they had come, according to the girl's statement.

The police are working on two theories, one that the shooting was done by a jealous lover and, the other that it was the act of highwaymen. Both the boy and girl deny that there are any grounds for the first theory.

Fidsord is the son of G. B. Fidsord, a carpenter, residing at 909 Ohio avenue. Three of his sisters are teachers in the Long Beach schools.

DE MOLAY FOUNDER IS COMING

Frank Land Will Address First Annual Conclave Today at Alexandria

Frank S. Land, founder of the Order of De Molay, will arrive in Los Angeles at noon today as the principal guest of delegates of thirty-one chapters of the order conducting their first annual conclave at the Alexandria.

Mr. Land will address the delegates at an afternoon session presided over by Marshall Stewart, at which officers will be elected for the coming year.

Dr. R. B. Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, will be toastmaster at a banquet at 6 p.m. At 7:15 p.m. a parade of the delegates will march from Ninth and Olive streets to the First Christian Church at Eleventh and Hope streets, where a reception will be held. The entertainment will include an organ recital by Howard Jewett, impersonations by Douglas Jones and musical numbers by the Long Beach chapter orchestra, Kenneth Shutts of Alhambra and the address of the evening by Mr. Land.

State Highway Opening Will be Celebrated

Celebrating the opening of the new State Highway along the beach north of Santa Monica, a barbecue and rodeo will be held Sunday at Cooper's Topanga Ranch in Topanga Canyon.

Horse racing and bucking contests, trick riding, Roman riding, roping, bulldogging and other cowboy stunts will be shown and the Hollywood American Legion band will provide music.

The committee promises that a master of barbecue cooking will prepare the repast. Special busses will run from the Santa Monica Pacific Electric Station to the barbecue.

HOOK SCULPTURE NEW ART

Young Longshoremen at Harbor Carve Likenesses of Great and Near-great on Clay Cliff

Some months ago William A. McKinnon, a young longshoreman with artistic ambitions, was awaiting his turn at the "Fink Hall" at Los Angeles Harbor for a call to go to work and wanting something to while away the spare time, experimented at carving in the clay cliff opposite the hall with a longshoreman hook. The result was a fairly good likeness of Martha Washington and a new pastime among the longshoremen popularly known as "hook sculping."

The only implement used in this relief sculpture is the curved longshoreman's hook and possibly a piece of tin or a nail for the finer details.

FOLLOWER SPOILS IT

McKinnon's first follower in the new fad tried his hand at improving Martha's appearance. He had no sense of artistic values and attempted giving her modern bobbed hair.

"The final result looked like a cross between Andy Gump and Julius Caesar," young McKinnon commented yesterday, "but that did not bother me at all. It took about fifteen minutes' work with a hook and a piece of tin to convert the thing into a profile of Abraham Lincoln."

McKinnon and Nicholas Sanders, 20 years of age, another talented youth of the longshoring profession, have worked together and the better of the long line of carvings on the cliff are their handiwork.

RECEIVED BY WOBBLIES

Not only have less artistic hookwielders spoiled some of the carvings but there are also a number of longshoremen with Wobbly ideas who seem to delight in obliterating the faces on the cliff. There are several spots where nothing but hook scratches are left of what were formerly faces of the great and near-great. Some are in a condition to be restored and a Cleopatra of today may be a Nero or a Homer tomorrow.

The carvings on the cliff, as they stood yesterday, included reliefs of Lincoln, American Indians in full war paint, Cleopatra, Daniel Boone, Rip Van Winkle, an ecclesiastic and other figures which could not be identified. A number of these faces have been touched up with paint, giving the cliff an Egyptian appearance.

When asked what were their ambitions, Sanders smiled and said not a word and McKinnon, who is a bright, young, sandy-haired Scotchman, replied that he wanted to write a scenario for Mary Pickford. Whatever are their ambitions, this pair may be seen almost any day carving faces from history on the clay hill at the harbor.

SERVICES PLANNED

Vesper Ceremonial for Hollywood High School Is Sunday

Vesper services for the graduating class of Hollywood High School, their parents, friends and the underclassmen, will be conducted Sunday, the 24th inst., in the school auditorium, it was announced yesterday. The program for the service has been arranged through the combined music and dramatics departments under Miss Edna Ames, Miss Ray Feeman and Charles Jenner. The service is one of the oldest traditions of the Hollywood High School and is yearly attended by hundreds of former pupils.

Man Acquitted of Murder in Fatal Quarrel

A jury in Judge Cole's division of the Superior Court found Libardo Gallardo not guilty of the murder of Vicente Mura, whom he was charged with having stabbed to death July 10, 1922.

Witnesses had testified that Muro, before he died, told them Gallardo had stabbed him in self-defense. Muro is said to have leaped on Gallardo, flung him to the ground and to have struck him repeatedly with a rock. Gallardo then is said to have drawn a knife and stabbed his assailant.

Chicago Broker and Woman Are Held for Trial

Bail was fixed at $10,000 each in the case of Logan Loughborough, broker, and Mrs. Hattie Warsaw of Chicago when they were arraigned bfeore Justice Hanby yesterday on the charge of conspiring to commit grand larceny.

The two were arrested Monday on complaint of Mrs. Warsaw's husband, William Warsaw, owner of the Palais Royale Cafe in Chicago, who accused them of conspiring to dispose of $1000 worth of bonds belonging to him.

Both pleaded not guilty yesterday and hearing was set for the 22nd inst.

County Coroner Prepares to Conduct Inquest Into Fatal Beverly Accident

An inquest into the deaths of Mrs. Lucy Page McAfee, art director, and Vernon Grey, orchestra leader, killed Monday in a collision between a Pacific Electric train and an automobile, will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. today, it was announced yesterday.

The inquest will be conducted by County Coroner Nance at the Strothers and Dayton morgue at 6240 Hollywood Boulevard.

The persons who were not seriously injured in the accident which cost the two lives were reported to be recuperating at their homes today. A number of people seriously injured in another and similar accident yesterday were reported recovering at the Huntington Park and County hospitals, where they were rushed after the stage in which they were riding was struck by a Pacific Electric car.

ART BOARD APPROVES CIVIC PLAN

Adopts Resolution Giving Its Endorsement to New Administrative Center

The establishment of an administrative civic center north of First street, in which will be located the new $5,000,000 City Hall and other public buildings, has been indorsed by the Municipal Art Commission, following the action of the voters at the election of the 5th inst. in declaring overwhelmingly in favor of the project.

Chief Inspector of Buildings Backus, as secretary of the Municipal Art Commission, which is empowered with the right under the city charter of approving or rejecting plans for all municipal buildings, has forwarded to the City Planning Commission notification of the adoption by the Municipal Art Commission of the following resolution:

Since the people of Los Angeles have voted so overwhelmingly in favor of the erection of the City Hall to be located north of First street, this commission is now of the opinion that the city has definitely committed itself to a concrete plan for the future development and upbuilding of a civic center worthy of the city of Los Angeles in the locality extending from First street to Sunset Boulevard and from Los Angeles street on the east to Hill street on the west, and that the Municipal Art Commission approves the scheme of the City Planning Commission to bring about the construction of such a civic center in that territory and that a copy of this motion be forwarded to the City Planning Commission.

Maintenance is Asked in Suit by Mrs. A. J. Edgar

Mrs. Genevieve Edgar, who separated last October from Allen J. Edgar after twenty-one years of married life, brought suit yesterday in Superior Court for separate maintenance. Edgar is one of the owners of the Edgar-Larsen Lumber Company and is said by his wife to be wealthy. They have two children, one a minor.

Edgar called his wife names, stayed out late at night and refused to explain where he had been, told her his affairs were none of her business and once beat her so severely she had to call in the neighbors to aid her, Mrs. Edgar declared in her complaint. The papers were drawn and filed by Fred W. Heath.

COUNTY LEADS IN NEW HOMES

Long Beach and Los Angeles Outstrip Country

Other California Cities in Front Rank

Conclusions Based on Units of 10,000 Persons

Los Angeles and Long Beach outstripped all other cities of the United States in the number of homes provided for each 10,000 of population during 1922, according to heretofore unpublished figures compiled by the United States Department of Labor. Other cities in Southern California, including Pasadena and San Diego, also showed high ratios of homes provided for each 10,000 of population.

During 1922 in Los Angeles there were 25,033 new families accommodated in new buildings, making the ratio for each 10,000 of population 486.1 families. Long Beach, although of much smaller population, according to the figures, provided 7061 new families with homes or a ratio of 1270.1 families per 10,000. Pasadena with 1225 new families accommodated, showed a ratio of 270 while San Diego showed a ratio of 254.

LEAD REST OF COUNTRY

Albert Stewart, Commissioner of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor, after an exhaustive study of the figures made the statement that cities of Southern California are far ahead of the rest of the United States in meeting the demands for new homes.

The returns of the department, just announced by Mr. Stewart, are complete for 272 cities with a combined population of 47,255,637. Housing was provided for 282,272 families with a ratio of 102.6 families per 10,000 population, the statistics show.

And though the figures for 272 cities of the United States apparently reveal a trend toward providing for the normal annual increase in families, it must be taken into consideration that the 1922 figures do not leave much to take up the deficiency of former years in housing facilities, according to the government report.

DISTRIBUTION UNEVEN

An unevenness in the distribution makes it unsafe to say that a dependable ratio has yet been established, the report stated. To back up this belief the government experts mention the wide variations in the new housing ratios for 10,000 population in the following cities: Butte, 4.6; Hoboken, N. J., 4; Joplin, 4.7; Newport, Ky., 3.1; East Cleveland, O., 313.2; Lakewood, O., 417.7; Long Beach, 1270.1, and Los Angeles, 486.1.

In 1922 New York City jumped from a ratio of 22.3 in 1920 to 162.2 in 1922 and Chicago increased her ration from 1.1 in 1920 to 89.7 in 1923.

Summing up the housing situation, the government report states that an unmistakable tendency is toward reviewing the shortage and toward a normal building ratio.

Slight Showers Reported Over the Southland

Southern California was visited by widely separated showers yesterday. What was probably the heaviest rainfall was reported at San Diego, where nearly one-tenth of an inch fell last night.

HUMANS SLIDING BACKWARD

New Thought Leader Says We Are Slipping and Taking the Animals With Us in Cave Man Instincts

It's looking pretty dark for all mankind. Sisters and brethren, hang your heads in shame. For, not only did man once have the consciousness of the animal, but since throwing off the animal instinct several years hence, he has been retrograding.

And not only has he been retrograding, developing evil and therefore disease, but the poor animals who are brought face to face with civilization are deterorating and developing disease among themselves because of their association with mankind.

But before delving into this delicious subject, you will probably want to know what it is all about. Well, it's "new thought." And the refreshing facts cited herein are among those discussed last night by Dr. Frederick Finch Strong, eminent metaphysicist of Hollywood, at the second national conference of the National New Thought Association, Inc., of Burlington Apartments.

When man first began to throw off the animal instinct and began to reason, in the opinion of Dr. Strong, the well-known cave man was a degenerate of a higher civilization. Man began to use reasoning instead of animal instinct, because of his desire for the repetition of worldly pleasures, Dr. Stone said. And when man with the consciousness of an animal learned that he could derive pleasant sensations by certain means, he began to reason and devise ways of repeating such sensations as often as possible. Those sensations included tickling the palate by eating and others of a more animal nature.

And so that was the beginning of brain work, and thus man gained his mind through loss of animal instinct. But, take it from Dr. Strong, man with the consciousness of the animal was much better in many ways than man with his mind. And man is now going through a transition stage. He is studying himself more and more. But, it would appear, according to Dr. Strong, that the more he learns about himself the worse he gets.

In other words, as was said before, it looks pretty dark for us. Still, Dr. Strong gives a ray of hope. We are sliding back, but it is all for some mysterious purpose. We will "hit bottom" and then began to improve. "The pearl diver must first reach the bottom before he gets the pearl," in the words of the metaphysicist.

But hold, friends, while we are retrograding, we are carrying the poor animals with us. The beasts of the forest which have never come into contact with our cherished civilization are better physically and "morally" than domesticated animals. As Dr. Strong explained it, we, poor we, radiate some mysterious bad influence or other which is responsible for the diseases of the to-be-pitied animals.

And now recalling Dr. Strong's belief that the cave man was a degenerate of a former higher civilization, we are wont to ponder whether we members of poor mankind can be returning to the mentality and manner of living of the degenerate of that lost higher civilization. It's all mightly mysterious.

TWO ACCUSED AS LOTHARIOS

Indictments Are Returned by County Grand Jury

Double Marriages Charged Against Both

Officers Leave to Get Them in New York

Two men now in the New York City Jail, who are said to have earned the title of Lotharios, will be brought back here for trial, it was decided yesterday after the county grand jury returned three indictments in Judge Avery's court. Richard G. Francois, who is said to have made ardent suit to various women in Los Angeles, Chicago and New York, was indicted on two counts, one for bigamy and one for grand larceny. He is accused of marrying Mrs. Blanche Uniack of 723 South Alvarado street, here July 1, 1922, while still the legal spouse of Mrs. Lillian B. Francois.

He is also accused of grand larceny, ten days after the marriage, of jewels valued at $2500, which belonged to wife No. 2. Judge Avery fixed bail at $10,000.

The other indictment was against Antelo Quaglia, who is said to have posed here as an Italian count, about the time of his asserted marriage to Leah Gaynor, May 27 last. He is accused of being the husband of Mrs. Zoi mira Bruce-Quaglia at the time of his marriage.

Mrs. Bruce-Quaglia, who says she married the defendant in New Orleans, is in Los Angeles awaiting the return of "Count" Quaglia. The asserted second honeymoon of Quaglia was halted in New York, just as he was about to board the liner Olympic for France and a trip through Europe. The count fixed bail at $5000.

FORWARD PLANS FOR EDUCATIONAL CENTER

ADVISORY COMMITTEE WILL MEET FRIDAY TO HEAR TALK

The third meeting of the advisory committee of the University of Southern California $10,000,000 endowment campaign, will be held Friday night of this week. The men will again be the guests of George I. Cochran, president of the Pacific Mutual Company.

At the last meeting, plans for the campaign were discussed, and many more prominent names added to the advisory body. At the meeting this week new members will hear President Wm. Kleinsmid tell of the need of Los Angeles for a great metropolitan university, and why the University of Southern California is the logical institution from which to build the future educational center of Los Angeles.

SUBSTATION PLAN APPROVED

Council Authorizes Funds for Maintaining Police at Principal Fire Houses of City

Police Chief Oaks's plan for establishing at each of the twenty principal fire stations of the city police substations was approved yesterday afternoon by the Budget Committee of the City Council, which placed in the budget of the city's expenditures for the fiscal year beginning July 1 an appropriation of $20,000 for these stations.

Each of the substations will be equipped with direct telephone lines to the central police station, policemen will be on duty at all hours at the substations and will be equipped with automobiles. As a result of the establishment of these stations, Chief Oaks believes that the department can be made much more efficient than at present and that valuable time now lost will be saved in making emergency calls from various parts of the city.

BRANCH CITY HALL

The Sawtelle district is to have its long-desired branch City Hall, the Budget Committee yesterday afternoon agreeing to instruct City Construction Superintendent Brittain to proceed with his plans for the building, which will be a two-story brick structure and will stand on city-owned property in the center of the district. The branch City Hall will house a branch public library, Deputy City Clerk, district police court, fire and police stations and other municipal offices.

DEPARTMENT TO AID

The library department is expected to contribute from its bond funds $20,000, the fire department $40,000 from its bond money and the remainder will be appropriated in the general city budget. The city government will erect the building, the work being under the direction of Superintendent Brittain.

Plan Bettering of Washington Boulevard Here

More than 400 reservations have been made for the organization meeting of the Greater Washington-Boulevard Association next Friday night at the Plantation.

Mayor Cryer and Judge Biddick are to be the principal speakers. Harry H. Culver will be toastmaster, and short talks will be made by Clarence Urban and C. M. Knox.

The association intends to promote the widening, paving, lighting and beautification of Washington Boulevard through Los Angeles from the ocean to a connection with Stephenson avenue and Whittier Boulevard.

Contributions of $4000 already have been made toward a fund of $20,000 for the purpose of maintaining an engineering staff under the direction of A. B. Boyd, former county construction engineer, and to pay for a newspaper advertising campaign.

"Transportation is leaving steel rails and taking to modern paved highways," said Mr. Boyd. "Our aim is to make Washington Boulevard the first complete highway system in Los Angeles county."

SAY PUPILS WERE DRUNK AT CLASSES

Complaint of Teachers About Conditions at Harbor is Cause of Arrest

Complaints to police by teachers at the Los Angeles Harbor High School and parents that high school pupils have attended classes in an intoxicated condition resulted in a raid by police on a grocery store near the school grounds yesterday and confiscating of a large quantity of intoxicating liquor, according to police.

John Maccoone, said by police to be the owner of the grocery store which the pupils are asserted to have patronized, was arrested during the raid and charged with violation of the Wright Act in connection with the asserted discovery of seventy-eight bottles of wine and seventy-five bottles of "jackass brandy" in the store. He pleaded not guilty before Police Judge Sheldon, demanded a jury trial and was released on bail of $2000.

According to police, the asserted drinking of the high school pupils and appearance in classes in a befuddled condition has been reported by the faculty of the school and parents on several occasions.

Police Officers Wykoff and Hacha, who conducted the raid, said Maccoone denied selling to pupils and declared he did not know how the liquor happened to be in his store.

Sheik Pays Fine for Accosting Phone Operator

War on mashers who wait about the various telephone exchanges and accost operators leaving their work has been declared by the Southern California Telephone Company, H. A. Hensley, head of the company's detective department, said yesterday.

Hensley arrested Newton Charles, 31 years of age, of 1411 Ridgway avenue, at the door of the exchange at Santa Monica Boulevard and Gower street. He declares Charles drove up in an automobile to the exchange door and invited Miss Catherine Carlson, an operator, to take a ride with him.

LAUGH ON BURGLAR ENJOYED BY ACTOR

"PROP" WATCH AND PASTE STAGE DIAMONDS, LOOT FROM HOME

It is getting so that an ordinary burglar can't make a living nowadays!

For when Elliott arrived home from the Metro studio, where he is being featured in the role of the cowboy minister in "The Eagle's Feather," he found his apartment door wide open, his clothes thrown all over the floor, yet the missing articles consisted of only a "prop" watch, made of the best brass, and two imitation diamond sparklers for stage wear.

TO WELCOME TEACHERS

Local Schools and Others Will Meet Hawaiian Pedagogues

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has been asked by the city school teachers to co-operate in the entertainment of the more than 300 pedagogues from Hawaii, who will arrive at Los Angeles Harbor, Saturday morning about 8 o'clock, aboard the liner Calawaii. Puppies and souvenirs will be supplied by the local chamber and a special committee headed by Clarence H. Matson of the harbor department, will join a large welcoming delegation of local teachers at the dock.

In machines supplied by the Los Angeles teachers, and personally driven, the visitors will be shown the sights of the city and environs, tendered a luncheon and entertained by the "Covered Wagon" in the afternoon after a tour of the studios and other sections of Hollywood.

According to information received by the Chamber of Commerce, most of the visitors will spend their vacation in Southern California, but all will attend the convention of the National Education Association at Oakland in July.

AGED RESIDENT DEAD

Mrs. Mary C. Schaefle to be Buried Today in Forest Lawn

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary C. Schaefle, Los Angeles resident, who died Monday at her home, 815 West Thirty-fourth street, will be conducted at 2 p.m. tomorrow from the Little Church of the Flowers at Forest Lawn Cemetery. Interment will be in the same cemetery. Dr. Horn of the Central-avenue Church will officiate.

Mrs. Schaefle, sister of Rev. J. M. Schaefle, pastor of the Congregational Church in Pico Heights, was 70 years of age. She died after an extended illness and leaves four children. They are Mrs. J. M. Heaton and Mrs. W. Schuyler of Las Vegas, Nev., Mrs. R. Hitte of Lancaster and William J. Schaefle of Glendale. She had resided in Los Angeles for the last twenty-two years and was well known in Southern California.

Awards Made in Local Beauty Contest

Miss Eugenia Gilbert

[P. & A. Photo]

MISS EUGENIA GILBERT of 1231 McCullen street has been adjudged the prettiest of 5000 girls known for their beauty in Los Angeles and surrounding towns. Miss Gilbert is the winner of the beauty contest conducted by the Owl Drug Company and was given $350 in cash, a $250 gown and a costly hat from Bedell's. The prize-winning beauties assembled at the Cinderella Roof, Monday night, to receive their awards.

Other prize-winners were Nell Brantley of 1110 Ingraham street, Edna Meyer of 7129 Sunset Boulevard, Beverly Martin of 721 West Fifty-seventh street, and Margaret Henke of 1668 South Western avenue.

Fifty out of the 5000 were each given $50 beauty boxes by the company.

Dentistry Body Closes Confab With Election

Marking the last day's session of the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Southern California Dental Association, election of officers will be conducted this morning at the College of Dentistry, University of Southern California. The regular business meeting of the association is at 10:30 o'clock, following the reading of a paper on "The Reality of Focal Infection" by Dr. Richard H. Riethmueller.

Last evening visiting delegates and their wives were guests at informal dancing and reception at the Wilshire Country Club. The chief speaker was Prof. B. R. Baumgardt. Others on the program were Dr. Gur R. Milberry, dean of the dental department of the University of California, and Dr. John V. Conzett of Dubuque, Iowa, a special guest of the convention.

The three-day convention will come to a close this afternoon following several group clinical demonstrations.

Indict Second Man in Death of Weingarten

Lawrence McMullen, asserted associate of Clarence (Tuffy) Reid was indicted yesterday on a murder charge by the grand jury. McMullen is under arrest in Arizona and was indicted so he might be extradited.

He is charged with the murder of Charles Weingarten in a trunk store on Spring street January 21. Weingarten was slain by hold-up men. Reid was convicted a few weeks ago and sentenced to hang.

BLAST SOUNDED LIKE WRIGHT ACT FRACTURE

SO OFFICERS INVESTIGATE IN HOME, SEIZE LIQUID AND ARREST WOMAN

The suspicious sound of a sharp explosion in a house at 422 Alis street last night led to the confiscation of 1665 quarts of liquid officers said was beer, thirty-ten-gallon crocks and a quantity of wine. Mrs. M. Sierra, tenant was arrested on a charge of violating the Wright Act.

Mrs. Sierra is the woman who shot and killed one of a hold-up pair who attempted to rob her while she was living on Avenue Thirty-four about eighteen month ago.

The discovery was made by Officers Nolan and Barry of the police purity squad. They were walking past the house on their way to investigate another "tip." The explosion sounded to their experienced ears as if it might have some connection with violation of the Wright Act.

The officers said the proprietress told them she was making soft drinks and that the bottle carried soft-drink labels.

Continue Quiz Into Death of Burbank Man

The county grand jury continued until tomorrow its investigation into the killing of Nickola Pietrantovia at his home near Burbank by Deputy Constable Adams during a raid on the place on the 1st inst. Adams reported that he shot in self defense when Pietrantovia took a pistol from a desk drawer and threatened him.

Mrs. Pietrantovia testified yesterday before the grand jury, declaring that the shooting was unjustified and that she and Rev. A. Bucci, a priest who was present were handcuffed by the officers.

The shooting was investigated by Deputy Sheriff Stensland of Sheriff Traeger's office and his report exonerated Adams.

Auto Men Will Have Additional Board Director

California next year will have two representatives on the board of directors of the National Automobile Dealers' Association. A decision to that effect was reached yesterday morning at the semi-annual meeting of the board at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, when it was announced that the new director would be elected at the Chicago convention of the association next January.

There is now but one director from California and his purview includes, he southern part of Nevada. He is Burt Roberts, manager of the local dealers' association. Mr. Roberts will continue to represent Southern California and Nevada, while the director to be elected next year will represent the northern part of the State.

The sessions of the convention ended yesterday afternoon, and today the directors will leave for San Francisco, where they will convene tomorrow. Meetings are also scheduled in Olympia and Portland.

Jean Acker to Answer Suit for Bill Collection

Jean Acker, former wife of Rodolph Valentino, was cited yesterday to appear next Friday in Superior Court and explain why she should not pay a judgment of $492.33 obtained against her in July, 1920.

The judgment is held by Fred Booth on assignment from New York City, where Miss Acker is asserted to have purchased goods on credit.

H. W. Mahon, attorney for Booth, got the order directing Miss Acker's appearance. She is now playing on the Orpheum circuit.

CAMELS FOR SAN DIEGO

Three of De Mille's Animals to Be Given Children

Three camels used recently in the desert location scenes for "The Ten Commandments," Cecil B. De Mille's forthcoming picture, are to be presented to the children of San Diego, and will be placed in the San Diego zoo, according to announcement made yesterday by Mr. De Mille.

The producer is contributing only one of the animals, the other two being the gift of the Al Bahr Temple of the Mystic Shrine, San Diego. Officials of the temple purchased the animals while on a visit to the De Mille location camp near Guadalupe. Mr. De Mille then offered to present the third one himself.

NEED FOR MORE HOSPITALS TOLD

pansion of their hospitals has only been possible through spending large sums of money for more land," Dr. Hastings spoke of the training school for nurses maintained by the Good Samaritan Hospital and its value to the community.

Two ambitious projects for city medical centers now under way in Cleveland and New York were presented as a model of what Los Angeles must do if it hopes to achieve a standing in the hospital sphere as creditable as it now occupies in the field of commerce and industry. A resume of the New York plan was given by Dr. Sidney Burnap of the Good Samaritan Hospital staff.

COMPLETE HOSPITAL

"The medical center which is being developed by Columbia University in New York City represents one of the most complete and ambitious medical enterprises which has been undertaken anywhere in the world," he declared. "It aims to bring together on a single plot of ground and under central administrative control a group of institutions whose functions will cover all phases of the teaching of medicine, both undergraduate and graduate, and will provide for the care and treatment of all types of injury and disease."

"One can best visualize the vast undertaking by thinking of its various units as being arranged in two concentric circles—in the inner of which will be grouped such as are essential to the teaching of undergraduate medicine, including a medical school, a 600-bed teaching hospital, an out patient department, a training school for nurses and public health workers, administrative offices, service buildings, and stores."

SPECIALTY CASES

"In the outer circle will be arranged in close physical relation a group of hospitals devoted to the care of cases belonging to the various medical specialties, such as obstetrics, eye, ear, nose and throat; children, industrial, medicine, diseases of the nervous system, bone and joint diseases, genito-urinary diseases, cancer research, contagious disease, and so on. It requires but very little imagination to realize what a tremendous asset such a group with their complete staffs would be to the community in which it was located."

Dr. Frick described the need for a great community hospital, adequately endowed, for the purpose of properly serving the great number of persons of moderate means, who, while unable to pay the full cost of long hospital treatment, nevertheless do not wish to accept charity.

In addition to ninety members of the hospital staff, the banquet was attended by prominent business men, municipal and county officials and representatives of local newspapers.

PROSECUTION NEARS END IN FRAUD CASE

WITNESSES GIVE ADDITIONAL DETAILS OF SALE AT CAMP KEARNEY

Testimony for the prosecution in the case against eight defendants charged with conspiring to defraud in the sale of surplus army goods at Camp Kearney, in February, 1923, before U. S. District Judge James and a jury, yesterday was largely devoted to showing the close personal relations asserted to have existed between Ben Sugarman, Ike, Joe and Dan Greenburg, and the army officers, Capt. Tingley and Major Max Elser, who were in charge of the sale.

J. C. Guerrant and J. B. Spooner gave evidence along that line. Spooner said he was swindled in a deal for a lot of engineers' instruments that he bought at the sale and has a claim for reimbursement pending.

Isadore Wartnik said he met Ike Greenburg at the San Antonio sale of army goods and that Ike had told him there was to be a sale at Camp Kearney, where there would be some good things pulled off.

R. W. McComas, a laborer in charge of the goods at one of the warehouses, said that Ben Sugarman had given him $5 after Sugarman had gone into the warehouse to look over some of the goods after hours.

Hal Miller, a traveling salesman, said that when the army cots were knocked off at $10,100, some one in the crowd wanted to know whether the auctioneer was working for the government or himself.

W. M. Mead said that when the cots were sold for $10,100, a bidder shouted that he would give $11,000, and a man on a ladder said he would pay $15,000 for them. The crowd grew boisterous and cries of "rotten!" "rotten!" were heard on every side, the witness declared.

N. L. Miner saw the cots sold and declared there was no opportunity offered for anybody to raise the figures. It is believed that the government will conclude its case today. There are about twenty-five witnesses to be heard in behalf of the defense.

Cast Chosen for Film Version of Wilson's Novel

Edward Horton, former Los Angeles stage favorite and screen leading man, had been chosen to play the title role in "Ruggles of Red Gap," the new James Cruze production for Paramount, which was begun yesterday at the Lasky studio.

Other players in the cast of the Harry Leon Wilson story are Ernest Terrance, Lois Wilson, Fritzi Ridgeway, Charles Ogle and Louise Dresser. Smaller roles fall to William Austin, Anna Lehr, Frank Elliot, Thomas Holding, Kalla Pasha, Sidney Bracy, Milt Brown and Marjorie Bauer.

Mr. Horton was chosen to play the part of Ruggles by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production at the Paramount West Coast studios. The production follows Mr. Cruze's "Hollywood," made after completing "The Covered Wagon." Anthony Coldeway adapted the story for the screen.

EDUCATED SAXOPHONE

Miss Bobbie Toft, charmer of Orpheum and Pantages patrons until recently, unleashed her baritone voice in "Dearest," and "Roses of Picardy." This fair girl with eyes of blue has won the heart of a cockatoo. Meaning me.

Carlyle Stevenson was featured by the orchestra. He prevailed upon his saxophone to make a noise like a South Sea Island ukelele. Picture an educated cockatoo listening to an educated saxophone! Camera!

I have heard birds of beauteous plumage sing. I have heard the singing of clear woodland brooks. Their singing was incessant until melody was lost in monotony. But when Georgia Stark sings and the last warm note echoes away one still listens, hoping to hear the witchery of her voice return. She stands at the portals of a fine career. Her songs were "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," by Hayden, "Song of the Mesa," by Homer Grunn, and "The Sakura Blossom," by Gertrude Ross. Carrie Preston Rittmeister gave piano accompaniment.

CHILDREN'S PROGRAM

George Devren, a youth in whom the artist is apparent, cradled his violin and played "Serenade Espanole," by Chaminade-Kreisler. There is depth to his playing. It lurked even in the love-rhythm of the Spanish serenade.

More difficut and intense was "Zigeunerweisen," by Sarasate. Deane Mauk was at the Knabe.

The deeper I go into this review the more serious I become, it seems. Like all old folk, I suppose, the thoughts of youth make me reminiscent, and here we are on the verge of the children's program.

Claudine Jarvis, pianist, 19 years of age, artist pupil of Prof. Harry A. Slee, played "Overture to Martha," by Flotow, and "Italian Vespers," by Frederick Knight Logan. A young pianist of merit who takes her music seriously.

Charlotte Alberta Bull, 7 years of age, a protege of Ellen Beach Yaw, showed, despite her childish voice, the influence of her noted patron. She sang sweetly and clearly "Swing, Swing Robin," by Neidlinger, and "Miss Marian," by Martlett.

A genial sort of fellow, H. G. Noble, produced a harmonica from his pocket, placed it to his lips, fanned the slots with his palm, and played old-time melodies. Old-time favorites! Imagine; and I'm 75 years past zero.

EASY MONEY

It turns out, after all, that the German Reichsbank has thus far only issued some 9,000,000,000,000 of marks. But that would be quite a pile. If it were in real gold it would make a pyramid higher than the Woolworth Building.

TOOTHSOME

We have with us the members of the Southern California Dental Association. These are the men who have a pull and yet gain wealth through their ability to look down in the mouth. They never get their molars and morals mixed.

THE BIG STUFF

The German government is reported as being about to print notes of the face value of 1,000,000 marks each. This sounds prodigious, but the money is really being printed in order that a man may buy a mess of frankfurters without being embarrassed by his load of change.

AT WHOLESALE

One of the great oil corporations now has forty wells under way and all of them at this moment below the 4000-foot level. They are all within easy range of Los Angeles. No company ever before had concentrated activities of such scope. If the big fellows are boring the State of California so full of holes they cannot justly complain of the efforts of the small fry and the independents in that direction. When the oil fields are exhausted and pumped dry it will be time enough to wake up. By that day the drillers will be in pastures new.

JUST AND HONORABLE

There is sincere mourning in many a heart over the passing of Judge James C. Rives. He was the dean of the Superior bench and all his judicial career was centered upon the work of the probate department—the court of intimacies, of confidences and of family adjustments. His methods simplified the processes of law to the widow and orphan and his activity lent a dignified speed to the work before him. His heart and brain seemed singularly attuned to the duties assigned and a united people repeatedly gave him their unquestioned and whole-hearted confidence and approval. He leaves a stainless name and the memory of a life of immense and competent service in the cause of justice and righteousness.

TWO PICTURES

A woman comments with some bitterness on the fact that New York has a number of beautiful marble structures in which the bones of mastodons and the stuffed carcasses of hyenas may be luxuriantly lodged, but there is little chance of a crippled child being fitly housed or comforted. This is not wholly true. There are really only two museums in Gotham in which defunct dinosaurs may be fitly enshrined, but there are hundreds of organizations and many hospitals for those in poverty and suffering. It is doubtless true that there are homeless wanderers and many to whom anguish and want are companions, but that is no warrant for throwing rocks at the museum. That also has its definite value in advancing humanity.

THE MONEY SAVERS

Instead of the fresh deficit of some $90,000,000 which our government faced at the close of the last fiscal year there is now substantial indication of a cash surplus of approximately $200,000,000. The President and his Secretary of the Treasury are, indeed, reporting progress. There has been a curtailment of some $250,000,000 from anticipated expenditures and the receipts have taken such form and volume that further reductions in the tax schedules may be confidently expected. The government is a great going concern, but is far from being gone. Since the establishment of the budget the finances of the nation have been completely overhauled. Instead of being on the open sea without a rudder or compass we are now running a charted course with all the equipment of the trained navigator at command.

UNDERGROUND METHODS

Subways cost money. The city of Philadelphia is planning a system that will cost $100,000,000 to complete. It is expected to meet the cost with a municipal bond issue, but as the situation stands the project would exceed the bonding capacity of the city and the railroads would have to join in the venture. This might make it embarrassing for the politicians. The railways might wish to know something about the contracts or have something to do with the construction. The original idea was to have subways owned by the city and to then lease them to the traction companies for enough to pay off the bonds, but this may not work out to the satisfaction of the politicians. They may not be able to issue the full amount of the bonds. As a rule the roads would rather rent than build a subway, but if they are partners in the enterprise they wish to have something to do with the management and construction. A hole in the ground may hide a lot of money.

HARDING MAKES GOOD

Begins to look as though efficiency and economy are finally making a place for themselves in American politics. The day of the lavish spenders is passing. Who would have dreamed four years ago, when the Democratic administration was spending more after the close of the war than while it was actually in progress, that a new administration would turn in a balance sheet showing a credit of $200,000,000?

President Harding has made good his pledges of economic administration of the affairs of government. He secured for his Cabinet men of ability and experience; and they have co-operated with him in a way that wakes the admiration of the American people.

If the Republican leaders were looking for something to which to point with pride in making an appeal to the country they would find an appeal that every American can understand in that saving of $200,000,000. No other administration in recent years has been able to save half so much.

Perhaps the President had an intimation of what was coming when he declined to call an extra session of Congress. The people of the country have a feeling that, if Congress were now in session, a way would be quickly found to dispose of that surplus, which the politicians would regard as a political plum.

With the Congressmen away from Washington and Secretary Mellon on guard one has good grounds to hope that a way will be found to apply that surplus to reduce either the national debt or the Federal taxes before the pork-barrel politicians get active again.

Had the country not been prosperous the revenues would not have been sufficient to permit such a saving. But, under former administrations, when there was no co-ordination of department expense, the encroachments of the different departments would have consumed the extra tax money as fast as it poured into the Treasury. By the energetic application of the budget provisions the departments were not permitted to exceed their appropriations.

If President Harding were the head of a private corporation he would be reasonably sure of a life job on the financial showing of the present fiscal year.

And there are unmistakable indications that the country is not deaf and blind to the good work that has been accomplished at Washington. The attempts to create dissension in the administration ranks have received no support from the country. The recent Senatorial primaries in Minnesota were regarded by the politicians as a test of the President's popularity. Gov. Preus, carrying the Harding colors, was nominated by a comfortable plurality.

If there were marked dissension in the Republican ranks it would have made its appearance in Minnesota, where the farmer-labor movement is well organized.

Porto Rico held its Republican convention on Monday and selected its representatives to the Republican convention next year. They are two in number and are instructed to vote for Harding. This is only a straw; but it shows which way the political wind is blowing.

The result of the primaries proved that the opposition to the President is purely propaganda, that it is fostered by men with political ambitions and that the people are well satisfied with the conduct of national affairs.

Well have they cause to be. The prosperity and tranquillity of the United States, in the midst of a turbulent and miserable world, are without precedent. No administration in recent years has had so little contention with other powers. Nowhere in the world is there a people arrayed against the United States. The international skies above us are serenely blue. From no horizon does war threaten. And it would be well for the world if the administration of the governments of the other great powers were equally successful.

It had become traditional that trouble between two countries would mean trouble or depression in all the rest. America has disproved this tradition under the present administration; and it has been accomplished because there are men with brains, experience and character at the head of the government.

Four years ago war threatened from the Orient; there was continual dissension along the Mexican border, and national expenses were running wild. Now all is as serene as a day in June in sunny Southern California.

That we are enjoying tranquillity in the midst of tumults is due to the good sense of the American people and the wise administration of affairs of State. It is not chance alone that brings us peace and prosperity; it is the logical result of a wise administration of national affairs.

While this condition offers neither aid nor comfort to the ambitious politicians in the Republican party who would like to discredit the present administration, who would drive the President into retirement in order to make a place for themselves; it is fully appreciated by a grateful people. And one can safely trust to the good sense of the American electorate not to interfere when things are coming their way.

A STRONG TEAM

The western third of the United States, composed of eleven States—California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana—is divided by the government into two groups; the first three being known as the Pacific States and the remaining eight as the Mountain States.

As compared with the Atlantic Coast and Mississippi Valley States the region is thinly settled; California, the most densely settled of the eleven, having but twenty-two persons to the square mile, as compared with 218 for New York and 116 for Illinois. However, the West is growing rapidly and has for the past two decades led the country in percentage of growth. California acquired in the period of 1850-1920 a population several hundred thousand greater than Illinois gained in the period of 1810-1850.

Northern California and the western portions of Oregon and Washington are well watered; Southern California, Eastern Oregon and Washington and the entire areas of the eight inland States depend largely on irrigation for the growing of crops. Strange though it may seem, it is the dryer portions of this section—Southern California and the irrigated portion of the other States—that are now leading in crop production.

With a full use of their water supply the Western States can grow a food supply for millions of people. There is not one of these States that has not great natural resources of some kind. Washington, Oregon and Northern California are rich in timber. The inland States produce the metals and coal. Southern California and the Rocky Mountain States produce large quantities of petroleum. All of them contain or are near sites capable of producing large quantities of hydroelectric power. The Sierra Nevada, Cascade and Rocky Mountains afford the finest scenery to be found within the United States proper.

In the past fifty years four great cities have sprung up on the Pacific Coast and one in the Rocky Mountain States. It seems probable that the eleven Western States will have, within the next 100 years, a population equal to that found today between the Allegheny and the Rocky Mountain systems, and a great trade built up which, since the building of the Panama Canal, will seek an outlet through Pacific Coast ports instead of crossing the continent by rail, as it formerly did.

If Los Angeles keeps up its policy of cultivating a close acquaintance with each one of the Western States and Mexico; of building harbor improvements as needed; of increased industrial expansion; of following up the development of the interior States by branch railroad lines it stands a good chance of leading in tonnage passing through Port Los Angeles, even after the peak production of petroleum and lumber is over.

INCOME TAX RETURNS

There is no better index of the industrial activity in various parts of the country than the returns made by the income tax collectors. The national survey for 1922 is now complete and the figures again demonstrate that Southern California is still the whitest spot on the American business map.

An even better guide than the actual money collected is the number of residents who filed returns. Where the wealth is more generally distributed there the greater amount of business is being transacted. In this respect the Los Angeles district leads the country.

Indeed, while the national totals of the personal returns filed have fallen from 7,259,944 in 1920 to 6,662,176 in 1922 the figures for the Los Angeles district have risen from 167,938 to 214,147. This result implies more highly paid labor and more capital employed in construction work—in proportion to population—in the district served by Collector Goodcell than in any other Federal district, not excluding New York.

Even in the per capita income tax California runs New York a close race for first place, the averages being $345.35 and $340.84 respectively. This, too, in spite of the fact that Northern California fell back in its returns, thus placing on the southern counties the honor of upholding the financial standard of the State. Had the north kept pace with the south California would have headed the whole United States.

Southern California has, therefore, every reason to congratulate itself on the income tax returns and the fresh evidence of prosperity contained in the figures.

One other feature, suggested by the returns, is worth mentioning. Big investors in this district are not tying up their capital in nonproductive tax-exempt bonds to the same extent as in other sections. Capital that is simply lying dormant and drawing interest doesn't butter any parsnips. In Southern California capital finds it more productive and more patriotic to go into constructive work that in a wide-awake, go-ahead community brings better returns, even after paying income tax, than into bonds that simply feed the owner from clipped coupons cashed at the teller's window.

THE SHELL GAME

The Walnut Growers' Association handled over 80 per cent of the crop of the State last year and marketed over $11,000,000 worth of walnuts and their by-products. Now we know what shell the little pea is under.

The Last Few Days Are the Hardest

THE WEAKER WAY

A tragic page from statistical history is the one that records the depressing fact that 13,530 persons in the United States last year were known to have committed suicide, and of these 900 were children. Self-destruction is steadily on the increase in our country and, strange to say, San Francisco leads with a ratio of 72.6 per 100,000 inhabitants.

The most peculiar phase of the whole matter is the extreme futility of the majority of reasons given for suicide. One might more easily understand the person suffering tortures from an incurable disease or suddenly overwhelmed with a grief that seemed too great to bear. But most suicides do not come from this class. There is the absurd case of a designer committing suicide trying to guess the fashions for the coming season, one girl because her parents would not let her bob her hair, another because she did not look fetching when the shearing was completed. In a few months nature would have repaired the damage, but she preferred to seek refuge in death.

Commenting upon the causes of the increase of suicide, a prominent local alienist states that the prime reason for self-destruction is a lack of ability to harmonize oneself with one's environment. The victim is unable to adapt himself to an unhappy situation, even though it is temporary. He lacks the courage to overcome obstacles and to face them hopefully. It simmers down to a matter of lack of moral fiber. It is the weak way of solving a problem which would seem petty in retrospect, if he had the courage to face it cheerfully.

The solution of this situation, suggested by the expert, is teaching poise and self-control in childhood, developing spiritual resources in time of trouble and evolving a philosophy of life that enables the subject to bear misfortune and poverty with equanimity, firm in the determination that circumstances cannot break his will and spirit. And, best of all, is a faith in religion and a belief that mere material things are not the chiefest of man's possessions.

MATING AND PARTING

Up to the middle of the month nearly 300 divorce cases had been docketed in Los Angeles courts for June. We will surely need all our June brides to keep up the other end of the game. At this rate we are only running about neck and neck. At best, there are less than three weddings for a divorce.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE BRUISERS

There is now a great revival of the well-known fighting game; every bruiser seeks his rival and encamps upon his frame; there's a carnival of scrapping, slugging, punching, kicking, slapping and we moralists are yapping that the whole thing is a shame. For the bruisers who are bruising might pursue a better trade; we would like to see them choosing honest effort with a spade; they might well be fixing divvers or, as butchers, slicing livers or be logging by the rivers where our beams and joists are made. Though the pugilist be clever, though his skill be understood, all his toil is waste endeavor, doing no one any good; in the ring we see him pawing; but our praise he would be drawing if he spent the long hours sawing fifty-seven kinds of wood. Why put in the golden morning knocking human maps askew? There are cows that need dehorning, there are useful chores to do; there are roofs that should be tended, there are labors large and splendid that are wearying for you. Every time a task is finished you a victory have won; world disorder is diminished by the useful work you've done; but the world is none the better when a fighter doffs his sweater as the champion go-getter for a stack of unearned mon.

PEN POINTS

By the Stout

Hoe to the line, ye gardeners.

The more boarding-houses there are in a town the more weddings.

Religion is to be introduced into the army. Why not put it in Congress?

With the proposed tube in Pershing Square will we get out of the hole in the congestion problem?

Just to show that he is in earnest about the world disarmament John Bull has just launched the world's largest submarine.

Gov. Richardson has signed the bill giving Los Angeles county five new Superior Court judges. Stand in line, boys, don't shove.

President Harding starts on his tour this week. He hopes and expects to look his countrymen in the face and give an account of his stewardship.

Former King Ferdinand of Bulgaria demands that he be allowed to return from exile, but the Bulgarians are so hard of hearing, being full of Bulgarian buttermilk.

Marshal Foch says that if he had his life to live over again he would choose to live in America. So most of the folks who get their mail in Europe are saying right now.

President Li of China has pulled back his resignation. He's a sort of Injun giver. Remember the Injun giver in the old boyhood days—the fellow who would hand you something and then want it back?

The summer flock of tourists to Los Angeles is on in full force and it is believed that all records will be distanced this season. And come to think of it, this town is breaking all records in about every line of human endeavor.

This is the month of the college commencement, a "breaking of home ties," for many who go out into the world to fight. It is hard for those who go and for those who remain. The world brings hard conditions and stern judgments. To leave school and go out into the world is not an easy step. It is a milestone, a turning point.

Gov. Baxter of Maine put a flag at half-mast when his favorite dog died and some folks are criticising. But the Governor is a bachelor and just had to love something. If he had been a maiden lady his weakness no doubt would have been for cats. There is no man or woman in the world who does not love something. And a bachelor and an old maid have their troubles.

THIS IS THE DAY

Fernando de Soto, Spanish nobleman, discoverer of the Mississippi River, died of fever on the banks of the river in Arkansas in the year 1542. His companions wrapped the body in his mantle, incased it in a tree trunk and set it afloat on the waters of the great river that his enterprise and adventure had revealed to the white people of the world.

CLOSE-UPS OF EUROPE

BY S. FRED HOGUE

Bulgarian Royalist Revolution Is Tragedy of Democracy.

Greece Under Military Dictator.

Austria Now White Spot of Eastern Europe.

More embittered grows the combat of the German and French governments over reparations and the occupation of the Ruhr and the Rhinelands. Every week brings its report of the tightening of the French grip on this great industrial section. But there are no signs of weakening at Berlin. On the other hand, reports from Germany's neighbors on the north and the east are to the effect that a strong party in Germany is secretly arming for military resistance.

Meanwhile, the people in the Ruhr are starving. The French have now seized all the railroads leading from the Ruhr into Germany proper. The German railway employees have refused to work under French directors and no freight is moving.

During the last four months about 400 cars of provisions have gone into the Ruhr daily from Germany. It was largely on this food that the people lived. Now that supply has stopped and the inhabitants of the Ruhr are in the deepest misery.

No one is going hungry in the government in Berlin. No one is without food in the government at Paris. But there are 1,000,000 people in the Ruhr who have neither the funds to emigrate nor the means to procure their daily bread.

The French government asserts that it has German industry by the throat and that it will not loose its grasp until there is absolute surrender at Berlin. The German government and press are exhorting the residents of the Ruhr to stand firm in their passive resistance. Women and children are starving by the hundreds, the victims of conflicting national passions.

To me this seems more deplorable than actual warfare. Those who are suffering are guiltless. The condition is one for which they are in no way responsible and which they have not the power to remedy.

Whatever the ultimate result the Ruhr occupation will remain a black page in the history of both Germany and France. The French are starving women and children in order to win a political advantage over an enemy. The French government says that the government of Berlin must come to their rescue. But these women and children are not responsible for the action of the government at Berlin. They are only unfortunate human beings who have been deprived of the right to live, as a political maneuver. This smacks more of the Dark Ages and of Tartar ferocity than of the more humane methods of the Twentieth century.

More honorable would it have been for the French, and more humane, to have marched to Berlin and seized the government. That is what Napoleon would have done. He made war against governments, but did not starve women and children by occupying the Ruhr instead the French government showed clearly that they were determined upon a policy of starving the people until their government should submit. It was their retaliation for what the Germans did to the industrial district in Northern France during the war. But revenge is a weapon whose hilt is apt to be sharper than the blade.

The government at Berlin is guilty of rank cowardice; and the people in the other parts of Germany share a part of the guilt. There are two honorable courses open to the German government and people. One, and the easier, would be to meet the demands of the French government, which would stop the starvation of the Ruhr population; the other would be to go to their assistance and either rescue them from the grip of the enemy or perish with them.

For the government and the people to stand aside and urge the Ruhr population to continue their passive resistance, to tell them it is better to perish than to live as vassals of France, without doing aught to rescue them, is pusillanimous. It is like people who are themselves well fed encouraging their neighbors to persist in a hunger strike, which is self-suicide.

Looking over Europe as a whole there seems to be more and more cruelty in government than during any other century since the fall of the Roman Empire. The nineteenth century marked the highest attainment of European civilization. The first quarter of the twentieth century has cast it back into the gloomiest depth of the Dark Ages.

* * *

One of the lesser tragedies of democracy in Europe is the overthrow of the Bulgarian government and the murder of Premier Stamboulisky. His death was the result of what has been termed a counter-revolt against Communism; but it was, in reality, a royalist movement to prevent the establishment of a republican form of government in Bulgaria.

Stamboulisky was a Bulgarian patriot. He was one of the few statesmen in Europe. He was the head of the agrarian party in Bulgaria. For three years Bulgaria has been recovering from the desolation which she suffered as the result of allying herself with Germany during the war.

Stamboulisky established friendly relations with neighboring governments. He enabled the peasants to till their lands in peace. He rebuked the royalist party and kept the country fairly safe from Communism.

But he dreamed a greater dream. He desired to establish self-government under a republican constitution, a government modeled after that of Czecho-Slovakia. The aristocratic party discovered what was taking place. A revolt started in the army. The government was overthrown by a military coup. The premier of the Parliament was run down and murdered. The report gives the impression that Stamboulisky was trying to escape.

Why should he not try to escape from armed bandits who had invaded Sofia and overthrown the government that was founded on the suffrage of the people? Stamboulisky and his forces have murdered their best friend. The Parliament has been dissolved and the dictator is in the hands of a dictatorship. Another republic has been added to the list of futile attempts to establish democratic forms of government in Eastern Europe.

* * *

Military dictatorships are passing almost weekly out of existence in Europe. In the list are included Russia, Turkey, Roumania, Bulgaria and Greece.

Since its defeat by the Turks in Asia Minor Italy has been paid to the tune of [illegible] Greece. There has been no intimation that it does not intend to keep the outside world from becoming concerned over it.

For several months Greece has been under the domination of a revolutionary government maintained by military force. At its head are Col. Plastiras and Messrs. Alexandris, Gonatas and Vangalos. It is not known what relation M. Venizelos has with the revolutionary government. He represents it as being opposed to the power behind the revolution. But he has been conveniently away from his country as foreign minister who finds it wise not to trust himself within the confines of the state he represented for something of an anomaly.

Col. Plastiras appears to be the directing head of the revolutionary government. According to the latest utterances he has no definite idea about how a people should be governed. Here are a couple of examples:

"If the people of Greece do not to follow the example of the revolution to assume power, if they accord it no confidence in the same direction, I will take the people by the throat and oblige them to do it."

A month ago he must have taken the firm resolution to save the country, with the people's will, but also against their will if they manifest an evil disposition, for it is necessary to save them, that the events of the last few years have rendered the Greek people irritable, neurasthenic.

Modern Greece is a [illegible] from the spirit of ancient Greece was the glory of the Greek republics.

* * *

At the present moment Greece looks like the white hope of political and economic salvation of Europe. Austria threw herself on the mercy and the charity of the League of Nations and the success of the League working out the economic policy that is to bring about industrial recovery.

Austria paid a certain part of her part in the World War, and she has been forgiven by her former enemies and what is left of her once powerful empire is trying to become self-supporting. Hungary is in the fire through which Austria passed, the Austrian capital is planning their new life. If the League of Nations should accomplish nothing else, what it has done for Austria is sufficient justification for its creation.

BUILDER OF RAILROADS IS HONORED

William Hood is Awarded Honor of Science Degree by Dartmouth College

William Hood, builder of the Southern Pacific Loop of the Southern Pacific line through the Siskiyous, Shasta Route cut-off and the construction through the Carrizo Gorge, where seventeen excavations through solid granite occur in a few miles and retired chief engineer of the Southern Pacific road, was given the honorary degree of doctor of science yesterday at Dartmouth College.

He left Dartmouth in 1867 to go West and this was his first return to his alma mater. He went to work for the Central Pacific on the line had only ninety miles of track. President Ernest Martin Hopkins of Dartmouth, conferring the degree, said Mr. Hood "leveled the barriers of a continent." He died two years ago after fifty-three years of service.

FRATERNITY HEAD IS GOING TO CONVENTION

Frank H. Buck, president of the Grand Lodge of Theta Delta Chi, national college fraternity, left yesterday to attend the seventy-second annual convention at Rochester, N. Y. Mr. Buck, who is completing his fourth term as national president, announced that he is a candidate for re-election. The fraternity, organized in 1847, is now established in thirty colleges and universities, including the University of California and Stanford.

Of hand-loom fabrics, chenille, flannel, flat crepe heavily embroidered, roshanara, embroidered linen, canton, chenille striped serge, and many others.

THIRD FLOOR

Summer Dresses for the Larger Woman

THESE sheer summer dresses, although samples of sizes for the larger woman, have for their declared intent and purpose the emphasis of lines both slim and long.

By devices known only to the initiated few this effect of slenderizing is accomplished.

Of Voile or of Linen, cooler than any other fabrics ever introduced, they are of plain colors and dotted and printed patterns. Normandy Voiles, distinguished by their pin dot, applied in all-over conventional patterns, are fashioned in a manner as artful as it is successful.

In this group one will actually find those larger sizes for which women so often search fruitlessly.

The orchids, whites, maises, blues and pinks are amazingly beautiful, and the combinations of black and white, navy and white and brown and white prints convey a decided impression of coolness and freshness.

SOCIETY

BY CORA YOUNG

Mrs. Edward A. Featherstone with her little son, Ted Edward, is leaving next week for Catalina, and from there will go to Coronado for a month. Mr. Featherstone will join his family over the week ends, and later in the summer they will take a cruise on their yacht, "The Rainbow."

Miss Thom Entertains

Complimenting Miss Florence Reilley today, Miss Rowena Thom has asked a group of friends for luncheon at her home on South Rossmere avenue. Miss Thom with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Thom, and Miss Gwendolen Farish, have just returned from a delightful visit at Santa Barbara.

For Bride-elect

The University Club will be the setting today for the prenuptial luncheon which Miss Mary McAllister is giving for Miss Dorothy Brain, whose marriage to Dr. Harold Ensign Longley will take place next Monday. Miss Eleanor Moses has sent out invitations for a luncheon on Friday at the Wilshire Country Club in honor of Miss Brain, and Miss Marie Marlow will compliment this popular bride-elect with a dinner-dance at the Los Angeles Country Club on Saturday evening.

Bridal Party Chosen

Miss Georgia Kean, whose marriage to Mr. Paul L. Corrigan will be celebrated Saturday morning, has chosen her bridal party. Miss Adelaide Duque will be her maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Anne Thompson and Miss Caroline O'Brien. Mr. Guy Earl will be the best man and the ushers are to be Messrs. Cosmo Morgan, Jarvis Earl and Edwin Earl. The service will be read by Bishop Cantwell in the cathedral chapel, following which a breakfast for 100 guests will be served at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. West Hughes, with whom she has been making her home. Mr. Corrigan is the son of Mrs. Ellen Corrigan of Los Angeles. His father was the late M. J. Corrigan of Cleveland, cousin of Archbishop Corrigan, and of James Corrigan of Cleveland. The young people will leave immediately after the wedding for Europe, where they will spend the summer, and upon their return they will build a home in Los Angeles.

For Miss Daly

Mrs. Joseph D. Radford entertained a small group of friends at her home on West Adams street Monday, in honor of Mrs. Marcus Daly of New York City, who is leaving soon for her summer home in Montana. Mrs. Daly is visiting her sisters, Mrs. J. Ross Clark, Mrs. Joseph A. Lewis and Miss Martha Evans.

En Route to Europe

Mrs. C. F. Kaufman and her daughter, Marguerite, of South New Hampshire street, are on their way to Europe. They will be away three months. They were the inspiration of several charming social courtesies prior to their departure.

Marriage Announcement

Mrs. L. A. Walker of Hollywood announces the marriage of her daughter, Clara Louise, to Mr. Harry Lukens. The wedding took place on Monday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Rev. J. Francis performing the ceremony. After their return from their wedding trip they will reside with the bride's mother during the building of their own home.

Returned Home

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Sherer have returned after a week at the Hotel del Coronado. They went to San Diego to attend the closing exercises of the Army and Navy Academy, where their son Sherman was graduated last Saturday.

Smart Luncheons

Among the well-known people who are entertaining at luncheon in the Ambassador Orange Tree Room this week are Mrs. S. C. Rudolph of North Wilton Place, Mrs. Frank D. Sawyer and Mrs. V. McClurg.

Engagement Announced

Miss Pauline Weber, well known in educational circles in Los Angeles, a member of the Delta Phi Sorority, announced her engagement to Mr. Edward Weber Saturday at luncheon in the Chinese Room of the Mary Louise. The table decorations were suggestive of a bridal party—dainty place cards with the announcement deftly concealed, French dolls and bridal tulle forming the ornamentation. Eighteen of Miss Weber's most intimate friends, mostly her Delta Phi Sorority sisters, were invited.

For Recent Bride

THE LAST WORD.
BY ALMA WHITAKER

Dear Papa

...ing quite the same ripple of sentimental ... Mothers' Day does. Perhaps father does not need ... Perhaps his claims to gratitude and appreciation are ... established. There are no cases on record where ... held their glass aloft and called for solemn silence ... the reverence, "Ladies, my father!" Even noble sons ... think this necessary. Although they often felt the ... something stimulating.

suffragetty propaganda, some feminist intrigue to belittle father and undermine his lordly prestige. A base intrigue to label father a "poor thing," to decoy him into introspection and self-pity, to expose his weaknesses and failures, to set a premium upon "good" fathers, to draw disgusting attention to "bad" fathers, to excite the critical faculty in children, to make them weigh and measure the quality of fathers in general and their own in particular.

This is what has happened to father. Time was when there was a sort of general acceptance that some fathers were better than other fathers but there were no bad fathers. Mother enjoyed much the same attitude. As it was when preachers and welfare workers began recklessly criticising mothers that "Mothers's Day" had to be inaugurated to save her a residue of sentimental consideration.

Then the suffragett's began casting aspersions upon fathers—and behold the advent of "Father's Day" to the rescue. And fathers ought to be glad and relieved that Father's Day isn't making the same sentimental mushy hit.

You know, people that speak better English, and practice normal courtesy, and are consistantly patriotic, and keep prunes and raisins constantly in the larder, never feel the awful necessity of celebrating special days in honor of those things. That is for the folks that need introducing to those advantages.

Quite so. Hence the fact that Father's Day is something of a fizzle, but that Mother's Day caught on with dreadful alacrity, should make us pause.

It is an old chestnut but it points the moral—that one about the young college man visiting his rich uncle, who had the best old wine served for the boy's benefit—only to see it imbibed without comment. Disgruntled uncle next ordered a much inferior vintage.

"Why, you young ignoramus, the first wine was good but this stuff you are gushing about is nothing."

"No," smiled the boy, "this needs recommending, the other did not."

Diet and Health
By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

BALANCED DIET

There are some fifteen elements in the body. These are supplied by the six groups of foods: Proteins, fats, carbohydrates, mineral elements, vitamins and water. I have given you talks on all of these groups. Now we must talk a little on the proper proportions and amounts of them to take. In other words, we must talk on the balanced diet.

Food has a threefold function:

(1.) It supplies all of the elements which are necessary to make the structure of the living cells.

(2.) It must supply energy for the activities, internal and external.

(3.) It must regulate the vital processes to produce that harmony which means health.

We might add a fourth—to add to the joys of life.

"All human history attests
That happiness for man—the hungry sinner—
Since Eve ate apples, much depends on dinner."—Byron.

When our food is taken in such amounts and proportions that all of these functions are fulfilled, then we have a balanced diet. Our knowledge of what constitutes a balanced diet for man at different ages and activities has been gained by:

(1.) Many accurate experiments in the nutrition laboratories with apparatus (respiration and food calorimeters) devised to measure the energy of man at different ages and activities, and the energy of foods.

(2.) Other experiments covering certain periods of time on groups of men—soldiers, students, professors of nutrition, etc., who volunteer for the work.

(3.) Observations and histories of different peoples of good nutrition.

Now, briefly, what has been found to be a balanced diet, and how are we to know when we have one?

First, we must consider the total amount of food taken. If you maintain normal weight (normal weight will fluctuate two or three pounds from day to day, due to varying retention of water in the system,) you can be pretty sure that the amount of food you are taking is right, and that the proportions must be more or less right also. That is why I pay so much attention to normal weight in my teachings. For children, normal weight must include normal rate of gain.

Second, we must consider the proportions of the different elements contained in this total amount of food we take. These should be 10 to 15 per cent protein, 25 to 30 per cent fat, and 60 to 65 per cent carbohydrates. Taking the highest proportions of protein and fat for the children's needs, this table will do for them as well as for adults. The vitamins and mineral elements we do not express in percentages, as I have explained to you in previous papers, but if you include in your diet the right proportions of protein, fats and carbohydrates (as given above,) the vitamins and mineral salts will largely take care of themselves in such a normal diet.

Now, these figures will mean nothing to you without a knowledge of the unit by which they are measured, the calorie. So you must have that knowledge. And it is not difficult, for if you know the approximate calorie value of the chief foods, you can easily reckon the value of the others accurately enough for your purpose.

If you know the protein value of the main foods and so get the correct proportions of protein in your diet, and if you take very little free fat (and that mostly in the form of butter,) I believe that in most normal cases you can ignore the calculations of the fat and carbohydrates. This means that if you know the total number of calories you can consume and retain your normal weight, and if you observe these cautions regarding an excess of free fat, and see that the proteins in your diet are not excessive or too limited, your selection of food will automatically supply sufficient carbohydrates and fats.

Now, I want to add another "if." If you include in your diet daily at least a pint of milk in some form (for children this should be one and a half pints to one quart,) a big serving of cooked greens, a big fresh salad, some fresh fruit when obtainable (canned or dried when not,) and whole-grained foods (breads and cereals)—if, I say, you include these foods in your diet daily, you are going to be pretty sure to have not only the correct proportions of fats, carbohydrates and proteins, but also the correct proportions of vitamins and mineral elements. This, with a plentiful supply of pure water, will give you a balanced diet.

The following helpful letters have come in from Reader Friends:

Mrs. G. H. P.: "One of your readers recently requested a recipe for the following: Crumb Cookies—Two eggs, one cup of brown sugar, three-fourths of a cup of shortening, one-half cup of molasses, two cups of crumbs, one teaspoon each of ground cinnamon, cloves, allspice and soda mixed together, one-half cup of sour milk. Mix soft and drop onto a buttered cookie pan. Sprinkle additional sugar on each cookies and also add to each one a small piece of jelly (on top) before baking."

I. M. E.: "If your reader, I. M. H., will try ironing her silk petticoat with a rather hot iron, the rustle which bothers her will be less. Or she can wash it in water as warm as the hand can stand, and then use the iron when the petticoat is almost dry. I have had quite good success this way."

Nina: "I saw in my paper a reader's request for Cornbread made Without Eggs. Here is mine: Two cups cornmeal, one cup flour, one cup sour milk, one cup sweet milk, one teaspoon of soda (dissolved in sour milk,) one teaspoon of salt, and one-half tablespoon of butter (or butter and lard mixed.) Have batter quite stiff. I add the melted shortening last. Bake as any cornbread. I was interested in your article, 'How to Make a Three-Piece Dresser Set,' but would like to have you state again the size of the middle piece."

Answer: The middle piece of the dresser set should be fourteen inches square.

Mrs. F. N.: "You made a mistake in the recipe for cleaning wallpaper. The correct formula is: One large cup of flour, one-half cup of water, one tablespoon each of salt and kerosene, two tablespoons each of vinegar and ammonia, all cooked together (till flour is cooked and it is as thick as dough.")

Answer: Thank you, Reader Friend. It was good of you to take the trouble to write again.

Business Girl: "I have ten hand-carved ivory beads—quite large. What other kind of beads could I combine with them to make a pretty chain?"

Answer: I would not combine any other beads with them. I would string them on fine silk cording (black) dividing the beads evenly around the long loop of cord and holding each bead in place with knots. At the bottom have a "dangle" of short, knotted cord ends and three of the white beads.

Three in One Family Restored by Tanlac

All Gain Renewed Health, Strength and Increased Weight, Declares Mrs. Brownstein—"It's Just Grand," She States.

"Both my two daughters and myself are taking Tanlac and improving every day," said Mrs. Sadie Brownstein, a highly esteemed resident of 1930 Folsom Street, San Francisco, Calif.

"For months and months before I began taking Tanlac I had been in miserable health. I was losing weight, felt draggy and out of sorts all the time and seemed to have absolutely no strength or energy. I got so weak I couldn't do my work, and just would drag around in the house. I had no appetite at all and could go for days without eating a thing and never feel the least bit hungry. I never slept well, just lay awake for hours every night, and got up mornings feeling exhausted and miserable.

"I have taken two bottles of Tanlac now and am feeling fine. I have already gained over five pounds in weight, for my appetite is splendid and I enjoy every bite of my food. That exhausted rundown feeling is gone, for I sleep like a log every night, and I feel so well and strong it is a pleasure to do my housework. My two daughters started taking Tanlac soon after it began to help me so much, and we are all three gaining more and more every day. We just think Tanlac is grand."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

SLOGAN IS GIRL'S NEMESIS

"After Me You're First" Awakens Detective's Hunch and He Arrests an Asserted Thief

"After me you're first."

The above slogan stretched across the rear tire rack of a sporty roadster caught the eye of Detective Lieutenant McCarron. The detective with his partner, Detective Lieutenant Gibson, was bouncing along in a police car on East First street when the roadster flashed by, yesterday.

Detective McCarron has an aversion for slogans. His partner says so. Once upon a time several months ago, when McCarron purchased a second-hand automobile—but that's another story. As the roadster with the irritating slogan whizzed by, something started the little wheels spinning in the machinery of McCarron's detective brain.

"What is it?" he exclaimed.

"What's what?" cried his partner.

"I don't know, but I gotta hunch."

To the astonishment of his partner McCarron suddenly overtook the roadster and placed the driver, who it developed was Miss Eleanor Walling, 23 years of age, under arrest.

"What is it?" Gibson exclaimed.

"It's the slogan," answered McCarron.

Miss Walling was taken to Central Police Station. Detective McCarron broused through a pile of reports. He chose one with a smile, then turned to Miss Walling and said:

"You're wanted for taking $43 from a cash register in the cafe of Wagaah Meketroff at 1134 East First street, where you were employed as a waitress for two days."

"It's not true," it was said Miss Walling replied, "I only took $39."

Miss Walling was charged with embezzlement.

"Wheredyuhgetthatstuff?" asked Gibson.

"From the slogan," answered McCarron. "The report states the woman wanted was driving a car bearing the slogan: 'After me you're first.' I didn't know what she was wanted for but I remembered the slogan."

PARLOR CAR IS ADDED

Parlor car service will be inaugurated by the Southern Pacific Company on its train from Santa Barbara arriving in Los Angeles at 6:00 p.m., starting today and on the late afternoon train leaving Los Angeles at 7 p.m., arriving at Santa Barbara 10:30 p.m. starting tomorrow.

DOPE PLOT BY TEUTONS SUSPECTED

Man Arrested Here Said to Possess Quantities of German-Made Drugs

An alliance between German drug manufacturers and Chinese opium smugglers was suspected yesterday by the police of the narcotic squad after their arrest of Antonio Saldamand, who, they declared, had $1000 worth of German-made morphine and $200 worth of German-made cocaine in his possession. He was arrested at a hotel on Fourth street.

Inspector Earl of the State Board of Pharmacy, who, with Detective Lieutenants Mailheau, Littlejohn and Hamilton, made the arrest, declared the drugs were part of a shipment which reached Los Angeles through the San Francisco Chinatown.

"We have information that the Chinese in San Francisco have become the distributors on the Pacific Coast for German drugs," he said. "We learned of this shipment through underworld channels. This is only part of the drugs that were shipped through and which arrived Saturday in this city."

INCOME TAX COLLECTION RECORD SET

Second Installment at Close Brings Total Here Up to $7,290,785

The payments of the second installment of income tax which closed on June 15, and brought the collections up to $7,290,785.54, set a new record for the Los Angeles Internal Revenue District, according to a statement given out by Collector Goodcell, yesterday.

The receipts for the same period in 1922, were $6,014,024.85, registering a gain of $1,276,760.69, or 21 per cent.

The deposits of income tax receipts made in the Federal Reserve Bank from June 1 to 16, were $275,000 greater than the total deposits made during the entire month of June, 1922.

While the United States as a whole showed a decrease in the number of personal returns filed for 1922 as compared with 1920, the year in which the nation's high mark was set in the number of personal returns filed, the Los Angeles district registered 155,126 personal returns in 1920, and jumped to 214,147 in 1922, a gain of 59,021 or 38 per cent.

Charge Sale of Goods Bought on Installments

Henry Smith, negro, 23 years of age, also known as Clarence Stevenson, was arrested yesterday on a charge of felony embezzlement by Detective Lieutenants Green and Garrot.

According to the officers the charge is the outgrowth of the practice of Smith in buying pianos, phonographs and typewriters on the installement plan, changing his address and selling the articles. Since 1921 Smith has conducted a thriving business with these methods, the officers asserted, and is specifically charged with disposing of three pianos, five phonographs and four typewriters in that manner.

Body Objects to Rail Tracks in New Tunnel

The Vermont-Beverly Association, in a communication to the City Council yesterday, protested against railway tracks being laid in the Second-street tunnel, which will be opened for use this summer.

The Board of Public Utilities will on July 9 conduct a hearing at which both sides will be given an opportunity to present arguments.

EXHIBIT OF FURNITURE MADE HERE

Local Manufacturers Are Giving Fourth Showing of Los Angeles Product

The fourth annual market exhibit of Los Angeles-made furniture by nearly fifty local furniture manufacturers is being shown this week in the new Westinghouse Building at Fifth and San Pedro streets, under the auspices of the Los Angeles Furniture Manufacturers' Association.

According to S. M. Green, president of the association, Los Angeles is now the leading furniture manufacturing city west of Chicago. Forty-two leading furniture manufacturers in this city are members of the association, the output of whose factories last year amounted to more than $25,000,000. Extensive factory additions have been built and the output for 1923 is estimated at more than $30,000,000.

Previous exhibits have been open to the public, but this year the exhibit is open only to furniture dealers and retailers in the Southwest. The object is to advertise and boost products made in Los Angeles furniture factories. Salesmen of local dealers are invited to attend Thursday evening.

Buyers for furniture dealers in this territory will be the guests today of the association at a barbecue banquet at San Gabriel. Following the banquet, the guests will attend the Mission Play at San Gabriel. Autos will leave the Westinghouse Building at 6 p.m. and return after the play to Los Angeles.

The officers of the association are S. M. Green, president; T. L. McClellan, vice-president; C. A. Singer, secretary, and M. T. Stockwell, treasurer. All the above are directors in the organization, including Ed Roberts, H. Robinson and A. B. Schmitz.

Freeholders in Need of Funds to Begin Work

The Board of Freeholders, which was elected on the 5th inst. to draft within the next four months a new city charter, yesterday placed before the City Council its first communication, in which an appropriation was asked for a paid secretary, a stenographer, $500 for expenses and permission to use the City Council chamber for the sessions of the board, which will be conducted at night.

The first meeting of the board at the City Hall will be conducted tomorrow evening. Robert M. Clarke has been elected president of the board.

The letter asking for an appropriation was referred by the Council to its Finance Committee, which will meet today.

VIRGINIA PERSON ABOUT TO STAGE COMEBACK

By Grace Kingsley

Now that Virginia Pearson has decided to give the stage the go-by in favor of pictures once more, she is receiving encouragement in her resolution in the substantial form of offers from various companies. Metro, Universal and Goldwyn have all been trying to induce Miss Pearson to work under their banners.

Perhaps the most alluring offer from many standpoints is that made by William De Mille to appear in the leading role of a big production which he is to make later in the year. This Miss Pearson will doubtless accept, as the role is one that appeals to her strongly, besides which, she doesn't care who knows that she thinks Mr. De Mille is a very fine director. It seems that the admiration is mutual and that Mr. De Mille has gone on record as saying that he could imagine nobody but Miss Pearson in the role. So that's that.

However, in the meantime the star is looking ever so young and blooming. And she doesn't in the least care if the world knows that she is nice and thin, too.

It is all over so far as Virginia Pearson's contract with Arthur W. Jacobs Corporation is concerned. The contract was abrogated by mutual consent. The Jacobs organization let a hint be dropped that Miss Pearson was "temperamental" when she appeared in "Dust in the Doorway," since renamed "Against the Grain," from which production she resigned after the first few scenes had been taken.

But Miss Pearson, on her side, says she never had a word with her director, Frank Borzage, but that she simply decided that it was not to her best interests to play a mother role.

"Anyhow," they kept rewriting the story and making the mother older and older!" declared Miss Pearson aggrievedly.

The star's actor-husband, Sheldon Lewis, and herself are living at the Hollywood Hotel. Mr. Lewis is playing a leading role in support of Baby Peggy at Universal City.

Miss Pearson is busy writing a book on occultism just at present, and it is to be published later in the fall. She is also interested in the writing of a novel, but says that won't be ready for publication for another year yet. Nobody need be surprised at the star's literary efforts, as she did newspaper and magazine work as a young girl.

Any time she finds time hanging heavy on her hands she can take out her oil paints and palette and paint pictures, too. Formerly she did illustrations for the Louisville Courier.

Finis Fox Starts Production

Finis Fox has started work on his fourth independent production, "Bag and Baggage," at the Hollywood Studios, with a notable cast of screen players. Like all his other productions, Finis not only wrote the story, but is also directing and supervising all details of production from story and theme to the cutting-room.

The cast is headed by Gloria Grey, the most recent Finis Fox discovery. John Roche, who scored a big hit in David Belasco's New York stage success, "Debureau," has been signed for the male lead. The cast also includes Paul Weigel, Carmelita Geraghty, Adele Farrington, Arthur Hull, Maxine Hicks, Ned Grey and others. The continuity was written by Lois Zellner.

The executive and technical personnel of the Fox organization includes R. R. Beaty, general manager, William Dashiell, assistant director, Danny Hall, technical director, and Hal Mohr, photographer.

"Bag and Baggage" is the first of a new series of superproductions that Finis Fox will make for the independent market.

Has It Come to This?

Now that Ralph Lewis has played a fireman, and engineer and a policeman, not to mention a mail carrier, he is looking about for new fields to conquer. He received a fan letter from a young woman in Buffalo, yesterday, suggesting that he now play a floor walker!

Belasco Soon

The hearts of the Warner Brothers, one and all, were made glad yesterday by the telegram which they received from David Belasco, in which the famous producer stated that as his neuralgia was much better, he was hoping to leave for California on Friday or Saturday of this week.

Sounds Reasonable

Mary Alden is now in a position of lofty independence in regard to producers and directors. While on location in Northern California during the filming of "The Eagle's Feather" for Metro, Miss Alden received individual and collective lessons from the two-score of cowpunchers in the art of flipping flapjacks over a campfire.

"Anyone who knows anything at all understands that a good flapjack flipper is always in demand for work in restaurant windows!" declared Mary.

Henley's Hard-working staff

If "A Lady of Quality," which Hobart Henley is making for Universal, isn't a great picture, it isn't going to be the fault of Universal's research department.

For four months Henley, aided by Arthur Ripley, editor for the Henley unit, and Marion Ainslee, research expert, went over countless pages of articles, sketches, old woodcuts and historical data.

"The co-operation I received from Mr. Ripley and Miss Ainslee," says Henley, "is something that I value above all else as a factor of success in the picture. These two experts worked day and night with me, and the entire staff backed them up.

"To give some idea of the magnitude of the task, I might mention some of the things covered in their research. They supervised, with Col. Gordon McGee, the details of every costume. These were made from woodcuts depicting the garb of 1704, and colors and details of ornaments, type of stitches, even used in sewing, were gleaned from obscure old volumes.

"With Elmer Sheely, head of the art department, Frank H. Webster, Leslie Fraser Gordon and Margaret Brown, they delved into the old architecture of London. The exteriors of the old taverns, castles and streets were collected, analyzed and transformed into modern engineering plans. The interiors of old Crewe Hall, Craigmuir Castle and other noted bits of English architecture were reproduced from descriptions and old engravings, of which Mr. Gordon collected a large number. The research work also included the customs of the day and the odd mode of living of this strangest period in English history."

POTPOURRI OF FILMS AT GRAUMAN'S THEATER

A photoplay program that combines Larry Semon and Einstein in the same breath is to me the last word, but then I suppose there's nothing like playing safe with a variety of tastes. Grauman's Million-Dollar Theater certainly does that this week. The theory of relativity is being expounded via the films, and almost immediately afterward you can behold slapstick at its wildest, and at moments, perhaps, at its amusingly worst.

The feature picture is Alice Brady's "The Snow Bride." The title sounds a little suspicious in view of recent narcotic revelations, but then there's nothing to become excited about. We are simply in the frozen north once again, with our tried and true plot situations.

Daughter is one of the great untamed, and father is a fur poacher. They dwell together in happiness, with a nice romance developing between the girl and the sheriff, until father oversteps the mark in a quarrel and kills his Indian partner. After that, of course, he insists that his daughter wed the villain to safeguard his own life. The villain is killed by accidental poisoning, and the girl is suspected of murder, and convicted. But at the last minute is saved by an avalanche and a confession.

Routine melodramatic hokum, with the personality of Alice Brady as a highlight, is "The Snow Bride." Miss Brady is as usual vivid and interesting. "Lefty" Flynn, of fine physique, plays the hero, Mario Majeroni, the father and Jack Easton the villain. Nick Thompson and Margaret Morgan are among the others in the cast.

Semon has many novel gags during his playing of the dumbell clerk in a wild western department store. He piles up a lot of hilarity when the comedy speeds to the "smashing" climax.

'Trifling With Honor' is New Clune Feature

The underworld, high society, and the baseball diamond form the settings for "Trifling With Honor," the Universal picturization of William Slavin McNutt's story, "His Good Name," which is the current offering at Clune's Broadway Theater.

McNutt has based his theme on the theory that crooks can go straight, regardless of the contrary opinion of society, and he has endeavored to prove his point in a series of amusing situations. The story deals with a paroled convict who endeavors to live down his past by becoming a professional ball player. How he reaches the pinnacle of success on the diamond, and offers to sell his honor by "throwing" a game to his opponents, and how he is swayed back to the straight and narrow path by the pleas of American boyhood, forms a picture that can be classed as fine entertainment for the masses and the classes.

Rockliffe Fellows as Bat Shrugue, the hero, gives a convincing portrayal, while Fritzi Ridgeway, in the feminine lead, is equally as deserving of praise. Buddy Messinger as the mischievous "kid" brother, and Hayden Stevenson also contribute clever characterizations. The direction of Harry Pollard is also highly commendable. A variety of short subjects round out the bill.

MILLER ENGAGEMENT OPENS MONDAY NIGHT

Monday night Henry Miller will open a fortnight's engagement at the Mason Operahouse in a new comedy by Lee Wilson Dodd, with a cast including, in addition to Mr. Miller, such stars as Blanche Bates, Ruth Chatterton, Laura Hope Crews, John Miltern, Geofrey Kerr and Felix Krembs.

Produced for a fortnight in Philadelphia, play and players moved intact to California, and come to Los Angeles, following an engagement at the Columbia Theater, San Francisco.

CADMAN TO APPEAR AT METROPOLITAN

Another musical event for Los Angeles.

Following close upon the debut of John Steel at Grauman's Metropolitan, comes the announcement of the engagement of Charles Wakefield Cadman composer of songs with an Indian theme.

Cadman will personally play a selection of his own compositions at the Metropolitan Theater next week, which will also be the second week of Steel's engagement.

FAST NEW REVUE

"Let Go" at Newly Renovated Burbank Theater Peppy

With the Burbank Theater brightly renovated and further remodeling going on the latest Hi-Jinks musical comedy "Let Go" is making a hit.

Lee "Bud" Harrison and George Clark hold the spotlight of attention with their travesty hits. Others in the cast are William McKee, Gene Darby, Grace Hutchinson and some new comers.

The beauty chorus on the runway, electrically illumined, flashes a gorgeous set of wardrobe creations this week.

PLAYDOM

PLANS REEL CAREER

LENORE ULRIC WOULD MAKE "KIKI" NEXT YEAR

By Edwin Schallert

A picture a year—that is the present plan of Laurette Taylor, famous as the star on the stage in "The Bird of Paradise," "The Sun-Daughter," "Kiki" and other productions, and now in California to play the sparkler role in a film version of the Willard Mack melodrama, "Tiger Rose." Miss Ulric is waiting in feverish suspense for her first day before the camera about two weeks hence, and is spending the time in making tests, trying on costumes, and purchasing a variety of kimonos for which she has a grande passion that she has never been able fully to satisfy before coming to orientally-bedecked shops of California.

Miss Ulric will remain here until the end of August, this trip. At that time she will have to return to New York to resume her appearances in "Kiki," which is to go on the road next season. She will not have a new stage play until the following season.

"One thing I am very regretful about and that is that I did not make arrangements to play 'Kiki' here this season," she declared. "I did not realize what a pleasure it would have been to appear on the stage here in Los Angeles, whose public I have always loved.

"Next season, if all goes well, I'm going to try to bring the play out here, possibly with the original company. I would like so much to play it on the stage at the same time I am making the picture."

That David Belasco will surely come west some time in the near future is Miss Ulric's positive assertion. "I think that he will probably come out here during the making of 'Deburau,'" she went on. "I'm afraid that he won't get here in time to see me playing 'Tiger Rose' unless it be just before the completion of the picture.

"He fully intended to come west this summer. In fact, he had hoped to leave only a few days ago. He has been suffering so frightfully with neuralgia, however, that he has been afraid to make the trip. He is under the care of a doctor in the East who thoroughly understands his illness, and he dreads going far away from him as long as he is in so great pain as he has been since the attack came on.

"I know though that he is filled with curiosity and interest about California's motion-picture industry and art, and that as soon as his duties and his health permit he will make the trip."

As indicated, "Kiki" is the next production which Miss Ulric will essay for the silversheet. She hopes to appear in other plays that she has starred in on the stage. She is tremendously interested in the screen, because it reaches so many different peoples.

"Anything that helps the internationalizing of art has always captured my enthusiasm," she declared, "because I believe this will tend to make all nations and peoples broader and more tolerant, through understanding something of the point of view of other nations and peoples."

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

FRUIT INDUSTRY NEEDS ARE TOLD

Advertising and Improved Quality Stressed

Canners' Official Delivers Talk to Growers

Deciduous Prices Must be Immediately Raised

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, June 19.—That improved quality of fruit and the establishment of a co-operative advertising fund to increase consumption are essential to the success of the California deciduous industry, was the declaration today of S. W. Cunningham, secretary of the Southern California Canners' Bureau, in an address before members of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce and ranchers of this district at a chamber forum luncheon meeting at the Hotpoint Club.

The speaker admitted that the peach and apricot growers are now facing a serious problem and while the facts set forth in his address held little promise of an immediately brilliant future, Mr. Cunningham ventured the prediction that with proper handling the canning industry would be more prosperous at the end of ten years than it has ever been.

PRODUCTION INCREASES

That in the last few years production has been vastly increased without a commensurate increase in quality and without any concerted effort being made to increase consumption of canned and dried deciduous fruit is chiefly responsible for the fact that growers will receive comparatively low prices for their fruit this year.

Unnatural conditions brought about by the late war which resulted in peaches and apricots of inferior quality bringing $100 a ton and more, followed by a wholesale planting of orchards have caused a vastly increased production for which no market has been created. Had the growers been far-sighted enough to tax themselves $5 a ton for all fruit sold during the era of great prosperity, for the establishment of a fund for an advertising campaign of education, conditions would not now be serious, in the opinion of the speaker, and he expressed the belief that the time is at hand when persons interested directly or indirectly in the deciduous industry must create such a fund.

NOT HARDSHIP

Mr. Cunningham gave it as his belief that a fund of $2,000,000 per year could be raised for such a purpose without it proving a hardship to anyone and declared that such action would go a long way toward putting the industry on its feet.

Curtailment of the European market for low-grade fruit generally and the fact that England overbought last year, also enter into the present lack of demand for anything but the highest quality peaches and apricots. Because of this, the canners have been forced to raise their standards materially and apricots which run more than fourteen to the pound this season will find little or no market.

Still another condition that aggravates the present situation is the fact that the wholesale grocer who bought heavily at the opening of last season and found himself "stung" when the market dropped later, is this year refusing to buy in more than hand to mouth lots and unable to show their bankers orders for their products, the canners are experiencing great difficulty in securing funds with which to operate. Coupled with this is the increased cost of canning this year over last and the only alternative confronting the packer is to pay the grower less for his fruit.

CANNER IS HIT

The canner, according to Mr. Cunningham, is quite as loath to pay growers lower prices as the grower is to receive them as he realizes that the success of the canning industry depends very largely on satisfied and prosperous ranchers. He illustrates the point by stating that in 1915 the canner paid $7.50 a ton for his fruit and lost money, while in 1919 he paid $100 a ton and made a profit.

Declaring that the present consumption of canned apricots in the United States is one-fourth of a can per capita a year, Mr. Cunningham further emphasized the necessity of an educational campaign to increase this consumption by pointing to the fact that the output of California deciduous canners had increased from 4,000,000 cases in 1910 to 15,500,000 cases in 1922 and that with any new orchards shortly coming into bearing that output should be more than doubled within the next four years.

In closing the speaker declared that the satisfactory solution of the deciduous fruit problem during the next few years would tax the best brains in California and he strongly urged the growers to co-operate by making every effort to increase the quality of their fruit, declaring that only so could they hope to put their ranches on a sound and paying basis.

Clyde M. Sheets, manager of the California Growers' Association acted as chairman and introduced the speaker.

The debts of the concern are given as $4923. The assets of Charles H. Tweed are given as $2200; Ernest F. Tweed, $2364.50, and Fred W. McCann, $2100.

William B. Wensiaff, carpenter and student of this city, filed a similar petition. He gives his debts as $33,020.67. He schedules no assets.

HOLDS CITY PROTECTS OIL TRUST

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, June 19.—Charges that City Manager Windham was "protecting" the Jergins trust, which consists of 140 acres of city water land leased to A. T. Jergins for oil drilling operations, were made at a meeting of the City Council today by Councilman Frank H. Downs. Mr. Windham denied the charge, and a bitter clash between the two officials followed.

The dispute arose when the Council was asked to approve an agreement entered into between the Jergins trust and the Pan-American Oil Company regarding the number of wells the latter could drill on the Union Pacific right of way. Action on the agreement was deferred for a week. The wells on the railroad property offset the city's wells.

Mr. Windham said he was working for the city's best interests and that his actions were subject to the Council's approval.

"I am not protecting anyone, and I never did," he declared.

Billion Seals to Aid Battle Against Plague

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, June 19.—Plans to place 1,000,000,000 Christmas seals, to aid the tuberculosis fight, on sale this winter were announced this afternoon following a conference of the State secretaries of the National Tuberculosis Association.

Delegates to the national association convention which starts here tomorrow are arriving with each train. Routine business will take up the forenoon session. In the afternoon there will be a clinical session addressed by Alexius M. Foster, Gerald B. Webb of Colorado Springs, R. L. Cunningham, Munford Smith, and E. Richmond Ware of Los Angeles; Ray D. Watson, Ralph C. Matson and Marr Bisaillon of Portland Or.; George Thomas Palmer, Springfield, Ill., and Leroy S. Peters, Albuquerque.

A public session will be held in the evening. During the week civic organizations will carry out a program of entertainment for the delegates and Saturday a children's play, written by Frances A. Cook, director of health of the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute, will be given.

Retrial May Be Granted in Suit Against Doctor

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, June 19.—Dr. J. A. Copeland, Delano physician, will be granted a new trial in the suit instituted against him by Mrs. Jeanette Moran unless the plaintiff agrees to cut the judgment already awarded from $25,000 to $6000. This ruling was handed down today by Superior Judge Daley of San Bernardino, sitting in Department No. 1 here for Judge J. W. Mahon.

The trial was instituted by Jeanette Moran of Delano, who charged that her son, Glenn Triplett, died as a direct result of negligence on the part of Dr. Copeland, who attended the young man following a railroad accident July 21, 1921, in which the deceased suffered a badly mangled foot, necessitating amputation.

During the trial six local doctors and five Los Angeles doctors testified that the youth's death was not the result of negligence.

FRESNAN WINS LIQUOR FIGHT

Search and Seizure is Point in Dispute

Accused Asserts His Stock Antedates Law

Mysterious Witness in Case Kept in Dark

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, June 19.—T. E. Collins, hotel man of Fresno, today was freed of a charge of liquor possession that grew out of a raid on his home and led to a heated legal battle. The charge was dismissed by United States Commissioner Hollins, after Collins had testified that liquor seized in his home was in his possession before the dry law became effective.

Federal Prohibition Agent Nicely, who brought the charge, announced later that he will file an information against Collins at the fall term of the United States District Court here. He also said that pending this action the liquor taken from Collins will be retained by the government.

Special interest attaches to the case because of a perjury charge made by Collins against G. John, an operative for Nicely. John made affidavit that he bought whisky for 50 cents at the Collins home. On the basis of this affidavit a search warrant was issued. With this warrant, Nicely raided Collins's home in one of the best sections of the city, seizing an assortment of brandy, gin, wine and beer. Collins immediately declared the affidavit of sale was false and caused a subpoena to be issued for G. John, by the United States Commissioner, so that the merits of the search warrant could be inquired into.

Nobody knew G. John. Nicely refused to disclose his identity. The warrant was given by the defense counsel to Deputy United States Marshal Shannon to serve and Nicely told Shannon John would be produced at "the proper time." The operative was not in court today, however, and Nicely balked attempts of the defense to uncover the man's identity. A number of other search warrants have been issued here on the basis of affidavits signed "G. John" and speculation as to who the man is has been rife.

Chinaman from Hanford Facing Treason Charge

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HANFORD, June 19.—The mystery deepens in the case of Dr. L. T. Sue, formerly a herb doctor of this city, who returned to China with his 20-year-old son two years ago.

Copies of Chinese papers received in this city recently stated that the two Sues had been arrested in their native country on charges of treason against their government.

It is stated in Hanford's Chinatown that Dr. Sue, who amassed a small fortune as a herb doctor, returned quietly to his native country and after he left here the information leaked out that he had been a powerful mandarin in China and was a scion of one of the proudest families, having been forced to leave China on account of his political affiliations. He was granted amnesty on his return, but he is said to be a militarist desiring the restoration of the throne to his native country, and his zeal may have got him again into governmental disfavor.

OFFICER HURT IN CRASH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CALEXICO, June 19.—Lloyd V. Ackley, county motorcycle officer, suffered a broken leg and other injuries when his machine collided with an automobile truck which turned a corner suddenly. Ackley said his brakes did not work.

STANDS BY ZONE ORDINANCE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, June 19.—Although its constitutionality has been denied by two Superior Court decisions, the city's zoning ordinance was again enforced today when the City Council refused to issue building permits for the erection of grocery stores within the residential district.

Superior Judge Warmer issued a writ of mandamus three months ago forcing Building Inspector Wegnori to issue a permit for the construction of a grocery store in the residential district, ruling that the zoning law interferred with property rights of land owners.

Superior Judge Daley dissolved a temporary injunction last week issued under the zoning law in an attempt to prevent the erection of an oil station. Judge Daley declared that "a filling station is as much a public necessity as a grocery store."

City Attorney Guthrie has appealed Judge Warmer's decision to the California District Court of Appeals and, pending a verdict on the appeal, the City Council will refuse to sanction the erection of business buildings within the residential district, it was announced. Two property owners requested permits for grocery stores.

Since its adoption, the zoning ordinance has had a stormy career, being the subject of numerous protests, both for and against as the city attempted to regulate the gradual and intermittent expansion of the business district to favored territories in the residential district.

ZIG-ZAG AUTOIST IS HALED INTO COURT

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, June 19.—Swaying from one side of the roadway to the other in his automobile landed Fred Osburn in the City Jail last night on a charge of reckless driving. Motorcycle Officers Ludlow and Bayless arrested the youth after an exciting chase on Washington Boulevard. Osburn was released to appear before Judge Rennie Friday afternoon.

GRADUATE AT GLENDALE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDALE, June 19.—High school commencement exercises will be conducted here Thursday evening when a class of 179 will be graduated. On the same evening graduation exercises for Wilson-avenue intermediate school will be conducted, and on Friday evening that of the Glendale-avenue intermediate. The number of graduates from the two intermediate schools is 238.

AFFINITY? WORD WAS NEW TO HER

But at That Wife Was Sure Husband Had Raft of Them

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, June 19.—"An affinity is a woman with whom a man gads and has a good time while his wife takes in washing." This definition of a much-written-about and sometimes alluring type was given today by Justice Cox during the preliminary examination of Lloyd Enochs on a charge of failure to provide for his wife and baby. "Has your husband an affinity?" Cox asked Mrs. Fannie Enochs.

AUCTION OF MELONS AID TO MAIMED

First Sale of Fruit for Brawley's Crippled Young Brings Record Price

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BRAWLEY, June 19.—Officials of the Brawley Rotary club recently requested each of the cantaloupe distributors operating here to aid in raising funds for crippled children of Brawley. The club is sponsoring the assistance of youngsters who require operations and medical attention.

In response to the request, each of the distributors placed a special crate of cantaloupes in a carload shipment and requested the buyer at the other end of the line to auction them to the highest bidder.

The Fruit Distributors Service Company, one of the firms to forward a special crate, reports the sale of the melons in Baltimore yesterday for $116.50. This is said to be a record price brought for cantaloupes. There were thirty-six melons in the crate, making each one sell for about $3.

MUNICIPAL GAS PLANT DEFEATED

Long Beach Plan Loses in Council Vote Through Technicality

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, June 19.—The proposal to erect a municipal gas plant here at a cost of $2,000,000 was defeated by the City Council today at a meeting marked by frequent clashes. The resolution calling for a special election on July 10 at which the bond issue for the plant was to be voted on lost through a technicality.

A majority of the Councilmen present voted for the resolution but the City Attorney ruled that a vote of the majority of the entire Council was necessary before a special bond election could be called. The ruling of the City Attorney came after an extended debate in which practically every Councilman present participated.

It is generally believed that the defeat of the proposal by the Council will squelch it definitely, but citizens who have been fighting for a reduced gas rate have announced their intention to circulate petitions to force the Council to vote favorably on the measure.

The plan to construct a municipal gas plant came after several years of agitation for a reduced gas rate here. The local company, privately owned, has refused to slash rates and the matter was finally taken to the State Railroad Commission which will conduct an inquiry into the present gas rates here this month.

TO ADOPT TAXI RULE

Bakersfield Will Provide For Permits By City Manager

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, June 19.—Pending the insertion of a clause which will provide for the issuing of taxicab permits by City Manager James Ogden, the proposed taxicab ordinance for Bakersfield was again tabled by the City Council at its regular weekly meeting last night.

The agreement recently entered into by railroad officials and taxicab owners was presented to the Board by L. D. Bloodgett, Secretary of the Civic Commercial Association, who acted as intermediary at the drawing of the agreement.

City Attorney E. F. Brittan was instructed to change the city ordinance providing for the issuing of soft drink pool-rooms and roominghouse permits by the City Council. These permits will hereafter be issued from the city manager's office also. In case of revocation, however, the matter will be referred to the Council. Also in case the City Manager does not deem it advisable to issue permits to certain parties the permit may be brought before the City Council for consideration and action.

SUN-MAID PRESIDENT QUITS

Giffen Objects to Criticism of Association and Wants More Time for Personal Affairs

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, June 19.—Resignation of Wylie M. Giffen as president and director of the Sun Maid Raisin Growers' Association was presented this afternoon at a joint meeting of directors and the new advisory board.

The resignation was laid over until the July meeting because of the absence of a director. It was the opinion of the board that all the members should vote on the acceptance or declination of the proposal.

Before the meeting Giffen announced that his resignation is final and that under no circumstances will he be a candidate for re-election in November.

During the morning the directors elected officers as follows: President, Wylie M. Giffen; managing director, Ralph P. Merritt; vice-president, Frank H. Wilson; secretary, A. G. Wishon; treasurer, Milo L. Rowell; comptroller, Jay L. Reed. Directors were re-elected.

The election of Giffen as president, it is understood, was a matter of form and preserves the executive staff until his resignation becomes effective.

Giffen gave two reasons for his action—that his personal business will require all his time and that, with a need for unanimous support of the management of the association, Giffen has been the object of criticism. He closed with a statement of confidence in Managing Director Merritt, in whose hands the direction of the association rests.

Theft Charged in Romance of Cattle Ranges

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, June 19.—A romance that began on the cattle ranges of the desert, where Harney R. McFarland, cowboy, smiled at pretty Florence Webster, of city folk and a stranger in the cow country, had its ending yesterday in Dist.-Atty. Johnson's office where the girl told a story of broken faith.

She swore to a complaint charging McFarland with the theft of her diamond ring and a watch, love tokens to the son of the range. But McFarland also stole a Liberty Bond, Miss Webster asserted, and this cooled her love, she said.

Miss Webster bared the story of the romance in her appeal for McFarland's arrest. She was a stranger to the desert, she said. The glamour of life on the range, the rough and ready cow-puncher and his carefree way turned her heart, she told the prosecutor. McFarland has appeared in a number of western scenes filmed near Victorville, Miss Webster said, but denied his film career entered into the romance.

Warrants for the arrest of the cowboy were issued.

SCHOOLS CROWDED

Part-Time Classes Necessary for Long Beach in Fall

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, June 19.—Lack of equipment and space in the public schools of the city will force the authorities to place 1300 pupils on part-time instruction when the fall term opens, W. L. Stephens, superintendent of schools, declared in a report last night to the Long Beach School Board.

The rapid growth of the city has made the entire city school system inadequate, he stated. The increase in enrollment in the fall will be at least 15 per cent, he estimated, and declared that the only way to meet the situation was to vote an appropriation of $25,000 to be used in constructing additional quarters for the school children.

The board at the meeting last night voted to increase the salary of David Burcham, principal of Polytechnic High School, from $4200 to $4500 a year and to grant proportionate increases to other principals and supervisors. Eight new teachers were also chosen at the meeting.

SANTA MONICA PLANS TO PAVE BOULEVARD

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, June 19.—Petitions for the paving of Wilshire Boulevard were granted by city commissioners this morning. This is the second step in the development of Wilshire as a business street and its widening to 75 feet as one of the main arteries of travel into this city from Los Angeles. A general movement is under way for the widening of the street its entire length and the erection of an ornamental lighting system. The petitions represent a large percentage of the frontage and are getting enthusiastic backing from many large property owners.

SCOUTS PLANNING OUTING IN TOPANGA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA MONICA, June 19.—Hundreds of Bay District Boy Scouts are enlisting to go to the summer camps at Topango Glen, which will open July 9, according to an announcement of executives this morning. Eight or ten scout masters will be in charge of the camp. Daily programs are being arranged and each troop will have its own camp site. The camp will be located on eighty acres in Topanga donated for the purpose by the Slauson estate. Nearly double the number of scouts will enjoy the summer camp this year as compared with last year, when the outing was at Pacific Palisades.

CAST PICKED FOR ONTARIO PRODUCTION

Community Players Will Present "Belinda," Ending Season's Offerings

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, June 19.—Miss Ruth Harrison, producing director of the Community Players, this afternoon announced the cast of characters for "Belinda," Ethel Barrymore's former successful vehicle, which, as the final offering of the Player's season, is to be given at Chaffey Auditorium on the evenings of the 29th and 30th inst.

Miss Hazel Whistler is to appear in the title role, and others of the cast will include Mrs. May Berger as Betty; Miss Rowie Rader, as Delia; Theron Goodban as Mr. Devenish; Murray McNeil as Mr. Baxter, and Donovan Palmer as Tremaine.

J. A. Armstrong is to be stage director; Myron Harris will be in charge of scenery; Kenneth I. Hanson, business manager; Mrs. Everett Hampton Fuller, costumes and Miss Benita Spencer, prompter. The play, by A. A. Milne, is a subtle English comedy in three acts.

Music will be provided by the Community Orchestra under direction of Fred Wilding, Jr.

BUDGET CRITICS HIT

Speaker Merriam Defends Economy Program of Governor

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, June 19.—Critics of Gov. Richardson's economy program were vigorously denounced by Frank F. Merriam, Speaker of the Assembly, in an address before the Brothers of the First Presbyterian Church last night.

Mr. Merriam pointed out that the revenues of the State were approximately $30,000,000 annually and that its expenditures were approximately $79,700,000 for the same period.

"If the budget is increased," he demanded, "where is the money coming from?"

There is but one other method of raising money, he stated, and that is through an ad valorem tax. Public utility taxation will not work out. In the long run the public will be forced bear the tax if the utilities are too heavily burdened and no one would be better off, he stated.

The bill which provides for a tax on gasoline was declared by Mr. Merriam to have been the most constructive measure passed by the Legislature.

MARRIES IN ERROR

Bride Repented After Wedding, Father Tells Court

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, June 19.—Three hours after Nellie Rich Bagnall's marriage to Orme Bagnall she returned home with the announcement that she "had made the mistake of her life," the bride's father, E. L. Rich, said today in the divorce court, testifying for his son-in-law.

The girl was not in the courtroom, but Bagnall told of his brief wedded life. Spectators were agog with surprise when Bagnall called his wife's father to the witness stand in his behalf.

"She told me that she had made the mistake of her life and would not live with Orme any longer," said the bride's father. What convinced the bride of her error in selecting a life mate was not revealed by the testimony. Bagnall was granted an interlocutory decree.

LEMON BOX ROMANCE IS GOING FINE

Youth Meets Girl and It Looks Like Bells Will Soon be Ringing

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, June 19. — With no hitch so far in their romance, which began with a note in a box of lemons, Miss Libbie Blacet, 490 East Phillips Boulevard, and Tom Fagan of Topeka, Kan., will spend the next few days visiting places of interest in this part of Southern California in company with Miss Blacet's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Blacet. When asked if they might get married when sightseeing, Miss Blacet answered, "We're not telling that."

Mr. Fagan, who seems to be a good-natured youth, has taken the Blacet household by storm. Fagan, who is manager of the fruit department of the G. E. Lux Wholesale Company of Topeka, was unpacking a box of lemons one day last year and found a note with Miss Blacet's name on it, which had been placed there as a joke by a girl friend of the latter at the La Verne Lemon Growers' Exchange in La Verne.

As a joke he answered the note and his arrival here Sunday afternoon was the result of his proposal having been accepted through the mail by Miss Blacet.

Father Yields Blood to Save His Son's Life

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, June 19.—The life of Emerson Marr, 17 years of age, of 1321 Spurgeon street was in the balance today, following a blood transfusion operation late yesterday during which he received into his system nearly a pint of blood taken from his father, Virgil Marr.

The youth suffers from a condition where the blood does not clot as quickly as in the normal person, and since three years of age has been subject to severe hemorrhages.

The family formerly resided in Glendale and while there the blood of two young Belgian hares was transfused into his veins, causing a marked improvement in his condition. Recently Young Marr, who is a student at the Santa Ana High School, began having internal hemorrhages as well as those of the nose, and another transfusion of blood was determined upon. It is believed the father's blood may cause a change in that of the son and lessen the tendency to frequent hemorrhages.

TWO SAVED IN SURF OFF SANTA MONICA

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, June 19.—Gertrude Palmer, 805 Bixel avenue, and J. Goldberg, 1137 Central avenue, were rescued from the surf here yesterday afternoon by Lifeguard Rex Marriott. Both persons recovered shortly after being taken from the water and were able to proceed to their respective homes. Marriott was just recently given a position as guard by Santa Monica city officials. He was formerly an instructor in physical culture in a military academy at Culver City.

PLANS NEW SCHOOLS

San Diego Board Seeks Bond Issue to Meet Needs

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, June 19.—Another junior high school, costing $500,000, in Burlingame district one north of University avenue, and additions to schools at La Jolla, Pacific Beach and Ocean Beach, are provided for in a bond issue contemplated by the Board of Education.

The board also has under consideration a fourth junior high school to serve territory north of University avenue, including East San Diego. This, it is figured, will cost $400,000.

Owing to the crowded condition of the schools, the board figures on erecting these buildings on the unit plan.

TRAFFIC JAM AT BORDER

Ruling Requiring Automobile Registration Causes Great Congestion; Relief Expected

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CALEXICO, June 19.—Motorists attempting to cross the international line into Mexicali have automatically made a heavy traffic jam at the border following receipt of word from Washington to enforce a recent order requiring registration of motor vehicles.

Customs inspectors, under the direction of Inspector Markley, have been busy for the last two days filling out registration cards that will be good for passage across the border for thirty days. It was hoped by inspectors that the order would be recalled by Washington officials after strong protest was made against it by Calexico civic organizations interested in encouraging business between Calexico and Mexicali.

Long lines of automobiles and trucks have been standing in front of the custom house while the passport cards have been prepared. The cards must be exhibited on each trip across the border, according to the Federal order.

Customs officials expressed the belief that fully 5000 cards would be filled out for motor drives before the traffic congestion is relieved. This work must then be repeated each month.

WELL-KNOWN HANFORD COUPLE ARE DIVORCED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HANFORD, June 19.—A decision was handed down by Judge M. L. Short in Superior Court of Kings county yesterday in the divorce action of Marie L. Marks against Charles L. Marks, granting the plaintiff an interlocutory decree of divorce on grounds of cruelty. Charges of misconduct were made by the wife. The case was bitterly fought and attracted much attention locally, the parties to the suit having conducted a dairy near this city. Since the case was submitted to the judge several weeks ago, the parties to the suit have entered into an agreement settling property rights. The plaintiff was awarded all property, according to the agreement.

BUDGET REFLECTS GROWTH

Increase in County Figures Due to Expansion Which Makes Larger Appropriations Obvious

The Board of Supervisors has appropriated $15,434,728 to cover expenses of county government and improvements for 1923-1924, as compared with $12,886,192 for 1922-1923. A large portion of this increase is due to the rapidly growing population which adds to work of the charities department and for criminal investigation. The most noticeable increases are in salary and general funds.

Figures prepared by Howard Byram, chief of the budget department in the County Auditor's office, speak eloquently of the tremendous growth of the county. The comparative statement of this year's appropriations and those of last year is as follows:

WILD WEST STARS ARE ROUNDED UP

Rodeo Features Are Being Obtained for Circus Given by Disabled Veterans

Daring cowboys and cowgirls are being rounded up by Edythe Sterling, to appear in Wild West feats of horsemanship at the Circus and Wild Animal Exposition at Selig Zoo for Los Angeles Post No. 1, Disabled Veterans of the World War, from the 23rd inst to July 1, inclusive.

Bill Strother, the "Human Spider," and an up-to-the-minute midway carnival have been added to the attractions of the circus, which also will have dancing acts, musical features, novelty feats, boxing bouts and animal performances on its nine days' programs.

Strother, who often doubles for film stars and is known from coast to coast for his daring climbing stunts, has scaled most of the difficult skyscrapers in Los Angeles.

Aside from participating in the battle royal that is to be the main event of each Saturday's boxing card, the newsboys of Los Angeles will appear in musical specialties. Henry Warner, vocalist; Tony Geyer, banjoist; Louis Jacobs, violinist, and the Newsboys' Trio are among the music features of the daily programs.

Beginning Monday with the State Department, D.V.W.W., the successive days have been set aside for the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the United Spanish War Veterans and the G.A.R.

Screen Between Prisoners and Lawyers Upheld

The rights of prisoners are not invaded when they are forced to talk to their counsel through a fine-mesh screen, Judge Avery decided yesterday in dismissing a writ of habeas corpus sued out by Ida Mae Adams, a woman attorney, on behalf of Leslie Snyder, an inmate of the County Jail.

Jailer Bailey testified the screen was placed along the center of the counsel table because certain lawyers have been suspected of smuggling narcotics, saws and files and weapons to their clients.

Judge Avery suggested that the rules might be relaxed in the case of attorneys known to be reputable and that, on request, they might have a greater degree of privacy than the present arrangements provide. The screen was suggested by the Crime Commission with the approval of several Superior Court judges. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hill argued in behalf of the screens.

LEGAL BODY TO ATTEND RIVES RITES

Public Services Will be Conducted Today for Late Judge at Cemetery

Members of the judiciary and legal fraternity of Los Angeles county will unite today in paying homage to their late colleague, James C. Rives, for the last sixteen years Superior Court judge in the probate department, who died at his home in Downey early Monday morning.

Funeral services will be conducted today at his residence in Downey at 2 p.m., by Dr. James Roberts, pastor of Downey Baptist Church. Following these private services, public rites will be conducted at Whittier Heights Cemetery at 3 o'clock.

Congressman-elect John B. Fredericks will assist Dr. Roberts at the cemetery, and will deliver a short funeral oration. Pallbearers will be Judge C. D. Wilbur, George P. Adams, Frank Burke, Louis P. Boardman, John B. Leonis and Judge Frank R. Willis. Wallace Gregg and Congressman Fredericks will act as aides.

In honor of the memory of Judge Rives, who, during his years of service on the bench, had won many warm friends and admirers, all departments of the Superior Court will be closed today. At a meeting yesterday, Judges Wood, Valentine and Willis were appointed as a committee by Superior Court judges, to draft resolutions of condolence to his family.

Floral offerings from all sections of the State have been received by the family, as well as many notes of sympathy and condolence. A beautiful wreath was presented by the judges of the Superior Court.

Judge Rives had been suffering from a heart affliction for several months before his death which had kept him confined to his bed. It is believed that his condition was caused by too constant attention to his duties.

Besides a widow, Judges Rives leaves three sons, Edward L., Robert C., and Lawrence Howard; one daughter, Mrs. Pauline Rives Dall, and two brothers, Logan and Edward B. Rives.

GRIFFIN IS PROMOTED

City Engineer is Now Lieutenant Colonel in Reserve Corps

City Engineer Griffin yesterday received official notification from the War Department, Washington, that he had been promoted from major to the grade of lieutenant-colonel in the Engineers' Reserve Corps, U. S. A. During the World War, City Engineer Griffin served overseas as a major in the Engineers' Corps.

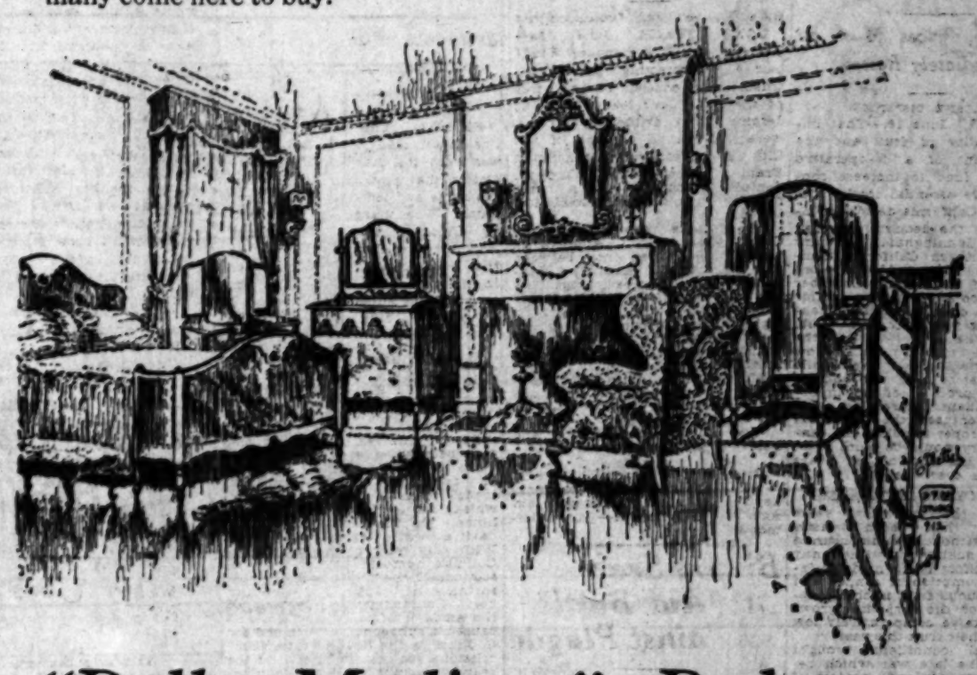
Special June Values

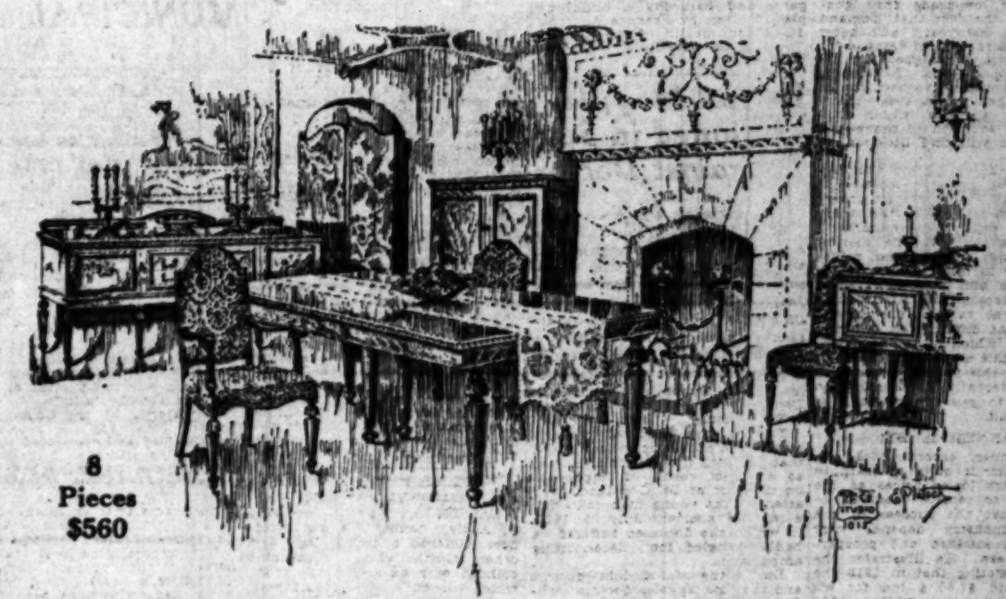
The summer months find us with a huge stock in our five warehouses and on our ten display floors that must be reduced in size quickly and so we offer special values for a short time that challenge comparison. No matter where your home is, we can serve you well. Let us show why so many come here to buy.



"Dolly Madison" Bedroom Suite—at Special Pricings

Superior in design, construction and finish to many we have seen at much higher prices. Choice of mahogany or walnut in combination with other hard woods. You may have any pieces required at these special "June Value" pricings:

DRESSERS, TWO SIZES, $53.50, $69.50
BEDS, BOWFOOT OR POSTER, $49.50
CHESTS OF DRAWERS, $33.75
VANITY CASE, LARGE SIZE, $78.50
JUNIOR VANITY CASE, $51.75
CANDLE STAND, $11.25
DRESSING BENCH, $10.00
ROCKER, $11.25; CHAIR, $10.00



8 Pieces $560

Special June Values in Dining Furniture

The above is an example of the special values now offered in the larger, massive type of dining furniture that usually sells at much higher prices. In fact, you seldom see this grade of furniture featured at a special price, yet this is but an instance of the savings on high class furniture of all kinds. Eight pieces of the model pictured in walnut with burl panels are specially reduced to a total of $560, as follows:

LARGE BUFFET WITH 78-IN. TOP.
5 HIGH BACK CHAIRS IN TAPESTRY OR DAMASK.
ARM CHAIR IN TAPESTRY OR DAMASK.
(Serving Table at $96 optional.)

8 PC. DINING SUITE, $178.00
Choice of walnut or mahogany finish in a delightfully new and graceful design. Table, Buffet, 5 Chairs and Arm Chair with blue leather or tapestry full slip seats, 8 pieces for $178. The following pieces to match, optional at these, reduced prices.
CHINA CLOSET, $39.75; SERVING TABLE, $22.50.

8 PC. DINING SUITE, $231.50
A very beautiful Period style finished in brown mahogany with fine carved detail Buffet, Table 5 Chairs and Arm Chair with high backs and seats upholstered in handsome tapestry, 8 pieces for $231.50.
The following pieces to match are optional at these reduced prices: CHINA CLOSET, $39.50; SERVING TABLE, $29.75.

UP-TO-DATE DANCES

Bug: You don't like to dance with Mr. Worm?

Lady Bug: No, he wriggles so disgustingly when he dances.

YEA, AND EVEN FASTER

"If you want to fight, your footwork has got to be fast."

"Well, doesn't it have to be just as fast if you don't want to fight?"

A CASE IN POINT

"Can inanimate objects think?"

"Well, I've hugged a girl and found that cigars in my pocket were much broken up over it."

BATHING SUIT OF YESTERYEAR

Aquatic Garb Worn in Mother's Time

THIS lady is not ready to mount to the guillotine in the garb approved in the best circles. Neither is she contesting for honors in designs for bathing suits approved by the Society for the Feminine Pulchritude.

She is merely making the wild waves wild with disgust that anyone would affect such a costume to disport on the sands.

The date line on the dispatch says Long Beach, L. I., but in view of the recent agitation in our own Long Beach it might be used as a horrible example by opponents of the famous peek bathing ordinance that provided curtains for bathing suits and put dimpled knees in the same oblivion that some styles of hairdressing put women's ears.

But the cold facts of this outrage are these. She is Miss Elsie Wallace of Long Beach, L. I., in a bathing suit in her mother's time.

MISSIONARY WORK PRIZE IS AWARDED

Omaha Boys and Girls Are Winners of Presbyterian Junior Banner

The junior banner for 100 per cent efficiency in missionary work was awarded to the boys and girls of Omaha, Neb., at a session of the Woman's General Missionary Society of the United Presbyterian Churches, conducted yesterday afternoon at the First United Presbyterian Church.

Another feature of the afternoon session was the singing to the tune of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," an original poem by Miss Kate Hill, field secretary of the society, the poem having been dedicated "To the W.G.M.S."

Last night was home mission night at the church, and the program included songs and recitations by Italian children of Los Angeles, an address by Mrs. A. E. Little on "Our Italian Children in America," and a discussion of "The Work for Our Mountain People," by Miss Ada St. Clair. Miss Jessie Warren spoke on "Missionary Work Among the Colored People," and Rev. R. H. Barr gave an address on "The Indians."

The convention will close today with the business meeting and election of officers, to be conducted at the church, starting at 9:30 a.m. Tomorrow the guests will be taken on an automobile trip, with lunch at Long Beach, and on Friday the visitors will enjoy a visit to Santa Ana.

Y.M.C.A. WORKERS HOLD SESSION HERE

ASSEMBLAGE CONSIDERS MANY PROBLEMS CONNECTED WITH ASSOCIATION

Employed officers of the Y.M.C.A. all over Southern California met yesterday at the Hollywood Association Building for a discussion of problems met in Y.M.C.A. work and to lay plans for the work to be done and the goals which are to be set for the coming months.

The conference, attended by more than fifty secretaries, assistant secretaries, boys' workers and athletic directors from various towns in Southern California, started at 9:45 yesterday morning and ended at 3 in the afternoon.

Following the conference, a visit was paid to Universal City where the representatives were shown over the lot and given an inside view of moving pictures.

IMPORTANCE OF FOOD KNOWLEDGE IS TOLD

The importance of teaching school children the necessity for living and eating properly was brought out yesterday in two talks before bodies of parents by Dr. Frank McCoy, well known dietitian and food expert. Dr. McCoy is making a series of talks before Parent-Teacher Associations throughout the city. Yesterday he addressed the parents of children from the Yordale and Rowan schools. Stating that a large number of people die annually from over-eating or indulging in improper food combinations, Dr. McCoy pointed out the necessity for properly educating the child.

Most bees lead a solitary and not a social communal life like that of the honeybee and bumblebee.

HARDING'S SHIP PUTS INTO PORT

Henderson Arrives With 200 Naval Officers; Is Bound for Seattle

The U. S. S. Henderson, crack ship of the Naval Transport Service, arrived at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday from Hampton Roads, enroute to Seattle. At the Puget Sound port she will take on board President Harding and his party for the chief executive's tour of Alaska.

Approximately 200 naval officers and their families came in yesterday from the East Coast on the Henderson. Numbered among them are fifty officers who will figure in the wholesale shift of commands of the U.S. Battle Fleet when Admiral Samuel S. Robinson relieves Admiral Edward W Eberle at San Francisco on the 30th inst. The Henderson will sail for San Francisco this morning after taking aboard fifty passengers at this port.

President Harding, due here August 1, after the return from his Alaskan tour, will emuark for the Canal and Porto Rico at San Diego on the Shipping Board liner President Harrison. It was announced at the port yesterday.

The President Harrison, which is operated in the Los Angeles-South American service of Swayne & Hoyt, Inc., is now being refitted at Seattle at a cost of approximately $250,000 in preparation for the Presidential voyage. She will carry the usual passengers for Porto Rico, Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires in addition to the Presidential party. It was announced yesterday by Hugh B. Fitzpatrick, Southern California manager for Swayne & Hoyt.

Asserted Trip to Tijuana Cited in Divorce Bill

An asserted visit by his wife to Tijuana in the company of another man was used by Harmon Buckley in a divorce complaint filed against Mrs. Hattie Buckley. Mr. Buckley said his wife told him she intended to visit a girl friend but that when she came back three days later he learned she had been to Tijuana. The husband said his wife made frequent visits, and usually said, "It is none of your business," when asked where she had been.

CORNHUSKER PICNIC

Nebraska Alumni Will Meet At Gurdon Wattles Home Saturday

Alumni and former students of the University of Nebraska will have their annual spring picnic in the Wattles gardens at 1910 Curson avenue, Hollywood, at 11 a.m. Saturday. Mrs. Gurdon Wattles, formerly head of the department of domestic science at the University, will be hostess. A basket dinner will be served at 1 p.m. At 4 p.m. pictures of the Nebraska-Notre Dame football game last Thanksgiving day will be shown in the auditorium at Hollywood High School. The committee in charge is William J. Bryan, Jr., president, C. R. Welden, Edward Ohlson and Harry Minor.

DRUG SALE CHARGED

Manuel Barillo was taken into custody yesterday by narcotic agents, at the intersection of San Pedro and Commercial streets, on a charge of selling morphine to one of the arresting officers. He is in the County Jail.

FURNITURE FIRM HAS BIRTHDAY

Los Angeles Company Has Been in Business for More Than Fifty Years

The Los Angeles Furniture Company is this month celebrating the fifty-third anniversary of its organization.

When this pioneer company was organized in 1870 under the firm name of Dotter and Bradley, it was located on North Main street opposite the old Baker block, which then was considered in the heart of the city's best business center.

For fourteen years the company flourished, increasing its stock and space as the city grew until it was recognized as one of the leading business establishments of Southern California. Later, in 1884, the company was incorporated and the name changed to the Los Angeles Furniture Company under which it has been known ever since. The first president of the corporation was H. H. Markham, once Governor of California, while Gen. E. P. Johnson was secretary.

In 1905 Charles B. Fredericks purchased the capital stock and associated with him Gillingham O'Daniel as vice-president and W. W. Wier as secretary.

After Mr. Fredericks became head of the company, the seven story building, looked upon in those days as a skyscraper, at 420-424 South Spring street, became the new home of the corporation. New departments were added and a costly stock of furniture was purchased.

Following Mr. Fredericks death, Mrs. Katherine Fredericks became president of the store and through her management the concern has prospered.

Three years ago on account of an increase in business, the company was forced to move from its Spring street location to the building it now occupies at 720-22 South Hill street.

GIRLS WILL PLANT IVY ON CAMPUS

Senior Class of University of Southern California in Annual Ceremonial

Ceremonies dating back to the founding of the university will take place today when the senior class of the University of Southern California takes part in Ivy Day. It will be the last appearance of the class of '23 in a campus ceremonial, as tomorrow is commencement.

The Ivy Day procession starts at 2:30 p.m., with the juniors holding garlands of ivy. Senior trophies will be passed on to the class of '24, the class presidents will smoke the pipe of peace and the classes will bury the hatchet.

The class gift, a bell, will be presented by Miss Violet Weisseman, and Dr. R. B. Von KleinSmid will accept it on behalf of the university. Then the class numerals will be unveiled and the class ivy planted. In the evening the seniors will entertain the juniors at the armory in Exposition Park.

The commencement exercises of the high school department will be held this evening in Bovard Auditorium, with Dr. H. J. Stonier presiding. Prof. Karl Knopf will give the commencement address. First scholarship honors go to Geraldeane Lester, second to Doland Henry Mugridge and third to Gladys Eldora Johnson. Sixteen graduates receive recommendations for college entrance.

The first all-university alumni banquet will follow the commencement exercises tomorrow, and will be held in the gymnasium. Dr. Von KleinSmid, Coach Henderson and Yell Leader Bothwell with several speakers representing departments will be on the program. Nominations for the board of directors are Lloyd Wright, law; Dr. John O. Stoker, dentistry; Charles W. Sweggitt, pharmacy; Tacie N. Hanna, school of speech; C. C. Scott, commerce; Prof. Hugh C. Willett, liberal arts; Miss Lillian Backstrand, music; A. Z. Taft, Judge Houser and Linton H. Smith, alumni at large. One thousand are expected to be present.

RAMMED TUG ALMOST READY FOR SERVICE

RECONDITIONING OF VESSEL COMPLETED IN RECORD PERIOD

The sea-going tug Bahada, rammed and sunk off Breakwater Light two months ago with the loss of one of her crew, by the Standard Oil tanker Richmond, is scheduled to return to active service within a week after one of the outstanding salvage and repair jobs in Pacific marine annals. A local shipyard reconditioned the boat at an approximate cost of $30,000 it was announced yesterday by Capt. W. H. Wiemers, port captain for her operators, the Wilmington Transportation Company.

Capt. Wiemers also announced the addition of two powerful Diesel tugs to the towing fleet of the Wilmington Transportation Company. They are the David F. Fleming and the D. M. Renton, sister craft of 400 horsepower each. Both are nearing completion at a harbor boatbuilding plant and will be used in harbor operation exclusively.

G. R. LACEY DIES AT PARENTS' HOME

George R. Lacey, 31 years of age, died yesterday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lacey, at 1141 Laveta Terrace, after a long illness. Mr. Lacey was unmarried. He leaves his parents, who have lived in Los Angeles for thirty-five years, and a brother, Frederick Lacey of the District Attorney's office. Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilshire undertaking establishment at 717 West Washington street at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

WREATH OF FAMILY-TREE LEAVES

Human Hair Used in Unusual Manner

Anton Dahl and Hair Wreath

HERE is an idea to supplant the family tree that may "get over" in Russia but in some other less hirsute nationalities it would have to skip a generation here and there—unless only the women members participated.

In comic strips, motion pictures and possibly in real life Russians are noted for their luxuriant beards, whiskers, dewlaps, wild and tamed brush of all styles. In the wild state this growth knows no metes and bounds. It just rambles where it may—like the brook in Tennyson's well-known poetic effusion. When cultivated, waxed and trimmed—although less inspiring—the Russian's whiskers are still the predominating part of his physiognomy.

For nine generations the Russian family of Dahl has clipped locks from the heads of members which have been woven into the wreath, which in the photograph is shown in the hands of Anton Dahl, of Los Angeles. It will take five centuries to complete. At present it is 200 years old.

If this substitute for family trees gains popularity in America some of the baldpated members of families may have to urge an amendment to provide that those not possessing sufficient hair on their heads may grow beards.

NEW STAR BLAZES FORTH

Carl Laemmle Sees in Mary Philbin One of Greatest Emotional Actresses of Day

Two stars of the Universal Pictures Corporation have been definitely promoted to "special" ranking.

The tempo of the career of Mary Philbin, "Merry-Go-Round" "discovery" is surpassed right now. The emotional beauty, brought to light in the spectacle film of wartime Vienna and now loaned to Frank Borzage for one picture, is the subject of a proclamation from Carl Laemmle, president of Universal.

"She will be one of the best emotional actresses of all time," is the substance of his opinion.

FOUR PRODUCTIONS

In line with this opinion he has announced that four Universal-Jewel productions will be made each year with Miss Philbin in the featured role. Each of them will be made with discriminating use of the best materials in stories, directors and casts. Some stories will be written especially for her in order that the emotional depths will be vividly recorded on the screen that were brought out in "Merry-Go-Round."

Reginald Denny, hero of "The Leather Pushers," the H. C. Witwer two-reelers of the prize ring, and "The Abyamal Brute," Jack London's novel, is the other player destined for the higher-class stardom.

The insistent demand for more of "The Leather Pushers" from exhibitors throughout the world drew Denny back after "The Abysmal Brute" into these short subjects again. But now the third series is finished and henceforth his schedule will be four Universal-Jewels a year. One well-known stage play and one popular novel are now being considered for his first effort in this class.

LETTER THEFT IS CHARGED

L. A. Nims and Norman Stockley were arraigned before Commissioner Long, yesterday, on the charge of stealing a letter containing a government check calling for the payment of $25. The bond in each case was fixed at $1000, and the hearing set for the 30th inst.

FAIRBANKS BUYS MORE PLASTER

Actor Admits Set Is Not "Largest in World;" Hopes It's Unique

Douglas Fairbanks today ordered another ton and a half of plaster for the sets now under construction for his new film play, "The Thief of Bagdad," on which he will commence actual production within the next few days.

In ordering this plaster, Doug specified that "it is not for the biggest motion-picture set ever built." It seems there are several "biggest motion-picture sets ever built" now under construction in or near Los Angeles but the Fairbanks City of Bagdad replica is not in this category, according to the star.

"We are doing what we hope will be a unique and effective thing," said Doug, "but we are going after results and not worrying about dimensions."

TO CONSIDER ALL-NATIONS FETE PLANS

July 18 Tentatively Set for Revue at Motion-Picture Industrial Show

Details for an All-Nations Day in connection with the coming American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Industrial Exposition will be worked out at a luncheon at noon today at Paulais by the exposition management to representatives of more than a dozen foreign and Latin-American countries.

The directors of the exposition have tentatively set Wednesday, July 18, as All-Nations' Day. Although plans have been made to make practically every feature of the celebration of international significance, particularly the historical pageants, this date has been set aside as one of special interest to visitors and envoys from foreign lands.

Announcement has been made that a delegation of members of Latin-American Diplomatic Corps will leave Washington next week, arriving here in time for the premiere, July 2. They will be accorded special honor on the opening day.

Several groups of citizens from southern republics who now reside in Los Angeles are planning special fetes and tableaux to be given on All-Nations' Day.

Among those who accepted invitations to attend today's meeting are: Manuel Ayulo, Consul of Peru; Cav. Fulgencio Guerriere, prominent Italian musical conductor; Lorrin Andrews, representing the Hawaiian Society; C. E. Roberts, Consul of Costa Rica and Vice-Consul of Guatemala; H. C. Niese, Vice-Consul or Argentina; L. P. Gamba, Consul of Colombia; Charles Winsel, Consul of Belgium; Robert E. Tracy, Consul of Salvador; Dr. Jose Saena, Consul of Cuba; Leandro Garza-Leal, Consul of Mexico; Enrico Piana, Consular Agent of Italy, and John Stephenson, Norwegian author.

It was pointed out that these men in co-operating with the Exposition are acting as individual and not in an official capacity.

HOLLYWOOD YOUTH AWARDED YALE CUP

WINS TROPHY FOR MERIT IN STUDIES, SPORTS AND LEADERSHIP

Sidney Meeks, president of the Boys' League of Hollywood High School and captain of the champion track team, has been awarded the Yale Club Cup, it was announced yesterday.

The cup is given yearly to the Southern California high school pupil who excels all others in scholarship, leadership and athletic ability, and is considered the highest honor that can possibly be obtained by a pupil of California high schools.

Meeks, in four years at the Hollywood school, is credited with leading the entire student body in his studies as well as on the athletic field. He is also recognized as one of the school boy leaders, being, in addition to president of the Boys' League, the editor of the school annual, "the Poinsettia" and holding other important positions in various school bodies.

Formal presentation of the cup of the Yale Club will be made to Mr. Meeks at the assembly on Friday by Dr. R. M. Dodsworth of Long Beach and George H. Seward, of Hollywood, as representatives of the Yale Club of Southern California.

BIBLE CLASS GRADUATES TOMORROW

Los Angeles Institute Will Give Diplomas to Record Class of Students

The largest class ever to have been graduated from the Bible Institute of Los Angeles will conduct commencement exercises at the institute tomorrow evening. Dr. R. A. Torrey, dean of the institute, will preach the baccalaureate sermon.

Diplomas will be presented by Lyman Stewart, president of the Bible institute, to 136 students. The graduating class includes students from twenty-three different denominations, representing twenty-six States and seventeen foreign countries. The function of the Bible Istitute is to prepare young men and women for the ministry, missionary work and other important positions in the church.

The program tomorrow evening will consist of a musical entertainment, including the new class song by Maybelle L. Hood and Leona P. Davis, and prayers, scripture readings and addresses by Revs. T. C. Horton, J. A. MacInnis, Ralph Atkinson and W. H. Pike.

The alumni concert will be given at 3 p.m. next Friday and the alumni dinner at 6 p.m. on the same day.

Wife is Accused of Over Eating, She Tells Court

Mrs. Pauline Lawton was awarded $50 a month temporary alimony by Judge Summerfield of the Superior Court yesterday in an alimony hearing in which Frank H. Lawton was the defendant. A divorce complaint has been filed by the wife and is pending.

In this complaint Mrs. Lawton says that her husband thought her appetite too voracious. On one occasion, she says, her husband asked her, "Why are you always hungry?"

The death of her sister gave her husband another opportunity to air his views on economy, she asserts.

On this occasion, she declares in the complaint, he asked her why she should waste perfectly good money "on a dead one," when she purchased flowers for her sister's funeral. Mrs. Lawton is represented by Attorney E. Marion Crawford.

Last Day for Filing Eletion Cost Accounts

Today is the last day under the law in which candidates for office at the June 5 city election may file with City Clerk Dominguez affidavits of their campaign expenses.

These expenses must not exceed 10 per cent of the first year's salary of the office to which the candidate sought election. In the case of a Councilman the limit for personal expenses is $340.

A number of affidavits have already been filed. Councilman Allan, high man in the councilmanic race, spent $152.70. Mrs. Elizabeth Louise Clark, who led the Board of Education ticket, spent $28.50. President Criswell of the Council spent $125, while Councilman Sparks, who was defeated, spent $310.

PASADENA HOST TO ADVERTISING MEN

LOS ANGELES CLUB CHANGES MEETING PLACE FOR SPECIAL PROGRAM

The scene of the regular weekly meeting of the Advertising Club of Los Angeles was changed this week to Brookside Park, Pasadena, where the Pasadena contingent entertained with a barbecue lunch, reminiscent of the old Spanish days.

The club listened to a most interesting talk by Capt. Cyril Turner, the aviator who has been writing his advertising message in letters of smoke a mile long in the sky. Ted Little, pinch hitting for Robert P. Crane, told how Pasadent is putting her advertising messages across.

The Pasadena fire department band and the Pasadena Elks' quartet provided music between numbers on the program.

At the conclusion of the luncheon the bunch adjourned to the playground where foot races were run and a ball game played, and while Harry Carroll pitched a whale of a game, it was of no avail and his team lost to the one captained by Ted Little.

FIELD DAYS PLANNED AT FORT MacARTHUR

PUBLIC INVITED TO INSPECT COAST FORTIFICATIONS AND DETACHMENT

In keeping with the recently-adopted policy of the War Department to familiarize the public with the machinery of national defense, the first of a series of field days will be conducted Saturday afternoon at Fort MacArthur, to which the public is invited, according to Maj. George Ruhlin, Jr., commanding officer.

Saturday will be officially known as Long Beach day. City officials of Long Beach will be guests of honor and citizens of that place are expected to attend in a body.

The program will include a review of the Coast Artillery detachment, demonstration of features of coast defense and firing of antiaircraft guns and mortars.

Officers at the fort have been detailed to conduct the visitors about the fortifications to explain coast defense machinery.

MISS STONE GIVES TALK FOR MUSIC

Influence of Harmony on Character Development is Theme Before N.N.T.A.

The influence of music in the development of character was discussed by Katheryn Stone, supervisor of music in the graded schools of Los Angeles, in an address given yesterday at the First Emerson Church before the delegates to the National New Thought Association convention.

"The teaching of music should include the inculcation into the mind of the pupil of a sense of harmony and an appreciation of correct tones, and the lessons thus learned have an effect for good upon the character of the student," said Miss Stone.

Among other speakers on the programs yesterday afternoon and evening were Miss Flora Smith, head of immigrant education in the Los Angeles public schools; Katherine Kent Althouse, president of the N.N.T.A.; Dr. Frederic Woellner of the department of education, U.S.C., and Dr. Frederick F. Strong.

The principal feature of today's program will be the election of officers of the National New Thought Association at a meeting to be conducted at 6:45 p.m. at the First Emerson Church, 909 South Lake street.

At 2 p.m. today the speaker will be F. B. Arnold, who will discuss "Selling the Intangible." The public is invited to the afternoon meeting and also to the program at the Burlington Apartments this evening, when Prof. H. La Verne Twining of the department of science, Polytechnic High School, will speak on "Relativity."

Meetings to which the public is invited will be conducted at the First Emerson Church at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. tomorrow. On Friday, following a luncheon at 1308 West Seventh street, the delegates will be taken to sight-seeing trips in and near Los Angeles.

Actor Indicted on Mann Act Charges Here

Edward Francis Howard Gaye, film actor, who is out on bail on a Mann Act charge in connection with the asserted transportation of Fanchon F. Duncan from Canada to the United States and on various trips in this country and abroad, has been indicted by the Federal grand jury and will be served with a new warrant, it was stated yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Rice. The hearing, which had been set for this morning before United States Commissioner Long, will not be held and Gaye will be required to furnish new bail, Mr. Rice said.

Gaye is charged with having traveled with Mrs. Duncan from Montreal to New York in August, 1921, then to Los Angeles and back to New York, and to France and return, registering at various hotels as man and wife.

Mrs. Duncan, although for some time separated from her husband, is asserted by Federal agents not to have been divorced.

Arthur Letts Is Named Director of Local Bank

The election of Arthur Letts as a member of the board of directors of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank was announced Monday by Jay Spence, vice-president and cashier, following a meeting of the board.

Mr. Letts was recently elected president of the Broadway Department Store, succeeding his father who died recently.

Other personal matters acted upon by the board of directors included the appointment of H. P. Ahlswede as a member of the executive board of the Long Beach branches; W. W. Parsons, manager of the savings department of the Fidelity branch, Fresno, as mortgage loan officer, Fresno; H. M. Palmer as manager of the Big Bear Lake branch at Pine Knot and J. F. Dickerson as pro manager of the Long Beach branches.

Metro Elects House Peters for New Film

House Peters has been signed to play one of the most important roles in Metro's next all-star production, "Held to Answer," from the Peter Clark McFarlane story, it was announced yesterday by Milton E. Hoffman, production manager at the Metro Studio.

The production will be started the latter part of this week, under the direction of Harold Shaw, who is now supervising the selection of a complete cast.

"Held to Answer" has been adapted for the screen by Winifred Dunn. It is the story of an actor who leaves the stage to found a "church of the open door" in the slums of San Francisco. The part assigned to Mr. Peters is said to measure up to those which he has recently completed in "The Storm," "Human Hearts" and "Lost and Found."

Lasky Inquiry to Continue in Philadelphia

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE.)

NEW YORK, June 19.—The government today ended its local investigation of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, charged with being a monopoly, and will resume inquiry at Philadelphia on the 25th inst.

Defense testimony introduced today was designed to show that the corporation was within its rights in leasing or building competitive theaters in cities where local exhibitors refused to show its films.

AUTO LINE ASKS HEAVY DAMAGES

Imperial Stage Company is Seeking $507,000

Charges United Corporation Used Its Franchise

State Rail Body Ruling is Basis for Suits

EL CENTRO, June 19. — Damages aggregating $507,000 are sought in cross-complaints filed by Imperial Valley automobile-stage operators against the United Stages Corporation, asserting that the corporation has used franchises of the defendants for five years. The complaints were filed in answer to complaints against the valley men by the stage corporation asking the court to prevent it from operating stage lines in this county.

The suits are the outgrowth of an order of the State Railroad Commission directing O. D. Hadley, E. C. Willis and Frederick Ernsting to cease operation of stage lines in Imperial county as the United Stages Corporation has a franchise from the State. Other stage operators included in the suits re W. P. Updegraf, C. O. McClung and William Whittle.

Justice of the Peace L. Mayfield is this week holding preliminary hearings for several stage operators including Hadley, Willis, and Ernsting on a charge of violating the Railroad Commission's order to stop operating stage lines in the valley. There are sixteen defendants in these cases.

READY FOR COURTHOUSE

Contracts for the construction of Imperial county's new courthouse are to be signed this week by contractors who were successful bidders. The building is to cost almost $400,000. Several Los Angeles contractors will do parts of the work.

ENGINEER DIES

W. A. Campbell, reclamation engineer, died at Jacumba Sunday after an illness of several months. Campbell was a graduate of the engineering department of the University of Pennsylvania and in 1908 was employed in the construction of Laguna Dam in the Colorado River by the United States Reclamation Service near Yuma. For several years he was identified with engineering work in the lower Colorado district and for the last five years has been on the Imperial irrigation district engineering staff.

NEW STATIONS PLANNED

New passenger stations are to be built at Brawley, El Centro and Calipatria soon after the cantaloupe season ends, according to W. H. Whalen, division superintendent of the Southern Pacific Company. The cost of the three structures is expected to be almost $150,000. New sidings are to be constructed at El Centro, Calexico and Heber. Other improvements are planned by the railroad company, including additional spurs and sidings to enable the company to handle more efficiently the steadily increasing volume of produce being shipped from Imperial Valley.

ASSERTS HIS BROTHER IS LOVE THIEF

Barrier Asks Divorce and $25,000 in Form of Heart Balm in Two Suits

The asserted infatuation of his wife for his brother, George C. Barrier, is made the basis of two suits filed yesterday by Thomas Walter Barrier, one against the wife and the other against the brother.

In the first suit, Thomas Barrier demands an absolute decree of divorce from his wife, Madaline, and names his brother as co-respondent, and in the second complaint he seeks $25,000 damages from his brother for asserted alienation of his wife's affections.

He was happily married, the husband says, in the divorce complaint, when his brother, George, came to live with them in March, 1922. Before many days had passed George began making love to his sister-in-law, Thomas declares, and finally succeeded in winning her affections. Thomas saw the romance between his wife and his brother budding under his very eyes, he says, and attempted to eject George from his house, but the wife opposed this with so much vigor that he finally gave up the attempt.

Thomas also charges that his wife permitted his brother to "kiss, fondle and caress" her in his presence. Both brothers are railroad men and George, who is older, is said to be the possessor of considerable property.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrier were married June 27, 1913, and separated May 15 last. They have one child. Attorney Will H. Light prepared the suits.

Mining School Head Speaks to Past Students

Dr. Victor Clifton Alderson, president of the Colorado School of Mines, addressed former students of that institution at a dinner and meeting of the Alumni Association of that school at the University Club last night.

"The Colorado School of Mines is the largest school in the world, devoted to the study of mining engineering," Dr. Alderson said. "Last year 530 students were in attendance. It is the only school that has instituted and organized a branch of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps without government compulsion and it is worthy of note that last year twenty-eight men were commissioned second lieutenants in the U.S.A., due to the training that they had received at the school."

Max W. Ball, president of the Utet Petroleum Company of Denver, Colo., who is also president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, gave a short talk on the petroleum industry and announced that the first meeting of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, west of the Rocky Mountains, would be in Los Angeles, on September 20, 21 and 22, of this year. Sixty-five graduates attended the dinner.

TO HAVE DELEGATES AT BANK CONVENTION

Three delegates will represent the First National-Pacific-Southwest banking group at the annual convention of the American Institute of Banking in Cleveland, July 6-20.

The two representatives from The First National Bank of Los Angeles will be J. W. Alabaster and W. B. Whitney, C. E. Lones, manager of the South Park and Vernon Branch of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Saving Bank, will represent the latter institution.

ART STUDENTS HELD AS FORGERY SUSPECTS

Lawrence Mins, 24 years of age, and Len W. Stockley, 27, former service men, enrolled as art students at the University of Southern California, were arrested last night by Detectives Lloyd and Roberds on charges of suspicion of forgery of government pay checks. The amount of money asserted to have been involved was $20, officers stated.

BUSINESS GAINS IN SAN JOAQUIN

Poultry and Dairy Industry Prosper in May

Visalia Asks New Station From Santa Fe

Success Slogan is Revived by Porterville

TULARE, June 19.—Volume of business transacted by the Tulare Co-operative Poultry Association during the month of May, 1923, exceeded all previous records for the corresponding month by a handsome figure, according to report at the regular monthly meeting of directors. May of 1923 also gained more than $9000 over business for the same month last year.

The new high mark for May is $32,000. Eggs were sold to the amount of $14,000; poultry, $6000; feeds and supplies amounting to $10,000 were received and placed, and $3000 in baby chicks were sold. Prices for May eggs were set at 25 and 20 cents, as against 22 and 16 cents a year ago.

Rapid development of the industry has caused the association to outgrow present quarters and a move will soon be made to a new location on North J street, occupied formerly by the McCullough Provision Company.

Rooms and equipment at the new plant are being remodeled and a five-year lease has been taken to insure larger and better quarters. With addition of a modern refrigerating plant, poultry will be fed and dressed this fall. Outgoing eggs will be properly cooled before shipping.

CREAMERIES PROSPER

May proved to be one of the most prosperous months ever witnessed by local creameries and the dairymen serving them. Despite the fact that total production fell slightly, cream and milk prices advanced and total pay rolls for the month aggregate but a small amount less than those for April. This is one of the most encouraging periods of the dairying industry for the San Joaquin Valley.

May pay rolls of the local creameries totaled $194,794.91, while April checks amounted to $196,752.70, a difference of less than $2000. May prices were 50 cents for churning cream, 54 cents for sweet cream and 62 cents for milk, as against April prices of 48 cents for churning cream, 51 and 52 cents for sweet cream and 61 cents for milk.

It is the general belief that demand for dairy products is increasing throughout the nation and that a comparatively firm market will result henceforth.

NEW STATION WANTED

VISALIA, June 19.—A separate freight station for the Santa Fe in Visalia is asked by the Visalia Commercial Club, it being the contention that increase in business in Visalia with this railroad company is sufficient to warrant such improvement. George C. Cobb, T. C. Hume and R. K. Morey were named as a committee to take the matter up with the Santa Fe officials. The Santa Fe has ample property in the next block for the building of such a depot.

The club also discussed an invitation extended from the County Council Boy Scouts to attend the Boy Scout camp above Three Rivers on the 23rd inst., when an entertainment will be given by the Elks and business men's lodges of the county.

PEST FIGHT WINNING

VISALIA, June 19.—Abatement work is now well under way, according to recent report of the Kaweah Mosquito Abatement District Trustees. Over 200 gallons of oil has been sprayed on the mosquito-infested areas in the city, and surrounding territory and ten men have been cleaning up along Mill Creek and other swampy places preparatory to oiling.

Hereafter a man will be employed throughout the year so that the work may be started earlier in the season. It is predicted that people of Visalia will enjoy much greater freedom from the pest this season.

Trustees of the mosquito abatement district are: E. I. Feemster, president; Mrs. M. K. Small, secretary; M. S. Blois, H. H. Holley and Dr. R. H. Deming.

SLOGAN REVIVED

PORTERVILLE, June 19.—"Porterville People Prosper," is the slogan of the local Chamber of Commerce. It originated as a now famous range sticker and this mode of use is to be revived, by decision of the directors. As large as saucers these orange stickers will tell the world that "Porterville people prosper." Loyal boosters, whether leaving on vacation trips or not, are asked to place the bit of advertising on their windshields and tell the rest of the county about their sister town.

EARLY CLOSING ASKED

LINDSAY, June 19.—Movement has been started by the Commercial Booster Club for a 1 o'clock closing hour on Saturdays, or 6 o'clock in the evening as an alternative. Near-by towns will be asked to join in the movement, which has been approved by the District Federation of Women's Clubs. A committee appointed by President A. E. Skinner will confer with secretaries of business organizations in adjacent centers, while another will secure local opinion. Stores now remain open until 9 p.m.

CLUBROOMS CAMPAIGN

LINDSAY, June 19.—C. O. Griffin of Lindsay has been named chairman of the publicity committee of the American Legion of Tulare county in a campaign to secure public approval of the Legion plan for establishing clubrooms for ex-service men in various centers of the county as a memorial to World War heroes. County aid in the project is sought. Speakers will appear before farm centers, civic organizations and lodges for indorsements. The Tulare County Council, American Legion, will meet twice monthly during the summer to hear reports of the campaign and to take such action as seems advisable.

FIREMEN ELECT OFFICERS

PORTERVILLE, June 19.—Ross A Gardner will again head Porterville volunteer firemen as Chief for the coming year, according to report of B. J. Sutherland, secretary. At the annual meeting other officers also elected were: Rodger Garrett, president; W. Robson, vice-president; Bert J. Sutherland, secretary; Karl Bergioff, treasurer.

SCOTS TO CELEBRATE

The annual Bannockburn celebration of the Scots of Los Angeles will be conducted Friday evening at Symphony Hall, 252 South Hill street, under the auspices of the Caledonian Club.

GEN. GRANT'S SERVANT DIES

J. J. Bond Succumbs Suddenly on Train; Served as Valet for War Hero in Philadelphia

The last private valet and butler to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant in Philadelphia, J. J. Bond, 68 years of age, Los Angeles, died suddenly in a Pullman car yesterday morning east of Wymore, Neb., while en route to visit a daughter in Jacksonville, Ill., according to dispatches received by relatives here.

J. J. Bond

Death is supposed by relatives to have been caused by a second stroke of paralysis. He suffered a stroke two weeks before leaving his home at 3886 South Harvard Boulevard. Mrs. Bond died following a similar attack eight months ago while in the East.

Mr. Bond left Los Angeles on the 8th inst. for Denver to transact business in connection with a ranch of 1800 acres he owned there. He was accompanied by W. G. Wilber, his business associate in the operation of the Lennox Hotel at 317 South Flower street.

Mr. Bond was born in England and for two years served as chief butler to Lord Hampton in London. He came to America in 1876, shortly afterward entering the service of Gen. Grant, remaining until the war here died. He then went to Illinois, then on to Nebraska and later to Denver, where he amassed a fortune. He came to Los Angeles six years ago.

Mr. Bond is survived by a daughter in Illinois, sister in England and another sister, Mrs. Charles Reeks, of Long Beach. The body will be returned to Los Angeles for burial.
